HUGE JAIL-BREAK PLOT FOILED

BERLIN DEFIANT; URGES STRIKERS NOT TO GIVE IN

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

DUESSELDORF, Feb. 1.—Honors were about even on the twenty-second day of the gigantic economic battle now being waged between the French and the Germans. Sober second thought is increasing and the scarcity of food and growing unemployment today caused a body of German workers to make their first appeal to the French for assistance since the troops entered the Ruhr.

Six thousand paper-mill workers, threatened with closure of the Duesseldorf plants owing to lack of coal, sent a delegation to Gen. Degoutte requested that the French supply fuel necessary for continuance of work. Gen. Degoutte answered that the German railway men were responsible by failure to transport coal into Duesseldorf, but that he would have coal brought to the paper mills.

WEAKNESS ADMITTED

The Germans scored when M. Frantzen, one of the leading engineers of the French economic mission, speaking officially to the correspondents, admitted that the work of the mission depended upon the return to the Ruhr of the coal syndicate and co-operation with the mission, virtually admitting that the French were powerless to work the Ruhr industries without the Germans.

The output of the mines is gradually dwindling, but the food situation appears to be the greatest argument favoring surrender of the population to the French arms.

The French quartermaster's department has issued information that the supply service to the French army of occupation is operating normally, five trains of foodstuffs, sufficient for the army's needs, reaching the Ruhr today, but the French authorities have informed the Germans they are unable to transport food to the Ruhr civilian population, adding that if the railway men continue their strike, causing their own compatriots to starve, the responsibility is theirs.

The Germans are resorting to acts of violence. Another attempt to burn the roundhouse at Mayence was partly successful today, while a German, caught in the act of trying to set fire to the Duisburg roundhouse and locomotive shops was struck over the head with a rifle butt by a Belgian sentry and his skull fractured. The sentry reported that the German tried to disarm him. The German will probably die.

The French refused to make any official statement as to whether the measure forbidding the export of coal and coke to unoccupied Germany inaugurated at midnight was completely successful; they say they have not yet received reports from all the frontier points.

The populations of Elberfeld and Barmen, just outside the occupation zone to the south, are greatly alarmed because the French outposts are only four miles from those cities, and they have begun to remove the books, records and archives of the cities and municipalities, as well as of private firms, farther into Germany. The French announced officially that they have no intention of extending the zone of occupation "for the present."

RIVER PACT IS RATIFIED AT CAPITAL

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—The Senate of the State Legislature tonight adopted a resolution ratifying the Santa Fe Colorado River pact. Similar action had heretofore been taken by the Assembly. The action was unanimous, but was preceded by a debate that lasted from early afternoon to 8 o'clock tonight.

The ratification vote followed the defeat, 29 to 10, of a motion by Senator Swing to delay consideration until after the constitutional recess.

Swing charged that California power companies desired quick ratification because they believed it would block passage of the Swing-Johnson bill providing for a Boulder Canyon dam.

"No harm can come from delay," Swing said. "We may make better terms by waiting. By ratifying now we would give away water rights it took years to acquire."

T. D. McCall, Imperial Valley rancher and representative of a faction which opposed immediate ratification, gave similar reasons for delay, in an address to the committee of the whole.

Atty.-Gen. Webb, however, recommended adoption at once for the reason that such action would serve to hasten ratification by the other signatory States.

The discussion, which opened before 4 p.m., waxed so warm around dinnertime that the Senators forgot their appetites and remained in continuous session until nearly 8:30 to dispose of the matter.

TEXAS FLOGGING QUIZ ENDS IN BLIND ALLEY

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

HOUSTON (Tex.) Feb. 1.—The county grand jury was adjourned today after declaring its inability to obtain from any source definite information on the flogging at Goose Creek on January 5 of Mrs. Audrey Harrison and R. A. Armand.

About fifty witnesses altogether were summoned from Goose Creek to testify with reference to the floggings.

Two arrests were made. The first man held was ordered released by the grand jury. The second was charged with assault to murder but his preliminary hearing was postponed indefinitely.

BLACK WAR IN GERMANY

Endurance Will Win Struggle for Coal in Ruhr; French Suffer Most, Germans Declare

BY GEORGE SELDES

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—Berlin heard semiofficially today that the Swedish Premier, Branting's proposals for peacemaking consists of two parts:

First: Germany must agree to accept a discussion of the French moratorium proposals;

Second: France to withdraw from the Ruhr, keeping only Essen as a guarantee.

Officials when asked regarding Germany's attitude to such proposals declared the French keeping Essen as a pawn would prevent serious consideration.

The beginning of the coal blockade today is heralded as the "opening of black war." Everyone is asking who will hold out the longest through the blockade, France or Germany. Herr Stinnes's newspapers declare Germany is best prepared.

The coal war is a war of life and death for both nations," says Herr Stinnes in a leading editorial. "In this war France is weaker than Germany. Germany can get along without France, but France cannot get along without Germany."

Everyone is asking when will the black hunger affect the masses?

Minister of Economics Becker declares there is two months' ample supply in Germany's homes and industries, and "everyday the French blockade is not enforced means a victory for Germany."

In Germany's central coal zones, centering in the town of Halle, miners are beginning to work overtime and Sundays.

Germany experienced a considerable shock over the mine disaster at Beuthen, where the deaths total 106 and the missing seventy.

Fire Causes Explosion

Fire, believed to have been caused by spontaneous combustion, caused slight damage to the store occupied by the Novelty Cloak and Suit Shop at 610 West Seventh street early this morning. The fire department prevented a serious blaze, as a gasoline tank exploded soon after the fire started, sweeping the rear room of the establishment with the blazing fluid and setting fire to piles of dress goods stored there. The cause of the fire was investigated by Lieut. Al Slaten of the police flying squadron.

Oranges Out of Danger

At that hour the thermometer here stood at 38 deg. and in the citrus sections of the county ranged from 38 to 42 deg. Growers said they doubted that the temperature would drop sufficiently to endanger oranges.

RICHARDSON KEEPS ECONOMY PLEDGE; SLICES $12,000,000

BY KYLE D. PALMER

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—With the submission to the Legislature today of a biennial budget calling for a total appropriation of $78,974,628.55, Gov. Richardson has fulfilled to the letter his pre-election economy pledge to the people of California. His budget recommendations provide for a net reduction of $12,025,371.45 under the biennial expenditures approved by Gov. Stephens two years ago.

The estimated revenue of the State for the biennium is $80,037,000, affording a surplus unappropriated by the Governor's budget of $1,062,371, and making unnecessary any additional taxation by the present Legislature. Should the Legislature, however, vote appropriations over the Governor's veto in excess of $1,062,371, an ad valorem, or direct property tax, will be necessary to meet additional expenditure.

The first gust of the storm that Gov. Richardson has repeatedly said he expected the budget to raise, was produced by Will C. Wood, Superintendent of Public Instruction. Mr. Wood gave out a prepared statement, which follows in part:

"The educational budget presented by Gov. Richardson is a gruesome jest at the sincerity of campaign pledges. It represents what is evidently a deliberate effort to starve the institutions of the State Department of Education that train teachers for the common school. Either the Governor's budget for the Department of Education is woefully inefficient or hopelessly extravagant. I welcome a chance to make this a clear-cut issue.

"The budget practically wrecks the Department of Education of this State, which is recognized throughout the nation as one of the most progressive, efficient and ecenomical."

For the first time in the history of California, a State administration has failed to demand an increase in appropriations over the preceding year or biennium. The biennial increase from 1919 to 1921 was approximately $39,000,000, and the increase over the six-year period former Gov. Stephens was chief executive of the State, from 1915 to 1921, approximated $56,000,000.

And hence, as Gov. Richardson explained in his straight-to-the-point message to the Legislature today, the budget for 1923 and 1924 not only represents a reduction of more than $12,000,000 under the total appropriations of 1921, but, in halting the former rate of increase in expenditures, represents a further saving of approximately $70,000,000, "which might have been piled on the people, had the orgy of political extravagance continued."

FOES DISAPPOINTED

Those who have been waiting eagerly for a chance to howl "calamity" over anticipated slashes in appropriations for educational and humane functions of government are afforded no opportunity for justifiable complaint.

Appropriations provided for education by Gov. Richardson's budget represent more than 60 per cent of the total and State hospitals and institutions have been adequately provided for.

The Governor's message accompanying his executive budget does not mince words as to the necessity for governmental economy of the most frugal kind and the statement as a whole is a direct challenge to pork barrel legislators either to abandon their plans for huge special appropriations or answer directly to the people for added items of expense.

One of the most vigorous passages of the message apparently is inspired by the activities of Superintendent of Public Instruction Wood, who has been chief among the group of State officials and members of the old Stephens-McCabe political machine fighting the new Governor and his program.

Urging thrift in the schools, the Governor asserts:

"The recommendations made for the schools are undoubtedly greater than they should be, but it has been my purpose to be liberal in the matter of education. Extravagance in educational matters has run riot during the past few years. Politicians in the guise of educators have squandered the people's money with a lavish hand and have denounced advocates of thrift as enemies of education.

"A great political organization has been built up which has cost the people an immense sum but has added little to the value of education given school children. The laws have been cunningly amended so that supervisors, school boards and boards of education have little control over the expenditures of school money and hence cannot check extravagance.

Desperate Criminals Captured

Two gangs of desperate criminals, in all nine men and four women, asserted by the police to have been operating in Los Angeles and near-by cities for the past two or three months, were lodged in the City Jail shortly before dawn today. The arrests frustrated plans for a gigantic jail break in the Riverside County Jail, according to the police.

Police detectives, Sheriff Ryan of Riverside county and two detectives of the theft bureau of the Automobile Club of Southern California participated in the gang arrests, both of which were made separately.

Investigation of the activities of Jack Depew and Harold Berry, the latter an asserted ex-convict arrested at Desert Center three days ago by Deputy Sheriff S. A. Ragsdale, who overpowered the pair in a gun duel, led to the arrest of other members of their gang in this city.

MAKE NIGHT ROUND-UP

With information secured from the two prisoners Sheriff Ryan of Riverside came to Los Angeles yesterday and the round-up of the members of the gang was started late last night. Six detectives—Yarrow, Williams, Davidson, Vale, Jackson and Ellis—with Sheriff Ryan, surrounded a house near Seventh and Bixel streets a few hours after midnight and surprised the occupants while they were in bed.

Three men and two women were arrested at this place and a quantity of loot, much of which probably will be identified as stolen property, was loaded away by the officers. Ray Walker, 22 years of age, one of the men arrested at this place, is said to have admitted that plans were being made by the gang for a jail delivery in the Riverside County Jail to obtain the release of Berry and Depew.

Walker's wife and a girl who gave her name as Billie Thomason, aged 19 years, were arrested in the house along with Arthur Reed, 28 years old, and Edward T. Whistler, aged 45 years. Reed is a paroled convict, according to police records. Following this arrest the officers went to a rooming-house on South Hope street and there arrested two more members of the gang, who gave their names as Edgar Gard, 22, and Dan Farrell, 19 years of age. Farrel also is a paroled prisoner, it is asserted.

It is declared that numerous automobile thefts and hold-ups will be traced to the members of the gang.

SECOND GANG TAKEN

The second gang was taken into custody when Detectives Harry Raymond and William Simpson of the theft bureau of the Auto Club ran across a stolen car containing four men and two women, all negroes. Ordering the driver of the car to turn into the curb at the points of their revolvers, the two detectives kept the other members of the gang covered until the arrival of Detectives White and Partin of the police flying squadron.

Two of the men were found to be armed and when taken to Central Station all were found to answer descriptions of men wanted for recent oil-station robberies and black-jack hold-ups in the neighborhood of Central avenue.

George Elmer Jones, one of the suspects, was found to be equipped with keys to various makes of cars. Officers also learned that he may be held under a Mann Act charge for the transportation of one of the women under arrest to this city from Kansas City, Mo. The others under arrest gave their names as Charles Frazier, alias James Edwards, a sailor; Eugene Parker, Goldie Marshman, Corinne Bigelow and Miss Gussie Jones.

FOUR TO DIE FOR CRIMES IN ARKANSAS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

LITTLE ROCK (Ark.) Feb. 1. Four white men, the largest number ever legally executed in Arkansas, will be electrocuted at the State prison here tomorrow morning. Last-minute appeals for executive clemency made today to Gov. McRae, including a "confession" by a brother of one of the condemned men, were unavailing.

The four men spending tonight in the death cells at the prison are Will Debord, Duncan Richardson, Ben Richardson and F. G. Bullen. The Richardsons are brothers, and Ben is but 19 years old. Duncan Richardson today, in an effort to secure a reprieve for Ben and Bullen, made his "confession," in which he took full blame for the murder of Ira Culp, the crime for which the three will die tomorrow. The statement, however, was given no credence.

BOLSHEVIKI WON'T SIGN PEACE PACT

Britain May be Forced to Make Separate Treaty With Turkey

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LAUSANNE, Feb. 1.—Although such action had been expected, Bolshevik Russia's refusal today to sign the Near East peace treaty setting forth conditions for the opening of the straits to the Dardanelles and the Bosphorus and the demilitarization of the straits zones caused depression in Near East conference circles.

Tchitcherin, the leading Russian delegate, urged that the whole question with regard to the straits be reopened.

By doing this, the Bolshevik Foreign Minister declared, the Allies would repair their fault of seeking to impose upon Russia a treaty which Russia had not had suitable opportunity to discuss. His request was refused by the Allies.

WARNS CONFERENCE

Ismet Pasha, the chief Turkish representative, objected, saying the straits convention left Constantinople practically defenseless. He said the extraordinary Turkish forces in Thrace and Constantinople should be limited to 20,000 men. Turkey also wanted the right to establish a garrison at Gallipoli. Ismet warned the conference that Turkish acceptance was connected with acceptance of the general peace treaty.

The Russia delegation tonight distributed the texts of the two addresses made by Tchitcherin before the conference today. They show that the Moscow leader charged that the straits convention was "the fruit of secret negotiations," but that Russia was ready in the interest of conciliation to make important concessions.

The original project, Tchitcherin said, was that the total of all the foreign warships permitted to pass the straits should be equal to that of the strongest fleet in the Black Sea. Russia deemed that dangerous, because any fleet on the Black Sea could be artificially strengthened, fleets united with it, then the equilibrium of the Black Sea would be overthrown. What Russia wanted was that the total foreign tonnage should be restricted to one-fifth the total tonnage of the Black Sea states, including Turkey.

When the Russian request to reopen the discussion was refused, Tchitcherin charged that the Allies had imposed their views on Turkey by an ultimatum and the menace of war. And as for Russia, he added, the Allies simply had asked her to sign a blank check, because Russia did not even know the purport of some clauses of the compact which affected her commerce.

SEPARATE TREATY

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The possibility of Great Britain finding herself obliged to conclude a separate treaty with the Turks owing to France reserving the right to do likewise in the event of failure of the Lausanne negotiations, was admitted for the first time by the government here today.

This latest twist in an already complicated situation was precipitated by the receipt through the British Ambassador at Paris of what the Foreign Office here terms a very serious note from Premier Poincare apprising the British Government of the steps France would consider it necessary to take should the Turks decline to sign

BATTLE OVER BRITISH DEBT PLAN BEGINS

Refunding Commission Has Conference With Sir Auckland Geddes

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Events today left no doubt that the Sixty-seventh Congress is going to stage as its finale a spectacular battle over the refunding of the $4,000,000,000 British debt to the United States and a soldier bonus to be financed from the proceeds of the British payments.

Here are the outstanding developments of the day:

(1.) Representative Hamilton Fish Republican, New York, spokesman for the "veterans' bloc," announced that the soldier bonus bill vetoed by President Harding would be offered as a rider to the debt bill and predicted its passage.

(2). Representative Fordney, Republican, Michigan, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, which will frame the debt refunding legislation, while favoring a soldier bonus said he would fight the proposed rider.

(3). Although he condemned the principle of a soldier bonus in his veto message President Harding, according to Fordney, would not oppose a bonus financed from war debt payment eventually, but does oppose injection of bonus legislation into the debt refunding measure.

VITUPERATIVE DEBATE

(4). Senators McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, and Heflin, Democrat, Alabama, precipitated a vituperative debate in the Senate on the British debt settlement which they vituperatively assailed as un-American, McKellar being dubbed pro-German by Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, and Heflin being called to order for connecting Senator Wadsworth, Republican, New York, with "Wall street sharks."

(5) The American Debt Refunding Commission in session with British Ambassador Geddes, studied the details of the British Cabinet's acceptance of the American terms of settlement and began preparation of a recommendation of modification of the debt refunding act.

"There is no good reason why a bonus bill should be delayed until the interest payments are actually made," said Fish. "My amendment will provide that bonuses shall be paid when the money in sufficient amounts to meet the cost is paid by Great Britain. Such an amendment would do away with any further wrankle about bonuses. I understand that the interest payment will amount to about $160,000,000 yearly, while one-third of this amount will be all that will be necessary to pay the bonuses."

Representative Johnson, Republican, South Dakota, another ex-service man, said that sentiment in favor of a soldiers' bonus amendment was so overwhelming that no point of order could prevail against it. He felt sure that it would carry in the House by a big majority.

With the soldiers' bonus thrust to the fore again, administration leaders, including President Harding himself, are frankly worried over the effect of the funding agreement on the legislative situation. They are fearful that introduction of funding legislation now will seriously jeopardize the chances of the ship subsidy bill, which, it is recognized, must be

Frost danger which appeared in the citrus orchards late Wednesday night and early yesterday morning has been dispelled by the continued cloudy weather and occasional showers. A light wind, present in most localities all day aided in keeping the freezing crystals from the ripening fruit. No danger has been reported from any of the citrus sections of Southern California and the fear of a great loss which appeared Wednesday night has vanished entirely.

It is probable that very few orchards in the entire southern section lit smudge pots and at no place was there a united effort to fight the lowering temperature. In some places, particularly in the Pomona Valley, where the danger was great, the temperature raised after dark, sending the thermometer at Pomona from 37 to 48 at 10 o'clock. In Pomona Floyd M. Young, government weather observer said that a light wind supplied with cloudy skies had removed all danger of frost. It was a "$10,000,000 wind," he said.

In Los Angeles a slight drizzle appeared late in the afternoon and continued into the night. Here .02 of an inch of rain was recorded, bringing the season's total to 6.56, as compared with 13.30 at this time last year.

Over Fresno and Tulare counties a low temperature has prevailed for the last twenty-four hours, but no great damages has been reported. It was estimated that the mercury might fall to 26 degrees in some parts of the citrus belt of Fresno county during the night, but even at that low figure orchardists were confident that the Budget Calls for Decrease of $12,000,000

Calamity Howlers Find No Cause for Complaint

The people are loud in their protest as indicated by hundreds of complaints received by me, but they are unorganized and unable to cope with the schemes of certain political educators.

BUSINESS BASIS ASKED

"The expenditure of school money in this State must be put on a business basis and the schools must not only teach but practice thrift. Educators should be left in control of educational matters, but sound business men should be in control of expenditures."

The net budget appropriations is energetically emphasized by Gov. Richardson, who takes occasion to point out the inadequacy, inequity and possible illegality of the King Bill as follows:

"The much heralded and misnamed King Bill not only increased the burden upon the people, but it failed to materially increase the revenue of the State because the railroad corporations appealed to the courts, which permitted them to settle with the State at the old rate of 5 1-4 per cent instead of the new rate of 7 per cent while the suit is pending. To attempt to still further increase the rates on public utility companies in view of present litigation would be futile.

The people ultimately pay every dollar of tax whether it be direct or indirect."

THE PEOPLE PAY

The statement continues:

"While the State derives most of its revenue from a franchise tax on corporations, this tax is passed on to the people with an added burden. The Railroad Commission has ruled that taxes are a part of the operating expense of corporations, and must be added in fixing rates. After the increase of rates on public utility corporations at the last session of the Legislature, the Railroad Commission increased the rates on fares, light, water, gas, telephones and people found they did pay the tax."

Gov. Richardson then proceeds to remind the legislators that: "So, while I am faced with the duty of obeying the mandate of the people as expressed in the recent election, I am also faced with the necessity of keeping State expenditures below the income. You are faced with the same mandate, and the same necessity. The State should live within its income and limit its needs. Every citizen of California finds himself confronted with the necessity of curbing his financial desires and cutting down his needs. As soon as the boy becomes a man he finds he must spend less than he earns or bankruptcy faces him. The State must practice the same philosophy."

He assures the Senate and Assembly that "because a given appropriation has merit is not sufficient reason for its passage, as, if this were the guide the budget would exceed all bounds of reason."

WHOLESOME LESSON

The Governor also intimates that adoption of his budget "will not only save the people millions of" recommended by Gov. Richardson follows:

Legislative, $438,739.34.
Judicial, $1,272,746.85.
Executive, $99,600.00.
Administrative, $1,604,932.06.
Preventive, $2,014,950.23.
Corrective, $1,046,630.66.
Curative, $6,312,852.35.
Penal, $2,144,486.00.
Conservation, $88,128.00.
Developmental, $1,528,848.00.
Defensive (National Guard) $419,499.00.
Education, $49,788,415.10.
Miscellaneous, $238,200.00.
Bond interest and redemption, $16,229,676.00.
Emergency, $700,000.00.

SCORES KING BILL

The net estimated revenues of the State for the coming biennium will be increased $5,200,000 if the suits filed by certain railroad corporations enjoining the State from enforcing provisions of the famous "come through" King Tax Bill are decided adversely to the corporations.

The fact that the people ultimately pay every form of taxation dollars, but will afford a wholesome lesson to cities and counties, and may save the people millions more."

Suggesting that further investigation of State expenses during the legislative recess may result in additional reductions, and commenting on the fact that "many of the departments are in charge of hostile officials who have handicapped us in every way," Gov. Richardson proceeds with a general statement of finances and the need for greater economy and efficiency.

"The budget presented is complete in detail, giving as many as 100 items in a department, and is in striking contrast with former official budgets, which frequently contained only two items. It also covers the so-called self-supporting boards and commissions not included in previous budgets. While it has been a laborious task to prepare all of this detail, it will provide invaluable information to you when you come to analyse and consider it. You will undoubtedly find that many other economies can be effected.

RESPONDS TO MANDATE

"In preparing this budget I have used every endeavor to live up to the mandate of the people as expressed at the primary election last August and at the general election in November. The people expressed themselves strongly in favor of economy and efficiency in State government of eliminating unnecessary expense, of cutting out useless boards and commissions, of taking off the pay roll political parasites and the wrecking of the political machine which in the past few years has squandered millions of dollars of the people's money. I have heeded the voice of the people and made many cuts regardless of any political consequences to myself. I have hewed to the line, letting the political chips fall where they may. The advocates of the 'pork barrel' idea in appropriations have been given no consideration. I have tried to consider the State as a whole and the general needs of the people. My chief purpose has been to relieve the people of their great burden of taxation.

"While the net budget total is $78,574,628.55, it contains $700,000 for emergencies and $1,200,000 for flood control. With these two items eliminated the budget would be $77,674,628.55. The great sum of $49,788,415.10 is provided for education. In short, more than 60 per cent of the budget is for education.

HIGHWAY BOND INTEREST

"A total of $16,229,676 in the budget is to pay interest and principal on State highway bonds. The fixed charges provided by law total $59,624,226.75, as compared with $48,576,199.15 two years ago. The budget has been reduced from 1921 despite the fact that the fixed charges have increased $11,048,-027.60.

"This budget contains flood-control items aggregating $1,350,000, of which $600,000 is for reclamation work in the Sacramento Valley and $500,000 for flood control in Los Angeles county. The legislatures of 1919 and 1921 appropriated $6,000,000 for these two projects and spread the payment out over ten years. Continuing appropriations of this kind are unfair to future administrations and are of doubtful propriety. Both of these projects are sectional in character, and such a policy pursued over the State would cost many millions. As the credit of the State has been pledged, however, the amount is included in the budget.

"If the State taxes were used solely for State purposes the budget could be greatly reduced. The greater part of this budget is for money for county and district purposes. The State will pay to the counties $37,261,860 for elementary and secondary schools for the coming biennial period; $673,914.60 for salaries of superior judges, $576,-983.33 for school books, $12,606,000 for aid of county orphans; and this budget shows $16,229,676 to pay interest and principal on bond money used in building roads in the counties. The policy of unloading county functions upon the State has helped increase the budget."

The Governor recommends retention of the Sonoma Home for Women for two years in order that the institution may be given not only a fair but a sympathetic trial." He also recommends an appropriation for the California Polytechnic School at San Luis Obispo, "for the continuance of this school until such time as it can be changed into some other line or used for some other State institution."

(EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.)

GLOBE (Ariz.) Feb. 1.—Near Rice, while an Arizona Eastern train was speeding toward Globe, a quail, of a covey disturbed by the train, flew in such manner as to become impaled on the point of the pouch crane projecting from the mail car. The bird was brought in as evidence, and was eaten by the station agent.

RUSSIANS TURN DOWN TREATY

the Lausanne treaty. France might as well have told the Turks that the treaty which has been drafted after ten weeks dickering between the Allies and Ismet Pasha was to be regarded only "as a basis for negotiations," according to the British official spokesman.

The British reaffirm their contention that they never desired to conclude a separate peace with Angora, but declare there is no reason to prevent it if the French attitude makes it necessary. It is pointed out that the French mandate for Syria was cinched during the negotiations and there are relatively few points remaining for adjustment between France and Turkey, but capitulations, straits jurisdiction and several other momentous issues are pending between London and Angora.

The Foreign Office disclaims knowledge of the French note to Angora referred to in Paris dispatches which intimated a French desire to negotiate separately with the Turks and which, it was declared, had the approval of the British Ambassador in Paris.

The only note France has sent to the Turks which had the approval of Great Britian was the one forwarded some time ago voicing the pious hope that the Lausanne negotiations would lead to a settlement, it is stated here.

Despite the French action which jeopardizes the result of the protracted treaty making attempt in Lausanne, the British still decline to characterize French conduct as "going behind our backs." However, it is indisputable that the Poincare not achieved overnight a moderation in the British viewpont as interpreted yesterday.

The expression exercised by the British in discussing the matter maye be taken as another sign of reluctance in London to admit a wide divergence in Anglo-French policies in the Near East as well as in the Ruhr.

WAR CLOUDS GATHER

[BY CABLE—EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SOFIA, Feb. 1.—The war cloud hanging over Western Thrace may unloose a torrent of destruction at any moment.

The Greeks and Serbs, in apparent agreement, have concentrated troops close to the frontier. Turkish forces are assembling in Eastern Thrace and making other war preparations.

The Greeks have concentrated around Fram 35,000 men ready to march against the Maritza front. The Serbs have concentrated two divisions in Doiran, Gehvghell and Monastir and also are understood to have hired part of Gen. Wrangel's forces to participate in the operations if hostilities develop.

The Macedonian revolutionists under the leadership of Theodor Alexandroff are arming the population in Macedonia to start a fire in the rear of the Serbians in case hostilities are reported. Alexandroff has an understanding with the Croatian Nationalists.

SMUDGE POTS IN READINESS

wet ground would protect them from loss. This is the second time this season that low temperature has prevailed in Tulare county, yet no damage has been reported. A blanket of snow lies very low on the hills, being reported at the 1200-foot level at Three Rivers. There is fifteen feet of the "beautiful" in General Grant Park.

For the first time in twenty years the snow line crept to within twenty miles of San Diego last night. A white mantle now crowns Mount San Miguel, the nearest high peak to the city. There are ten inches of snow at Cuyamaca Lake, sixty miles east. A slight hailstorm visited the city during the afternoon yesterday.

In the groves and orchards near Santa Paula, in Ventura county, heavy smudging was in progress Wednesday night and will be continued until late this morning. The mercury went as low as 28 deg. On the famous Limoneira ranch more than two hundred men are employed, keeping the frost-preventing apparatus in operation.

DAMPNESS HELPS

Fears that Jack Frost might make his appearance in Riverside county Wednesday night failed to materialize as 41 deg. was the lowest temperature registered. There was no smudging and growers were confident last night that it would not be necessary to light the pots. Should there by any chance be clearing skies, the ground is so damp, it is pointed out, that a low temperature is a remote possibility. The fruit is so well matured that it can stand quite rigid weather.

According to reports from various parts of Orange county, the lowest temperature of the season was reached at 4 a.m. yesterday, when the mercury went as low as 34 deg. in unprotected places. No smudging was done in the Tustin district. Smudge pots were lighted on the Hewes ranch at an early hour. Reports from the northern part of the county say that no damage has occurred there. Cloudy skies, moisture in the ground and dew on the trees is credited with preventing serious damage and ranchers are all of the opinion that as long as these conditions prevail there is no cause for worry.

In the Anaheim district growers are standing ready to fight the frost upon notice from the observers. The lowest temperature recorded Wednesday night was 30 above zero. It is expected that a somewhat lower temperature will be reached early this morning. Cloudy skies and misting rain is acting as a guard against heavy loss.

HEATERS PREPARED

At Glendora the temperature has not risen above 47 since Wednesday afternoon and went down to 26 and 27 during the early hours yesterday morning. Practically all orchards here are equipped with smudge pots and these were kept busy during the night. Extra precautions were taken last night against a still further drop in temperature.

J. W. Arnold, in charge of the frost survey service at Redlands, said last night: "Similar conditions prevail in the Redlands district as they did Wednesday night. It has been cloudy all day and if this condition obtains there will be no danger. If it clears the mercury will drop to 25 deg. in exposed places and heating will be begun to protect the crops there. It is not probable that it will be necessary to light any heaters before 3 a.m., if at all. The area of low pressure which was traveling east last night turned in Arizona, and came west again, saving the day."

Growers here are not apprehensive, but have their heaters ready and will watch the thermometer carefully. It was not necessary to light the heaters here Wednesday night at all.

ARGUES THREE STATES WILL NOT LOSE MUCH

COLORADO RIVER COMMISSION EXPLAINS PURPOSES OF WATER SYSTEM

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Arizona, Nevada and California, the three States in the Lower Basin of the Colorado River system, will lose little potential hydroelectrical power through operation of the pact making the impounding of water for power development secondary to its use for agricultural and domestic purposes, the Colorado River Commission today informed Representative Hayden of Arizona, in reply to his request for information on the subject. The slight loss that may be sustained in power, the commission added, would be made up by the economic benefit to the three States, through development of agricultural lands now in a semiarid condition.

"The subordination of power to agriculture," the commission said, "will only diminish power in case it is necessary to stop the entire flow of the river at some lower dam at a particular season to create reserves for the agricultural community. Indeed, this could not happen for at least 100 years, as it would contemplate a development of acreage in the Lower Basin far beyond that now dreamed of.

"The adequate development of power can only be obtained through erection of storage dams and irrigation of the upper basin of the Colorado River system. Irrigation of the Upper Basin would act in itself as a reservoir, regulating the flow of the river, increasing the minimum flow and thus increasing the average power.

"Obviously use of water for irrigation in the Upper Basin must, in some edgree, diminish the volume of power in the Lower Basin. But it cannot be pretended that the Upper Basin is to be denied the right to use of water for agricultural purposes because of power demands in the Lower Basin. As a matter of fact the power possibilities of the river are in no way diminished by the compact, unless it is assumed there is not to be an equitable division of water."

NEVADA ASSEMBLY REPEALS DRY LAW

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

CARSON CITY (Nev.) Feb. 1.—Two measures repealing the prohibition laws in Nevada were passed by the State Assembly today by a vote of 27 to 9. The measures previously had been passed by the Senate.

FIGHT STARTED OVER WAR DEBT

passed at this session or not at all.

Senator Lodge, Republican, Massachusetts, Republican leader in the Senate; Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah; Senator Watson, Republican, Indiana, and Representative Burton, Republican, Ohio, all conferred with the President about the situation today. They are understood to have urged Mr. Harding to lose no time in laying the British debt agreement before Congress.

The President, it is believed, will do this, but at the same time he is making preparations to crack the party whip in an emphatic manner to get action on the ship subsidy. He is preparing a letter to Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, in charge of the subsidy, calling upon the Administration supporters in the Senate to rally and bring every parliamentary pressure to bear to force a vote on the subsidy bill before March 4.

Senator McKellar, Democrat, Tennessee, touched off the fireworks in the Senate by declaring himself opposed to taxing the American people approximately $58,000,000 to make up the difference between the interest rate on the Liberty bonds and the interest rate which the British will pay.

Senator McKellar made remarks about the British of an uncomplimentary character, and Senator Glass charged that Senator McKellar was "stating the pro-German view; not the American view." Senator McKellar retorted that such a statement was "unworthy" of the Virginia Senator and the incident passed without violence.

TAX AMERICAN PEOPLE

Senator McKellar asserted that in order to make up the difference in the interest rate on the Liberty bonds and in the rate which the British would pay under the funding agreement, the United States would have to tax the American people $58,000,000 a year during the next ten years and about $35,-000,000 a year thereafter "for the benefit of Great Britain."

Senator Heflin deplored the willingness to tax the American people to pay the difference in the interest rate on the Liberty bonds and the interest rate, which the British are to pay while there was such apparent reluctance to provide a soldiers' bonus. Senator Wadsworth retorted that the people of New York had voted $40,000,-000 for soldiers' bonus and demanded of the Alabama Senator: "Where was Alabama when New York was doing that?"

"Being robbed by New York," shouted Senator Heflin. "I represent the American people. I do not represent the Wall-street bond sharks nor the international gamblers."

CALL HEFLIN TO ORDER

Senator Lodge quickly made a point of order against this remark. He declared that Senator Heflin was insinuating that Senator Wadsworth did represent "bond sharks." After a long wrangle, the vice-president ruled that the words themselves did not transgress the Senate rules, but that the manner of utterance and the general attitude of Senator Heflin did. Therefore, he called Heflin to order and the Alabama statesman was compelled to take his seat. The Democrats set up an outcry of resentment at the Vice-President's ruling and Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, promptly appealed from the decision.

"Things have come to a pretty pass," said Senator Robinson, "when a Senator of the United States cannot state that he represents the American people and that he does not represent bond sharks."

Senator Wadsworth charged that Senator Heflin had also intimated that Chief Justice Taft "represented Wall Street," when he made his trip to England last year. Heflin vigorously denied that he had intended to convey such an intimation.

Senator Lodge countered with a motion to table the appeal and matters stood in this complicated light when the Senate adjourned for the day through inability to muster a quorum. The controversy will be fought out tomorrow.

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, issued a statement expressing regret over the debt settlement. He said he had hoped that the adjustment of the debt question would be worked out in connection with a reconstruction program in Europe.

Following the meeting of Ambassador Geddes and the American debt commission, it was learned that the plan of amortization calls for a series of annual payments in dollars, to be increased annually over the sixty-two-year period until they would aggregate 100 per cent of the original principal. A rate of 4¼ per cent interest is to be retroactive and applied to the capital sum of $4,070,000,000 of the debt as of May, 1919, replacing the rate of 5 per cent, thus providing a restatement of the debt outstanding as of Jan. 1, 1923. The assumption is that the $100,000,-000 interest paid by Britain last August will be credited on back interest.

Great Britain, it was stated, will have to accumulate exchange in order to pay in dollars, and may buy 2⅛ to 2⅜ per cent Liberty Bonds and deposit them to replace paper on which rates as low as 2 per cent are being obtained, thus deriving the advantage of the difference. Also it was said Great Britain might float a bond issue of its own and convert into Liberty Bonds.

BALDWIN CRITICISM

The British embassy issued a statement commenting on the criticisms of remarks made by Stanley Baldwin, chancellor of the exchequer, upon his return to England from this country.

"Telegraphic inquiries made by this embassy in London show that Mr. Baldwin did not grant any interview to any representative of the press," said the statement. "On arrival he was surrounded by ten or a dozen reporters who asked innumerable questions, to some of which Mr. Baldwin replied informally."

"The remarks attributed to Baldwin in certain organs of the American press that the debt had got on the nerves of the American people and that Congress would not be willing to eat its own legislation are without discoverable foundation.

"Mr. Baldwin neither criticised nor aspersed any section of the American people. On the contrary, he sought to express his great appreciation of the kindness and courtesy which were extended to him throughout his recent visit to this country."

ADJOURNMENT DUE SATURDAY

House Expected to Concur in Amendment

Senate Takes Action to Hold Back One Day

Miscellaneous Business is Cleared Away

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—The State Senate tonight amended a joint resolution for adjournment, which the Assembly had adopted for tomorrow noon, by changing the date and hour to Saturday noon. Assemblymen said that in view of the mass of work that was now on hand the Assembly would doubtless concur in this amendment tomorrow, thus making adjournment for the recess come Saturday.

The Legislature today passed three emergency appropriations, and numerous resolutions; it received a flood of bills, aggregating nearly 400 in the two houses; it authorized an investigation of charges that civil service employees had been compelled to pay toward the last primary election; it took first steps toward a still more inclusive investigation of election expenses.

EMERGENCY MEASURES

The three emergency appropriations that finally found their way to the Governor for his approval were, respectively, to complete the new State printing plant at Sacramento; to complete the new State building at San Francisco, and to pay a deficiency in the appropriation for printing constitutional amendments and other measures on the last ballots. These were all Senate measures, and because they carried emergency clauses, each required three roll calls in the Assembly, where they were acted upon late today.

The city of Los Angeles also secured the passage of an emergency resolution approving an amendment to the city charter, recently adopted by the electors, and fixing a city tax limit of $1.25 on every $100 of taxable property.

CARTER'S RESOLUTION

A resolution by Carter of Los Angeles county, calling for an investigation of charge that officers of the State had demanded and received campaign assessments from civil service employees during the last primary campaign in August of 1922, was passed by a vote of 73 to 2, after a vain effort had been made by Grittenden to amend it to extend its scope to all elective officers of the State.

Speaker Merriam said late today that he would not appoint the Carter committee before tomorrow morning. That committee was authorized to sit during sessions, to call witnesses, and generally to go into the questions raised by the resolution in any way that would get at the facts.

Senator Sharkey of Martinez today introduced a bill patterned after a New York statute, to make it a misdemeanor punishable by a minimum fine of $500 or 300 days in jail, or both, for a person to cause to be printed in a newspaper any false information concerning another person.

BONUS MAY BE GIVEN BY SOUTHERN PACIFIC

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—The Southern Pacific Company is contemplating giving bonuses to employees who refrained from joining the recent walkout of the shop crafts, it became known last night. Officials of the company gave no definite statement on the matter of awarding the bonus but it was learned they have asked for the names of the 250 railroad employees at Ogden who remained at work during the strike. It has been known that the company has considered the award for some time, following the action of the Baltimore and Ohio railway in giving bonuses to several thousand employees for remaining at work during the walkout.

SNOW CATCHES MOTORISTS

En Route to Arrowhead Lake, Edward Maier and Party Exposed Nine Hours to Blizzard

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 1.—With the temperature below zero and in three feet of snow, a party of Los Angeles motorists, including Edward Maier, owner of the Vernon baseball club, his wife, mother, and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Brandt, were prisoners of a blizzard for nine hours Wednesday night when their automobile stalled in a snowdrift on the road to Lake Arrowhead in the San Bernardino Mountains.

From late in the afternoon until past midnight, the Maier party and two unidentified motorists whose car was also half buried in the drift, fought the blizzard, before being rescued by a truck from Lake Arrowhead.

Unable to reach the lake the motorists deserted their cars on the grade and returned to Hesperia on the desert, arriving shortly after 3 o'clock this morning. The temperature at Hesperia was 8 degrees above zero. Before an open fireplace in the Hesperia Hotel the women, who suffered severely in the blizzard, recuperated from the effects of their experience of eastern weather.

Half way up the new road near Rattlesnake Canyon the Maier party was unable to pass the stalled car of the unidentified motorists. Maier volunteered to aid the stalled autoists by attempting to shove the car through a drift. The Maier car was disabled and the stalled car only driven further into the drift.

Known to have been on route to the lake, the failure of the Maier party to arrive by 10 o'clock excited guests at the Lake Arrowhead clubhouses, and a truck driver volunteered to buck the blizzard in a search for the missing party. For three hours he bucked his car up the grade out of the lakes before finding the Maiers and Brandts on the crest of the mountains in the path of the blizzard.

There is four feet of snow in the valley. Tractors were working today to open the road.

Will of Late Lord Northcliffe Fractionally Divides Entire Estate

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

LONDON, Feb. 1.—The will of the late Lord Northcliffe, drawn up in 1919, in favor of which his will of last July was invalidated, today in the court for testamentary dispositions after making provision for certain trusts, deeds and other matters, bequeaths all the publisher's personal effects to Lady Northcliffe and gives her an immediate legacy of 10,000 pounds. She is also given a free-hold of the house of Carlton Gardens to be held in trust during her widowhood. After her death or relinquishment the house goes to the residuary estate. Beyond the 10,-000 pounds mentioned no definite sums are specified for receipt by any of the relatives; instead the will makes the bequests in fractions.

Thus the whole realized estate is divided into 100 equal parts, 71 3-4 of which are known as the residuary trust fund and the remainder as the legacy fund. Under the residuary fund Lady Northcliffe will receive 25 per cent of the total funds of the income annually during her widowhood. Eight per cent goes to Lord Northcliffe's mother, 2 per cent each to his three sisters, and 4⅛ per cent is divided among three of his brothers—Vyvyan, St. John, and Charles.

Various annuities are settled on a number of more distant relatives and former associates of Lord Northcliffe and the legacy fund provides for nearly three-score legatees.

FILM REVIEW BILLS ARE UP IN ASSEMBLY

MEASURES WOULD SUBJECT PICTURES TO SANCTION OF BORAH

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 1.—Two bills providing for "boards of review" for motion pictures in California were offered to the Assembly today by Representative Roberts of Los Angeles and Williams of LeGrand.

The Roberts bill would create a board of motion-picture review, headed by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction, with four associates nominated by his department and appointed by the Governor. They would be empowered to pass on all films to be exhibited in California after August, 1923, and on all reissues after that date of films made before then. Films made in the interim would be free from their inspection.

A license charge of $2.00 a reel is provided to meet the expense of the board, and provisions made for enforcing the terms of its act.

Dr. Williams's bill also provided for a board of review sustained by fees, and provided penalties for infractions of its provisions.

HARBOR IS SWEPT BY HEAVY WIND

Three Boats and Seaplane Smashed; Ship Crews Are Marooned

A forty-five-mile-an-hour gale sweeping from the southeast and accompanied by heavy rain and hail storms was lashing the outer harbor here last night and playing havoc with small craft in the outer port.

Three small boats and the seaplane F5L No. 1 were cast up on the rocks and pounded to pieces by heavy seas. Hundreds of sailors attached to the fleet were marooned either on their ships or on the piers, unable to get to and from their ships because of the mountainous waves.

The seaplane was moored in the outer harbor. It was torn from its moorings and dashed on the rocks. A dory and motor sailer from the U.S.S. Gannet were sent out to salvage the plane. Caught in the heavy seas, the two boats capsized near the beach and the sailors were forced to swim and wade to shore.

It also was reported that a motor sailer from the battleship California had been washed ashore on Dead Man's Island and is being pounded to bits.

No effort is being made as yet to salvage the small vessels and the seaplane because of heavy seas.

A record low temperature was also reported at the harbor last night when the thermometer reached 29 deg. above zero. A thin coat of ice covered docks and piers.

Pacific Coast Is Mapped for Army Aviators

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 1.—An Army aviator's map, worked out on such an elaborate scale that Army officers believe it will be virtually impossible for aviators to become lost on the Pacific Coast in the future, has been completed, it was announced today. The map embodies a comprehensive survey of all mountains and valleys of the Coast.

Officers assert the map will permit aviators to determine where their provisions are, although the territory is wholly unfamiliar. Lieuts. Walter A. Miller and Harold A. Moore have been testing the map for several weeks.

NEGATIVE DAY FOR LAWMAKERS

Arizona Legislators Mark Session by Refusals

Adverse Action Taken on Many Measures

Late Administration in for an Investigation

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PHOENIX, Feb. 1.—The legislative sessions today were remarkable, especially for what the houses refused to do.

There was adverse action on a bill to allow county officials to reside elsewhere than the county seat—this for the benefit of Judge Windes of Tempe; on a bill that would give the Mine Inspector an auto; on a bill to draw sharper lines on the search and seizure law; on a bill repealing the real-estate license law, and on a bill that would permit appointment of a person other than a physician as superintendent of the State Asylum for the Insane. This job has had a new occupant oftener than most of the other State offices.

It was decided that the Legislature would not accept an invitation to go to Castle Hot Springs Sunday, as the wives had not been included, and that sessions would be held tomorrow despite the fact it will be Southern Arizona arbor day.

The Senate passed its first general bill, one relating to oaths, and also passed a House bill calling for investigation of the affairs of the late State administration, with employment of experts and signified its belief in something very wrong by raising the House appropriation of $10,000 to $20,000, to be spent by the Governor.

Senator St. Charles called the attention of the Senate to the progress made in the California Legislature, toward approval of the Colorado River pact. In the House was an echo of the early legislative corporation baiting when Mrs. Rosa McKay arose to call attention to the fact that attorneys representing corporations other than municipal have appeared before the legislative committees without first filing a full statement of whom they represented and what they proposed to ask. There was agreement the rule would be enforced in the future. Mrs. McKay's minimum wage rule was given favorable recommendation in the Senate, though much objection was made, several members calling attention to the fact that the figure of $16 a week would serve to cut out apprenticeship of Arizona young folk and would serve to bring in employees from other States.

RECORDS FOR USE OF GAS FALL

Three Los Angeles Utility Companies Supply Total of 105,000,000 Feet

[2] records for the "send-out" of heating and illuminating gas were broken yesterday when 105,000,000 cubic feet were supplied for consumption in Los Angeles by the three companies in operation here.

On Wednesday, when 95,000,000 feet were sent out, this amount was more than 25,000,000 feet in excess of the high mark in 1922.

These facts were made public yesterday by Chief Gas Engineer H. L. Masser of the State Railroad Commission, in answer to the asserted criticism because the natural gas supply of several local industries had been discontinued temporarily.

Mr. Masser pointed out that in order to give householders gas of sufficiently high quality it was necessary to include natural gas in their supply, and that the unprecedented demand caused by the cold snap was responsible for the diversion of natural gas from private industries.

The gas situation now is much better than last year, Mr. Masser declares. During a cold spell last year outlying sections of the city suffered insufficient gas supply for three days, and thousands of complaints were made. This year, he reports, but few complaints have been made, despite a demand that has exceeded all estimates prepard by the gas companies.

BELIEVE BOY KILLED SELF

The body found in Sunset Canyon near Burbank Wednesday, clothed in a complete Boy Scout outfit, is believed to be that of a suicide, it was announced yesterday at the Sheriff's office.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Catlin, A. C. Fillback, an undertaker, the Burbank Chief of Police, and another officer went to the canyon yesterday and brought the body in. The youth had been dead about six weeks, it was estimated. A bullet hole in the shirt was powder burned, and a revolver found with the body had one exploded cartridge.

Besides the Boy Scout clothing there was a compass, canteen and mess mag, such as Boy Scouts use, the latter containing two boxes of sardines. There also was a rifle and two boxes of cartridges. Laundry marks and a belt buckle bearing the initial "A" are relied on by the officers to establish identification.

ASHES BURY CLEWS TO FIRE CAUSE

Old Educational Institution Is Destroyed

Ruins of Griffin-Avenue Grammar School

NO CLEWS to establish incendiarism as the cause of the fire that yesterday morning destroyed the Griffin Avenue Grammar School were found after an all-day investigation by Capt. E. H. Enos of the fire prevention bureau, and Detective Sergeant Taylor.

The condition of the ruins of the school, which was one of the oldest in the city, made it impossible to determine where or how the blaze started.

Patrolman H. L. Urquidded of the Lincoln Heights police, passed the school at 4 a.m. yesterday, on his way to ring up the station. Ten minutes later he saw the roof fall in and the top of the building in flames, showing that the fire had started inside the school and not from defective outside wiring.

CLASSES ARE RESUMED

Classes started at 10 o'clock yesterday morning in an annex recently built, and for the preceding two hours the hundreds of schoolless pupils caused the firemen on guard endless anxiety by their desire to explore the ruins, unmindful of the danger threatened by the charred walls and brick chimneys, which remained standing.

The children time and again darted through the cordon of firemen and impeded efforts to clear up the fire-swept school site. A rope was passed about one of the chimneys. Twenty firemen seized the other end of the hawser and heaved. The cable parted and the firemen went sprawling in the mud. Before they scrambled to their feet, the children once more broke through the lines.

For the present, pupils of the first four grades will attend morning sessions from 8 o'clock until 12:30 o'clock. Pupils of other grades taught at the school will attend during the remainder of the day.

EXERCISES ARE POSTPONED

The destruction of the famous old three-story frame building necessitates the postponement of graduation exercises.

A modern unit of the school, recently built, was not damaged.

Miss Estelle Cowan, who has been principal of the school for twenty-five years, said all records had been destroyed.

Work will start immediately on a new building to replace the old school destroyed by fire early Thursday morning, according to plans made at the meeting of the Board of Education yesterday. In order to avoid any unnecessary delay, a design for a twelve-room building will be selected by the business manager from among the plans already on hand, although that means the duplication of some buildings now standing or in construction.

The board was notified yesterday that the Public Safety Commission will consider the request made by the board that the site of the Polytechnic High School be eliminated from the fire zone in which theaters and auditoriums are required to be of class A fireproof construction. The board desire to erect a new auditorium for Polytechnic High School of Class C construction, the standard type for school buildings and considered by members of the board sufficiently fireproof.

STORY WINS DECREE FOR YOUNG WIFE

Girl Forced to Wed Under Threat While on Visit Here, She Tells Jurist

A proposal of marriage enforced with a revolver, was followed by a hasty wedding in Santa Ana on Aug. 19, 1922, which ended yesterday in Chicago. Mrs. Lincoln Douglas Swanwick, 20 years of age, was granted an annulment and given permission to resume her maiden name of Rose Shirley Taxey.

In her statement to the Chicago judge Mrs. Swanwick declared that she met Swanwick while she was in this city on a vacation trip. She declared that she took an automobile ride with him and that he proposed marriage to her while they were driving through Santa Ana.

"After I refused to marry Swanwick," declared the young woman, "he pointed to a bulging hip pocket and told me that he was armed and would kill me if I did not marry him at once. He then drove to the Santa Ana Courthouse, where we were married. When we came out of the Courthouse I ran away from him and took a street car back to Los Angeles. I left the city the next day and returned to my home. I have not seen him since."

SCHOONER STORM-DAMAGED

WOMAN HURT IN DRY RAID VERY SICK

Mrs. D'Auito Removed When Condition Takes Turn for the Worse

A sudden turn for the worse in the condition of Mrs. Margarita D'Auito, who was injured in a prohibition raid, resulted yesterday in her removal to the French Hospital from her home at 645 Lemar street.

According to a report submitted to Deputy Dist.-Atty. McClelland yesterday by Drs. H. E. Southworth and Edward H. Anthony, who examined the injured woman, her condition is due to the injuries received when her home was raided by Prohibition Agents C. H. Wheeler and F. C. Neal.

The report to the District Attorney's office by the physicians refuted reports of the supposed death of a prematurely born baby. Mrs. D'Auito is not about to become a mother, and there was no premature birth, the physicians declare.

Wheeler and Neal are at present at liberty on bonds, pending their hearing on February 8 on a charge of assault.

EXPERT TO TALK ON ADVERTISING

Kenneth Barnard

An announcement of particular interest to Los Angeles advertising men is that of the local better business bureau of the Advertising Club concerning the arrival on Friday of Kenneth Barnard, associate director of the National Vigilance committee, headquarters of the truth-in-advertising movement.

Barnard is making a six weeks' tour of the Pacific Coast, spending several days with each of the nine better business bureaus, in advisory capacity, and working out plans for the further co-ordination of bureaus with each other and with the national organization. This is the third trip by an official of the truth-in-advertising headquarters in the last four years, William P. Green, now director of the national committee, having toured the Coast in 1918, and Richard H. Lee, then general counsel, two years later. While their purpose was to assist in forming new bureaus, however, Barnard's is to further develop and standardize those already operating.

Before becoming associate director of the parent body, Barnard was manager-counsel of the better business bureau of Toledo, O., one of the strongest bureaus in operation, and thus brings to the work the viewpoint of the bureau manager. Barnard is greatly pleased with conditions in general among western bureaus, according to Ferris R. Miller of the local bureau.

Barnard will confer with executives of the Los Angeles bureau and Advertising Club, and will address the luncheon meeting of the Advertising Club next Tuesday. He will leave Tuesday evening for San Diego, his last stop on the Coast trip.

BEATEN BY BANDITS

Joseph Grejalbr Knocked Out and Robbed in Street

While peacefully walking on New High street late last evening, Joseph Grejalbr of 734 Clara street, was jumped on by two bandits and severely beaten on the head with a butcher knife, according to a report made to the police. After knocking him unconscious, the thugs relieved him of $27 in currency and fled. The victim was removed to the Receiving Hospital where his condition is said to be serious.

ENSEMBLE IN MODERN MOODS

Music of humor and of poesy fantastic and at times actually bizarre, music for the most part of the present, with a characteristic pictorial inflection, ruled with the intellectuality of its newness the program of the Los Angeles Chamber Music Society last night at Gamut Club Theater. Such music is usually the source of manifold enjoyment to the listeners who favor progressive tendencies, and the offerings last night met with a cordial response from the audience.

The renditions were noteworthy in their beauty and their quality, with especial applause going to Andre Maquarre, the flutist, who played in three different selections—the Eugene Goosens Trio for flute, violoncello and piano; the Jules Mouquet Suite in Sonata Form, known as "La Flute de Pan," and his own Suite Romantique for woodwind instruments. Fritz Gaillard, the cellist, was the recipient of an ovation for his rendition of the Sonata for violoncello and piano, by Boellmann, which he gave with that capable pianist, Homer Grunn. The other musicians were Henri de Busschop, éboist; P. Perrier, A. Raimondi, clarinets, and M. Fuhrmann and A. Heynes, bassoons.

Mr. Maquarre's Suite Romantique is carefully written for the unique combination of instruments. The three movements are suggestive of nature's background of the woods, and the pictures, owing to the ensemble, are well defined, offering high lights of charm and beauty.

Mouquet's Suite was also pictorial in mood. However, the spirit of the composition is mythological, and perhaps a bit symbolic. It is in a semiromantic and occasionally radiant modern vein, with the second and final sections appealing as particularly unusual. These had moments of evanescent beauty.

The Goosens Trio is a flashy brilliant affair, at times intensely descriptive, and endowed with rare comic feeling. It was really greatly enjoyed by the audience for its delightful novelty and capriciousness.

The Boellmann Sonata is familiar. Mr. Gaillard excelled in the dynamism and brilliance of his tone, but disclosed a contrasting velvety quality in the Andante. The bass notes in this section were notably rich.

Mr. Marquarre's intonation on the flute is something to be conjured with. Smooth and flowing, his trills and grouped notes are remarkably lovely, and his playing is free from the breathy effect.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS CHAPTERS

John Philip Wingate, a prominent figure in New York's Wall street, has an enemy of years standing in Peter Phipps, who heads British and [illegible] Grenades in England. The latter and [illegible] Phipps's company is known in the stock market, has for its purpose the cornering of the country's wheat. And to date has succeeded, with a consequent shortage of bread in England. Wingate comes to England, meets Kenyon, his fiancee's brother, and learns of the intention of breaking Phipps on the market. At a social gathering Wingate renews a wartime friendship with Lady Dreffington, whom he had met in France. The fact that Lady Dreffington is unhappy does not escape the attention of Wingate, and because his generosity urges her he searches for the cause and finds it in Lord Dreffington, her husband, a member of the B. and I. board. Wingate made Andrew Slate, a friend of his college days, whose business of late years is confined to the manipulation of [illegible] questionable character, and retains him as part of his future plans. Next day Lady Dreffington calls at Wingate's apartment to discuss with him the part she is to play in the undoing of Phipps and the B. and I. She promises Wingate with an opportunity to make known his true regard for her. Several days later, Henry Phipps's nephew, and a member of the B. and I. syndicate, disappears. Wingate visits his broker and expresses the opinion that the company will soon meet with serious reverses.

CHAPTER XVII

Wingate, after several strenuous hours spent in Slate's office, returned to his rooms late that night, to find Peter Phipps awaiting him. There was something vaguely threatening about the bulky figure of the man standing gloomily upon the hearth rug, all the spurious good nature gone from his face, his brows knitted, his cheeks hanging a little and unusually pale. Wingate paused on the threshold of the room and his hand crept into his pocket. Phipps seemed to notice the gesture and shook his head.

"Nothing quite so crude, Wingate," he said. "I know an enemy when I see one, but I wasn't thinking of getting rid of you that way."

"I have found it necessary," Wingate remarked slowly, "to be prepared for all sorts of tricks when I am up against anybody as conscienceless as you. I don't want you here, Phipps. I didn't ask you to come and see me. I've nothing to discuss with you."

"There are times," Phipps replied "when the issue which cannot be fought out to the end with arms can be joined i nthe council chamber. I have come to know your terms."

Wingate shook his head.

"I don't understand. It is too soon for this sort of thing. You are not beaten yet."

"I am tired," his visitor muttered. "May I sit down?"

"You are an unwelcome guest," Wingate replied coldly, "but sit if you will. Then say what you have to say and go."

Phipps sank into an easy-chair. It was obvious that he was telling the truth so far as regarded his fatigue. He seemed to have aged ten years.

"I have been down below in Stanley's rooms," he explained, "been through his papers. It's true what the inspector fellow reports. There isn't a scrap of evidence of any complication in his life. There isn't a shadow of doubt in my mind as to the cause of his disappearance."

"Indeed!" Wingate murmured.

"It's a villainous plot, engineered by you," Phipps continued, his voice shaking. "I'm fond of the boy. That's why I've come to you. Name your terms."

Wingate indulged in a curious bout of silence. He took a pipe from a rack, filled it leisurely with tobacco, lit it and smoked for several moments. Then he turned toward his unwelcome companion.

"I am debarred by a promise made to myself," he said coldly, "from offering you any form of hospitality. If you wish to smoke, I shall not interfere."

Phipps shook his head.

"I have not smoked all the evening," he confessed. "I cannot. You are right when you say that we are not beaten, but I like to look ahead. I want to know your terms."

"You are anxious about your nephew?"

"Yes!"

"And why do you connect me with his disappearance?"

Phipps gave a little weary gesture.

"I am so sick of words," he said. "We will argue the matter, then," conceded Wingate, "from your point of view. Supposing that your nephew has been abducted and is held at the present moment as a hostage. It would be, without doubt, by some person or persons who resented the brutality, the dishonesty, the foul commercial methods of the company with which he was connected. An amendment of those methods might produce his release."

"And that amendment?"

Wingate picked up a newspaper and glanced at it, pulled a heavy gold pencil from his chain and made a few calculations.

"Your operations in wheat," he said, "have brought the loaf which should cost the working man a matter of sevenpence up to two shillings. You seem to have dabbled in a good many other products, too, the price of which you have forced up into the clouds,—just those products which are necessary to the working man. But we will leave those alone. If you were to sell wheat at 45 per cent less than today's price, I should think it extremely likely that Stanley Rees would be able to dine with you tomorrow night."

"You are talking like a madman," Phipps declared. "It would mean ruin."

"How sad!" Wingate murmured. "All the same, I do not think that you will see your nephew again until you have sold wheat."

"You admit that you are responsible, then?" Phipps growled.

"I admit nothing of the sort. I am simply speculating as to the possible cause of his disappearance. If I had anything to do with it, those would be my terms. Tomorrow they might be the same; perhaps the next day. But," he went on, with a sudden almost fierce break in his voice, "the day after would probably be too late. There are a great many hungry people in the north. There are a great many who are starving. There is one in London who is beginning to feel the pangs."

"You are ill-treating him!" Phipps cried passionately. "I shall go to Scotland Yard myself! I shall tell them what you have said. I shall denounce you!"

"My dear fellow," Wingate scoffed, "you have done that already. You have induced those very excellent upholders of English law and liberty to set a plain-clothes man to following me about. I can assure you that he has had a very pleasant and a very busy evening."

Phipps rose to his feet.

"Wingate," he exclaimed, "curse you!"

"A very natural sentiment. I hope that you may repeat it a good many times before the end comes."

"You are a conspirator — a crim.nal!" Phipps continued, his voice shaking with excitement. "You are breaking the laws of the country. I shall see that you are in gaol before the week is out!"

"A good deal of what you say is true," Wingate admitted, "with the possible exception of the latter part. Believe me, Peter Phipps, you are a great deal more likely to see the inside of a prison than I am. You will be a poor man presently and poor men of your type are desperate."

Phipps remained perfectly silent for several moments.

"Wingate, you are a hard, enemy," he said at last. "Will wou treat?"

"I have named the price."

"You are a fool!" Phipps almost shouted. "Do you know," he went on, striking the table with his clenched fist, "that what you suggest would cost five million pounds?"

"You and your friends can stand it," was the unruffled reply. "If no., your brokers can share the loss."

"That means you make a bankrupt of me?" Phipps demanded hoarsely.

"Why not?" Wingate replied. "It's been a lonk duel between us, Phipps, and I mean this to be the final bout."

Phipps moved his position a little uneasily. He was keeping himself under control, but the veins were standing out upon his forehead, his frame seemed tense with passion.

"Tell me, Wingate, is it still the girl?"

Wingate looked across at him. His face and tone were alike relentless, his eyes shone like points of steel.

"You did ill to remind me of that, Phipps," he said. "However, I will answer your question. It is still the girl."

"She was nothing to you," Phipps muttered sullenly.

"One can't make your class of reptile understand these things," Wingate declared scornfully. "She came to me in New York with a letter from her father, my old tutor, who had died out in the Adirondacks without a shilling in the world. He sent the girl to me and asked me to put her in the way of earning her own living. It was a sacred charge, that, and I accepted it willingly. The only trouble was that I was leaving for Europe the next day. I put a thousand dollars i nthe bank for her, found her a comfortable home with respectable people, and then considered in what office I could place her during my absence. I had the misfortune to meet you that morning. Time was short. Every one knew that your office was conducted on sound business lines. I told you her story and you took her. I hadn't an idea that a man alive could be such a villain as you turned out to be."

"You'd be a fine fellow, Wingate," Phipps said, with a touch of his old cynicism, "if you weren't always sheering off toward the melodramatic. The girl wanted to see life, she attracted me, and I showed it to her. I'd have done the right thing by her if she hadn't behaved like a hysterical idiot."

PREACHER PAYS FOR SWINDLING

Rev. Lawrence Makes Sick Bed Atonement

He Sold Property Not His Own; Was Convicted

Wife Turns Fiction Writer to Make Sum Good

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

ONTARIO, Feb. 1. — Having atoned for his sins on what may be his deathbed, through the repayment of money obtained in a fraudulent land deal here, for which he was convicted ten years ago, Rev. Charles Lawrence, former Ontario minister, was freed today from a vision of the penitentiary which has been constantly before his eyes since.

Aided by his wife, Mrs. Alberta Lawrence, who admitted her part in the swindle, Rev. Lawrence ended a struggle against adversities when he forwarded a check to Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. M. O. San Bernardino for $11,000 for payment to E. A. Welch well-known Ontario rancher, who lost $3700 through the minister's operations.

Lawrence and his wife had been allowed five years in which to repay the $3700, but when they were unable to complete payment in that time a stay of execution was granted until Dec. 30, 1923.

Rev. Lawrence, it developed at his trial, purchased the Welch Grove in East Fifth street, giving as payment Ontario city property, which it later developed belonged to another person. The minister had sold the crop for $3700 before the swindle was detected.

He was convicted in a sensational trial and his wife pleaded guilty, craving the mercy of the court.

The stay of execution was chiefly due to the illness of the minister, who is reported suffering from tuberculosis. The money whose payment has just been completed is said to have been raised largely by Mrs. Lawrence, who turned to writing fiction for the purpose.

Santa Monica Bank Clearings Show Huge Gain

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Feb. 1.—The exact amount of bank clearings for last month is the largest in the history of the Clearinghouse Association, according to reports received this morning, when the total of $6,123,737.96, was announced.

Never before has such a total been approached here. December, which was the banner month last year, fell short of the phenomenal clearings this month by more than half a million dollars.

Even the most optimistic banking officials were amazed when President Harry E. Hudson of the clearinghouse made public the total.

The total for the corresponding month last year was $4,372,995.97.

GREAT OIL SHEETS ON SURF AT LONG BEACH

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Feb. 1.—Great sheets of oil on the surface of the water in Long Beach harbor and in the surf along the bathing beach is giving city officials deep concern. Rain during the past three days, it is asserted, has brought the surplus oil down from the Signal Hill field and has polluted the ocean front via the county storm drains.

Plans for eliminating the pollution of the bathing beach are now being worked out by representatives of the various oil companies operating on Signal Hill, it was said today. City and county aid will be enlisted in preparing mammoth sump holes for the storing of waste oil from the wells.

TWO TAKEN AT FRESNO AS BANDITS

Police Believe Pair Are Responsible for Robbing of Eleven in Hold-ups

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

FRESNO, Feb. 1.—Two men suspected of being the same, who last night committed a series of hold-ups in which eleven persons were robbed of valuables and cash aggregating several hundred dollars, are being held in jail here on charges of vagrancy pending investigation.

The prisoners answer descriptions furnished by several of those victimized.

When the men were arrested by Police Inspector Jackson L. Broad, each carried an automatic pistol and cartridges. In each hold-up the victims reported that the highwaymen carried automatics.

Five hold-ups were committed in widely separated sections, three of which involved persons in automobiles. The others were attacked on the street.

An unusual one of the hold-ups was that in which Mr. and Mrs. Kimball Spreter of Kerman were involved. They started to drive away in their automobile when the two men rose from the tonneau and ordered them to drive around the corner to a less brightly lighted street, where they were held up.

NEW WAY TO HUNT WILDCATS

CHASE FELINE UP TREE, TIE DOG BENEATH THEN GET GUN

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENTURA, Feb. 1.—Here is one way to hunt wildcats. Run the cat up a tree, tie your dog to the tree and then get a gun. It was successfully practiced by J. Ayala, who has several hundred goats on a ranch in the Ojai country. A wildcat attacked a goat, Ayala heard the outcry and went to investigate. He chased the cat up a tree and tied the dog there on guard. Then he ran a mile through rough country and underbrush for his gun. He killed the cat and will claim the bounty.

PERMIT TO DRILL WELL IS REFUSED

Former Cemetery Property in Long Beach Shall Not be Used, City's View

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Feb. 1.—The identity of persons intent on drilling for oil on a plot of ground that once was part of Sunnyside Cemetery, was brought to light today when formal application for a permit to erect a drilling rig was filed with the city. The request was promptly turned down.

For several weeks, while preparations were going on for drilling within a few hundred feet of scores of graves, and while relatives of persons buried in Sunnyside were vigorously fighting the move, the identity of the oil hunters and the property owner was kept secret. The application filed today shows C. F. Whittier as the applicant. Whittier, it is said, is associated with J. M. Kent of Los Angeles in oil promotions. Both have offices in the I. W. Hellman Building, that city.

Refusal by city authorities to grant a permit is the first step gained by the Long Beach Cemetery Protective Association, an organization composed of relatives of persons buried in the cemetery, and created to fight the proposed drilling operations. The next move is up to the promoters. If a rig is erected it will be in violation of city ordinances and the authorities will immediately take steps to prosecute.

Declaring that drilling for oil on the property is a "desecration of the graves nearby," attorneys, city officials, clergymen and others have been emphatic in their denunciation of the promoters. It is said by those opposed to the exploitation that the property was sold to J. M. Martin, former president of the cemetery association, and that a court order for the sale was obtained on the statement that the site was to be used for a mausoleum. Martin, it is said, lives in Salem, Mass.

SHORT CROP SCORES HIGH

Villa Park Citrus Growers' Returns Greater This Year Than Last, Report Shows

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

ORANGE, Feb. 1.—A short citrus crop brought a record price, it was revealed here today, when the annual report of H. D. Nichols, secretary of the Villa Park Orchards Association, near here, was submitted to the annual stockholders meeting of the citrus organization.

Shipping 300 cars of fruit, 210 less than last season, the association, despite the abnormal crop caused by the severe freeze last January, returned to the growers a total of $547,998.43. Last year's total returns were $646,614.12, but shipments aggregated 510 cars.

Nichols's report showed that the association received an average of $5.26 per 100 pounds for its packed fruit, as against $3.65 last season. A general crop shortage accounted for higher prices this season, growers stated.

Checks totaling $523,124.05 were mailed to growers at the close of the season, after operating expenses were deducted, the report disclosed. Approximately 200 growers, their wives and families were present when the meeting convened at 9 o'clock this morning. A big banquet was served at noon and the session was expected to close late this afternoon with addresses by prominent citrus men.

The old board of directors, consisting of Willard Smith, W. A. Knuth, J. V. Meehan, J. R. Ragan and D. Blankmeyer, was returned to office at the annual election.

Several sites for the proposed building are being considered. The financing can be arranged, it is believed.

FULLERTON PLANS PARK

Memorial Plunge and Greek Theater in Shadow of Easter Cross, Proposed Features

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE]

FULLERTON, Feb. 1.—Plans which with their realization will create for Fullerton a park that will be second to none in the United States, and will involve the expenditure of approximately $100,000, were presented to the City Council last night by George Seupelt, City Park Superintendent, and will receive further consideration at the meeting next week.

The drawing prepared by Seupelt calls for the transformation of the thirty-seven acres constituting Hillcrest Park into a spot of beauty that will contain all of the requisits of the modern city park and in addition a large number of innovations that would have the effect of creating a distinctive public playground for Fullerton.

The transformation of the acreage revolves around the creation of a memorial plunge for which plans have already been prepared. To the left of this, facing the main facade of the plunge, it is planned to locate a Greek theater suitable for out-of-door entertainments. The theater would nestle in the shadow of a huge knoll on which there is erected a cross. This cross is now being used for Easter worship and the grounds would be so improved that Fullerton might be made the Mecca annually for thousands of worshippers.

The entire thirty-seven acres, according to the plans, would be criss-crossed with beautiful drives that would wind through the park and be lined at suitable distances with parking places, these drives being so planned that they follow the general contour of the park with the resultant elimination of heavy grades.

YOUTHS ARRESTED AS ABDUCTORS OF GIRL

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT IS RETICENT ABOUT ASSERTED ELOPEMENT

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 1.—Accused of abducting pretty Helen Sears, 14-year-old Redlands High School girl, whose disappearance last Friday led to a search by officers throughout Southern California, two Mexican youths, John Luna and Juan De la Rosa, were arrested early today.

Helen was found by Chief of Police Guy George of Colton late Tuesday afternoon wandering aimlessly on the streets. She was reluctant to tell incidents of her elopement, the officer said, but admitted that it was on the girl's story that the accused were arrested.

Pretty and with an air of indifference, Helen was in the detention home today, where her grief-stricken mother visited her. The youths are accused of abducting the girl and keeping her at Dela Rosa's home in Colton. She disappeared late Friday after attending classes at the high school. When her daughter did not return home, Mrs. Sears notified school authorities, who conducted a secret search before appealing to officers.

Students Have Snow Festival at Old Baldy

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CLAREMONT, Feb. 1.—Old Baldy—geographically, Mt. San Antonio—adorned itself with an eighteen-inch diadem of snow yesterday, thereby providing the Pomona College student body sufficient cause for adjourning and marking the inception of an annual winter sport festival, copied after the famous tourney of Dartmouth College.

The faculty joined with 450 students in making the pilgrimage from oranges to icicles. Nearly two-score trucks and automobiles were used in transporting the students to the frozen heights.

The start was made at 8:30 a.m. and the snow frolic lasted until darkness. Some of the students, fortunately equipped, went skiing. Others had sleds. Those lacking in these devices indulged in snow fights. Many of them saw snow at a close-up for the first time.

Santa Monica May Seek Two Desert Captives

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Feb. 1.—Harold Berry and Jack Depew, the two men who were captured single-handed after a desperate revolver duel by Deputy Sheriff S. A. Ragsdale in the heart of the Mojave desert, are believed to be the two who escaped from Motorcycle Officer Rober in this city, January 24, last.

The men escaped from the local officer after he had placed them under arrest following their mad dash from a local gasoline station where they had purchased supplies and for which they refused to pay the clerk.

The police department here has communicated with Riverside, where the two men are being held, asking that pictures be forwarded in an effort to identify the men.

The description in the reports received here closely tallies with that of the pair who escaped from Officer Rober.

PITCHFORK PROD IS RESULTFUL

Tines Thrust in Hay Bring Forth Well-Hidden Hold-up Suspect

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PORTERVILLE, Feb. 1.—The sudden thrust of a pitchfork by Deputy Constable Doyle of Sultana into hay he was about to feed his stock, resulted in the arrest of Frank Meadows of Sultana, suspected of complicity in the hold-up of Visalia oil stations Tuesday night.

Constable Doyle was astounded to see the hay heave upward suddenly, as Meadows, with a startled yell, came bursting through and made a dash for freedom.

Oliver Tribble of Sultana was caught by Louis P. Arkle, 160-pound Edison company employee, Tuesday night, his companion escaping. Meadows is thought to have been that companion.

REDLANDS BUS LINE IS DISCUSSED

City and Pacific Electric Officials Make Survey of Proposed Line

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Feb. 1.—Preliminary steps toward the establishment of a Pacific Electric bus line to connect the station that the Southern Pacific is to build at the foot of Smiley Heights with the business section of the city were taken today when Pacific Electric officials made a survey of the territory. In the party were P. C. Patton, traveling passenger agent; C. H. Jones, district agent, and G. W. Peachey, district superintendent. They were here for the railroad and were shown about by Mayor A. E. Brock, C. S. Hinckley, C. F. Hock, H. E. Yerxa and A. E. Isham, president and secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, A. Leipsic and others.

The railroad officials did not commit themselves, but went over the proposition thoroughly. A bus line is proposed from the Triangle to the new station out Olive avenue and through the Terracina district, a distance of two miles. Probably an hourly service to the station and a half-hour service to Terracina would be maintained. The bus would be similar to that now used between the Triangle and the University of Redlands. The Terracina district has been served by a street-car line, but this track is being taken up.

Report of the survey will be made to Pacific Electric officials and a decision is expected soon. It is indicated that it will be favorable.

New Building Record Set at Santa Monica

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Feb. 1.—Building permits issued in the city during the last month established a record, when the grand total of $459,560 was reached. The previous high mark was in July last year, when permits to a total of $418,720 were issued.

In January 1922, the valuations were $130,050. This shows a gain of more than 250 per cent over the corresponding month last year.

Though February is a short month, at the rate applications are increasing, officials predict that it is not improbable that even the record of the past month will be broken.

SEWAGE DISPOSAL DANGER ELIMINATED

SANTA MONICA IMPROVEMENTS PUT SYSTEM IN GOOD CONDITION

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

SANTA MONICA, Feb. 1.—Henry E. Elrod, sewage-disposal expert, who has been acting in an advisory capacity of the Public Works Department, announced this morning that with the installation of the new chlorination plant and screening system, sewage conditions are as good as those of any beach city in California and are improving daily.

The bacilli are rapidly becoming reduced and in a few days will be negligible at the point of outfall and the expert is of the opinion that the system here is far superior to that of Santa Barbara and San Diego.

Mr. Elrod is of the opinion that as far as present conditions are concerned there is no reason for agitation regarding sewage conditions and is satisfied that with the recent installation of the chlorinator and screen system, they will be as good as in any city on the Coast.

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 1.—W. H. Odell, Ford City resident, is asking $10,000 damages in a complaint filed in Superior Court at Department Three, here today. Andrew A. Crosbie, Taft City Marshal, and W. P. Hall and W. F. Pike, deputy marshals, and the American Surety Company of New York, Crosbie's bondsmen, are named as defendants in the suit.

In the complaint, filed through his attorney, George M. Cook, Odell declares that on January 15, last, he was arrested by the Marshal and his deputies, without cause or warrant of arrest, on a "pretended" charge of violating the city gambling ordinance.

The complainant goes on to say that he asked to be taken before a magistrate immediately, but the request was refused, although there were two authorities convenient. According to Odell a complaint was made the next morning against him before City Recorder C. G. Noble, who continues neither to dismiss said charge nor set the same for trial, it is said.

GALA OPENING AT HUNTINGTON

Pasadena Social Season Has Brilliant Start

Hotel Crowded and Nearly 400 Turned Away

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Feb. 1. — The formal opening of the social season at the Hotel Huntington tonight attracted a gay throng of pleasure-seekers from the winter colony and neighboring cities. The demand for reservations was so great that almost 400 late comers were turned away.

The function was the first important one held at the hotel since D. M. Linnard resumed its management. To compensate those who were unable to obtain reservations tonight he announced that a series of equally brilliant affairs will be given later this season.

"FAMOUS LOVERS"

A feature of the opening was a parade of famous lovers of history and literature, enacted by pretty girls from the motion-picture studios. The entertainment began in the dining-room during dinner, and continued later in the ballroom and lobby. The grounds around the hotel were lighted with torches of colored fire, and a red spotlight played on a huge column of blowing steam, simulating a pillar of flame. The illumination was visible for miles.

The main dining-room was decorated to suggest the whimsicality and airy grace of Pierrette, who was queen of festivities. While the green and gold of the palms was offset by pink roses and chiffon a very beautiful effect was achieved. As Pierrette, Anna Karenina was repeated encores with her interpretative dancing.

PARTIES MANY

Mrs. H. S. Carscallen, with fourteen, was hostess at one of the larger dinner parties. Mrs. H. C. House likewise had fourteen at her table, and C. A. Wheaton was host to a similar number. R. O. Desmond, Dr. J. F. Parker, Leo MacLaughlin and Dr. F. M. Walker had twelve each. L. H. Wilson of Los Angeles entertained sixteen. George T. Moody, A. T. Martin and George Wallace each had ten.

Among others entertaining at dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Howard Abbott, Gene Bryant, I. Bosworth, George H. Curtis, V. H. Conrad, Dr. E. C. Farmer, W. T. Hancock, Dr. V. Bernard Herbst, E. C. Huyck, T. Hochstader, C. S. Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. S. Johnston, Mrs. O. Keck, T. C. Marlowe, G. A. Northland, W. O. McConnell, W. H. Nichols, W. J. Powers, J. R. Pierce, Mrs. F. F. Prentiss, J. JESS WILLARD COMPLETELY SIDETRACKED AS CHAMPIONSHIP CONTENDER

TEX RICKARD WILL NOT EXERCISE HIS OPTION

Harry Wills and Joe Beckett Now Loom Up as Possible Victims of the Champion

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The large lumbering form of Jess Willard, ex-heavyweight champion of the world, today slowly sagged down out of the calcium in which it has basked for a month when Tex Rickard came out with the announcement that he had decided not to exercise his option on the services of Champion Jack Dempsey, which option expired today.

Rickard, almost alone of the promoters who have been talking about the heavyweight situation, has been figuring on Willard. The old westerner who controls Madison Square Garden has been rather insistent on using the giant Kansan, whom he regards as the only genuine opponent for the champion. When Rickard bowed to the edict of the New York and New Jersey boxing commissioners refusing to sanction a match in which Willard takes part, big Jess's chances of another crack at the title went by the boards.

In a statement issued today Rickard said that his chief reason for deciding not to exercise his option on the services of the champion lay in the fact that public opinion seems to be divided as to the most logical opponent for Dempsey. "I have always had the public with me in my big matches," said Rickard, "and until the public seems to be convinced that some one man is the logical candidate for the title I do not think it wise to stage a match."

Miss Marie Wagner of New York and Mrs. Carl V. Hitchins, Mexican champion, won the other place on the final round, defeating Mrs. S. F. Weaver and Mrs. deForest Candee of New York and Hempstead, 6-0, 6-0. TIMBER TOPPERS SCRAMBLE FOR HONORS

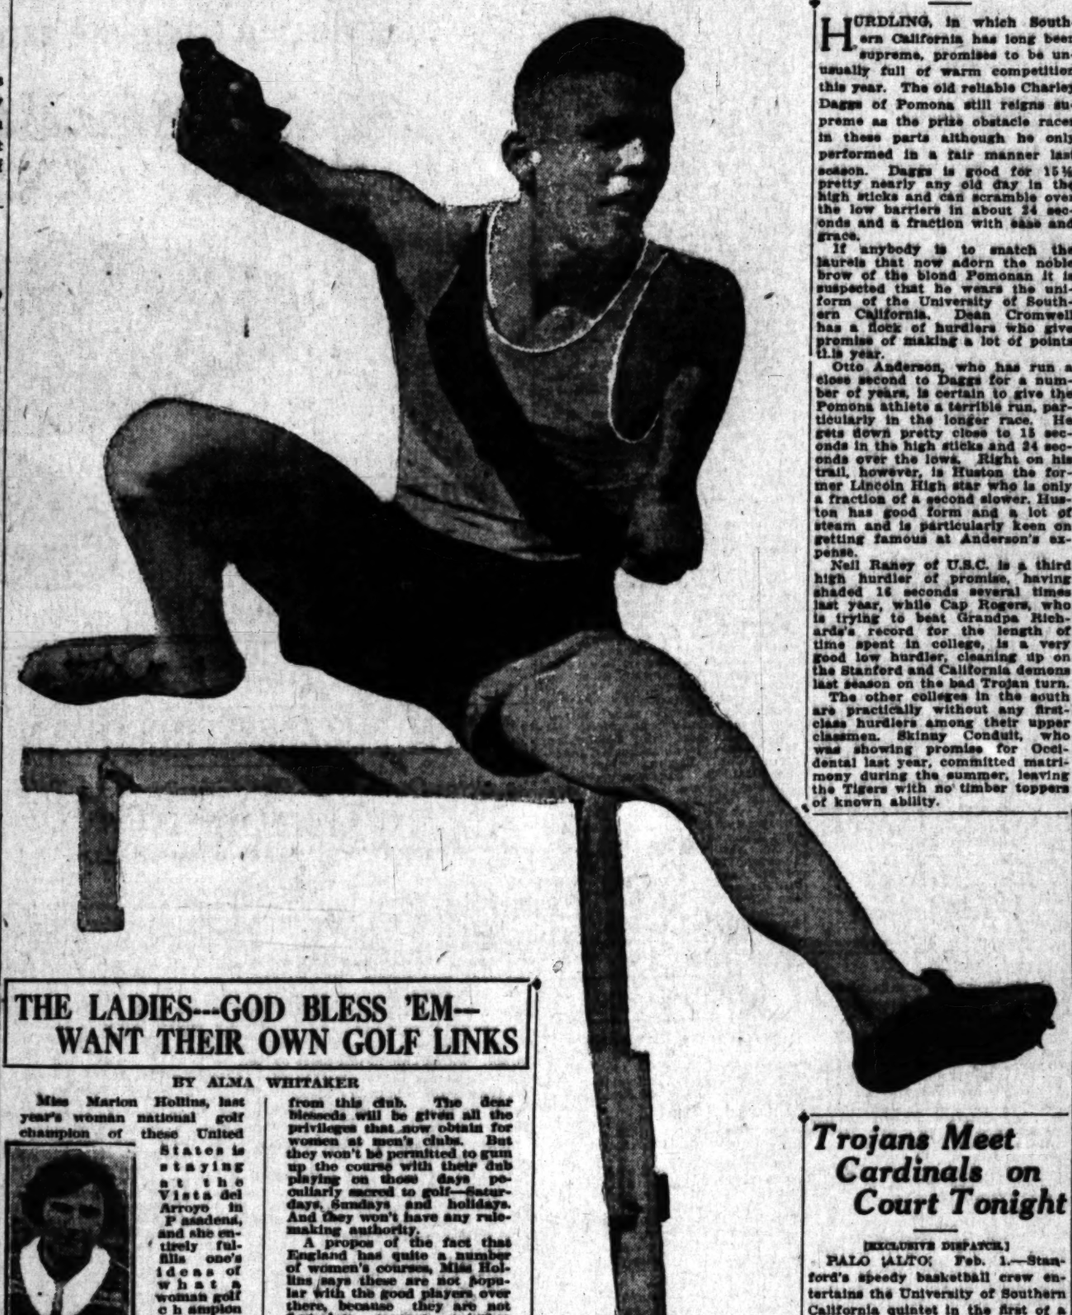
Trojan Hurdlers Out to Remove Laurels From Noble Brow of Charley Daggs



HURDLING, in which Southern California has long been supreme, promises to be unusually full of warm competition this year. The old reliable Charley Daggs of Pomona still reigns supreme as the prize obstacle racer in these parts although he only performed in a fair manner last season. Daggs is good for 15¼ pretty nearly any old day in the high sticks and can scramble over the low barriers in about 24 seconds and a fraction with ease and grace.

If anybody is to snatch the laurels that now adorn the noble brow of the blond Pomonan it is suspected that he wears the uniform of the University of Southern California. Dean Cromwell has a flock of hurdlers who give promise of making a lot of points this year.

Otto Anderson, who has run a close second to Daggs for a number of years, is certain to give the Pomona athlete a terrible run, particularly in the longer race. He gets down pretty close to 15 seconds in the high sticks and 24 seconds over the lows. Right on his trail, however, is Huston the former Lincoln High star who is only a fraction of a second slower. Huston has good form and a lot of steam and is particularly keen on getting famous at Anderson's expense.

Neil Raney of U.S.C. is a third high hurdler of promise, having shaded 16 seconds several times last year, while Cap Rogers, who is trying to beat Grandpa Richards's record for the length of time spent in college, is a very good low hurdler, cleaning up on the Stanford and California demons last season on the bad Trojan turn.

The other colleges in the south are practically without any first-class hurdlers among their upperclassmen. Skinny Conduit, who was showing promise for Occidental last year, committed matrimony during the summer, leaving the Tigers with no timber toppers of known ability.

Scrappy Huston,
Sophomore hurdling star at U.S.C., who promises to make Otto Anderson step lively this season.

THE LADIES---GOD BLESS 'EM— WANT THEIR OWN GOLF LINKS

BY ALMA WHITAKER

Marion Hollins.

Miss Marion Hollins, last year's woman national golf champion of these United States is staying at the Vista del Arroyo in Pasadena, and she entirely fulfils one's ideas of what a woman golf champion should look like. A delightfully healthy specimen, but just bubbling with the joie de vive, with natural rosy cheeks, well-rounded, strong capable young arms, walks with a graceful stride, and wears those essentially well-tailored boyish tweed suits, soft collars and ties, that the English sportswomen favor more often than our own.

She has been in California nearly two months and paid us a fleeting visit last week. Now she is back for another three weeks. Miss Hollins is, however, really here with a mission. I found it easier to be enthusiastic about Miss Hollins than about her mission. It is a perfectly good mission and if it were to materialise in Southern California, instead of way back at Glen Head, Long Island, I could rally to its cause with zest.

Her mission is to sell $1000 shares in the Women's National Golf and Tennis Club for which the land has already been acquired on Long Island. Membership is to be limited to 400 (socially glamorful number, that,) and Miss Hollins says that 306 memberships have already been sold.

The raison d'etre of the club is sweetly reasonable—to provide a championship course especially for women and a club where they will be welcome even on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays, absolutely free from the vexatious regulations that beset women players at those clubs where masculinity doth dominate. Now couldn't one be enthusiastic if, say, our Los Angeles Women's Athletic Club were sponsoring such an innovation! But tripping off to New York for those jolly untrammeled weekends, from California, might prove a trifle exacting. Still, even at that distance, our own Mary Browne is scrumptuously enthusiastic and is lending Miss Hollins the eclat of her support in this mission.

Men will not be excluded from this club. The dear blesseds will be given all the privileges that now obtain for women at men's clubs. But they won't be permitted to gum up the course with their dub playing on those days peculiarly sacred to golf—Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. And they won't have any rule-making authority.

A propos of the fact that England has quite a number of women's courses, Miss Hollins says these are not popular with the good players over there, because they are not first-class courses, catering only to lady-dubs. This Long Island course will be something very superior to the English ones, and yet allow for the slight inferiority of the female of the species as compared with the masculine championship standard.

All of which, as I said before, would sound perfectly thrilling if it were being planned for Southern California. However, Miss Hollins says she has sold one $1000 membership to Mrs. C. W. Clark of Burlingame and expects to do a thriving business down here.

The club has a stylish committee of which Miss Hollins herself is chairman, and made up of such people as Mrs. Howard F. Whitney, wife of the president of the U.S.G.A., Mrs. Thomas Hastings of the Colony Club, and so forth. Who, better than a celebrated golfer's wife, could better know the need of "golf freedom for women"? Miss Hollins can talk enthusiastically about these members of the executive committee, but cannot be persuaded to talk about herself. Which is, perhaps, very proper, but I found my interest flagging. It is so hard to be interested in the charms of people one doesn't know. However, if they are half as nice as Miss Hollins herself, they are probably very desirable.

They would be infinitely nicer if they were founding this club out here, where we can play golf 365 days a year. Over there one has to put away one's golf clubs from December to April—and think how tantalizing for a $1000 member if she had to take her little eastern vacation from here during those sad months?, But Miss Marion Hollins is a charming missionary. And I just loved her bobbed hair.

Trojans Meet Cardinals on Court Tonight

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

PALO ALTO, Feb. 1.—Stanford's speedy basketball crew entertains the University of Southern California quintet in the first of a two-game series on the local's court tomorrow night. Both Coaches Les Turner and Andy Kerr have their squads all pepped up for the ensuing encounters and two regular battles are expected.

The Trojans arrive here tomorrow morning with victory to their credit over the California Bears—also a defeat at the hands of the Bruins. U.S.C. will be strengthened for contests with the Cards with the addition of Charley Bone, star running guard, who was unable to start against the Bears because of an injured ankle. Bone will probably start in place of Campbell.

Stanford's team is in perfect condition and will be the same one to take the floor that has won all of its games except one, that with the alumni played early in the season. Following are the line-ups of the two teams:

U.S.C.		Stanford.

Firpo Gets Fine Send-Off From His Home Folks

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 1.—More than a thousand admirers of Luis Angel Firpo gave the Argentine heavyweight pugilist a rousing send-off when he sailed for New York today on the steamer Southern Cross for a fight with "Bill" Brennan and with the expectation of a possible meeting with Jack Dempsey for the world's heavyweight championship. Firpo was sent away with shouts of "the future champion of the world" ringing in his ears.

Carlos Scaglia, an Argentine middleweight, and Jose Agusti, who managed the Firpo-Tracey fight here, also were passengers.

POLO COMBAT IS POSTPONED

Wigmore's Improvement is Good Sign for Locals

Tobin's Wicked Mallet Will Cause Trouble

Polo Season Rapidly Getting Into Its Stride

Soggy grounds and threatened rain yesterday moved the authorities to postpone the polo game game scheduled to be played at Midwick today between Midwick and San Mateo. The game will be played Sunday and the two quartettes will get together again on Tuesday. San Mateo is counted upon to be a strong contender in the Coast championship tournament at Del Monte in April and the appearance of the northern four has been eagerly awaited.

Midwick, present holder of the Coast title, is still crippled by the absence of the crash No. 1, Lafayette Hughes, but John Wigmore, who has been filling in at the position, is rapidly working into the combination and showed flashes of form against Del Monte last week that would be worthy of a high goal player.

San Mateo brings South a fast quartette headed by Cyril Tobin, a star of many seasons, whose ability seems to be not one bit less as the years go by. Capt. E. C. MacAuley plays No. 1, Tobin No. 2 Meyers McCreery No. 3, and Louis Carpenter No. 4 and the quartette has shown splendid teamwork and horsemanship so far. Midwick will again lineup with Wigmore at No. 1, Teddy Miller at No. 2, Arthur Perkins at No. 3 and the old reliable and never failing Carleton Burke playing back.

The California polo season is well under way with the clubs playing a round robin schedule of matches on the fields of each club every week-end. There is to be only one actual tournament this year—the first annual Pacific Coast championship at Del Monte from March 28 to April 15. The teams are "prepping" for the title event which will have almost daily play for the cups and trophies over a period of three weeks.

TOILER COURT BATTLE SCENE

Lincoln Quintet Takes on Pasadena Cagemen

Mechanic-Pioneer Contest in Trojan Pavilion

Franklin Five Entertains Jackrabbit Squad

Hollywood and Manual Arts meet this afternoon in the Toilers' gym in the feature game of the City Basketball League's fourth round of play. The winner of today's tilt will be leading the circuit and will be figured to have the best chance of winning the 1923 championship. Lincoln meets Pasadena on the Bulldogs' court. Poly and Los Angeles High clash in their annual grudge battle at the U.S.C. pavilion and Long Beach journeys to Franklin High to tackle the Kitefliyers in the other scraps on for today's program.

Coaches Fred Johnson and Motts Blair have trained their quintets hard and long in preparation for the battle between the Foothillers and Toilers, and each send their teams on the floor with the idea of "victory or bust." Manual is depending upon the goal tossing ability of Max Miller, Riley, Prigge and Redfern and Hood's effective guarding. Hollywood's hopes are based upon the playing of Minkin, Wolfkuhler, Turner, Armstrong and Newhouse. The consensus of local hoop followers points toward a Toiler victory, but there are plenty who figure the Movie Lads will come out on top.

Lincoln is favored to hand the Pasadena Bulldogs their fourth straight trimmin, although rumors continue to float around whispering that the Railsplitters will take the floor in a crippled condition. Los Angeles is favored by the critics to clean up on the Polytechnic hopes in the annual battle for blood between the two institutions. However, with McMahon at forward instead of guard, the Mechanics seem to have struck a more powerful combination. In a

Uppercut Knocks Ambition Out of Actor

Howard Langford Has Brief Fistic Career

Soon Found Stage Was His Natural Vocation

A stiff right upper-cut delivered by an opponent in a preliminary bout decided for Howard Langford that he had better stick to the stage and pass up his ambitions for the crown now worn by Jack Dempsey.

Howard Langford, who is coming to the Orpheum next week with Ina Frederick, in their one-act comedy sketch, "Shopping," tells of his experiences in the squared ring in the days when he was touring the Pacific Coast with a stock company.

"I was only playing minor roles in those days, and at times found it difficult to stretch the pay envelope from week to week. Being a fairly handy kid with my fists I used to do some boxing whenever the opportunity presented itself. My ring nom de plume was "Kid" Langford and for a short time I met with success.

"The company was having one of its dull weeks, so I applied at the local fight promoter's office for a chance to go on at his weekly show and was signed to meet some young local husky in one of the preliminary bouts.

"Things were moving rather lively when I forgot to duck, or I ducked (I don't remember which) into a vicious right-hand swing. That is all. When I came up for air my seconds were throwing the contents of the bucket over me and holding smelling salts to my nostrils. I decided to give up the ring and stick to the stage."

From the success he has met on the legitimate and vaudeville stages of this country and Europe the scintillating comedian now has no regrets for throwing up the sponge, or having it thrown up for him.

LARRY SEMON FIVE WINS ANOTHER TILT

The Larry Semon Athletic Club basketball five in the "B" division of the local A. A. U. League, added another victory to its string Wednesday night at the Horsley Studios by trouncing the Y. M. H. A. quintet, 33 to 24, after a fast game. Gold, Gerthidde and Kivitky were the stars of the game. The score at half time was 15 to 14, in favor of the Semon squad.

OKLAHOMA NINE HAS BIG SPURT

Six Consecutive Contests Won by Gob Crew

High-Priced Stars Asked to Play Here

White Kings Meet Balboa Park Squadron

BY JOE BUSH

One of the features of the past six weeks of play in the Greater Southern California Baseball Association has been the remarkable winning streak of the U.S.S. Oklahoma ball club, which has captured six consecutive tilts. The Gobs have been playing a wonderful brand of ball and have defeated some of the best squads in the circuit.

Jester, who twirls for the Oklahoma squad, has been in a big measure responsible for his team's success as he has been pitching steady ball every time out. Jester also swats the ball with a vengeance, Chenoweth and Moore also have been soaking the apple around with careless abandon.

Los Angeles fans may yet get one more peek at Willie Kamm and Jimmy O'Connell, former San Francisco Seals, who were sold to the big leagues for fabulous prices, if present plans of Joe Pirrone, secretary of the Greater Southern California Baseball Association, go through. Pirrone wired the two stars asking them to play on his team against the Los Angeles White Sox in a two-game series between the two clubs on the 10th and 11th insts.

Pirrone and the manager of the White Sox had a run in lately so Pirrone says he is going to get together a ball club that will trim the pants off of the colored nine.

The White Kings will journey to San Diego next Sunday to take on the fast Balboa Park Club of that city in a battle that is expected to be a hot one. White King officials will charter a special car to take a group of their employees down to see the game and the San Diego branch of the White King company will also turn out. This means that the locals will have a big crowd of rooters. Gordon Jones, Oakland pitcher, has been added to the White King's staff.

Ping Bodie's All-Stars will once more meet the Los Angeles White Sox in a two-game series this coming Saturday and Sunday. Schorr, Thurston and Schneider will be the pitchers for Bodie's team, while Whalen will do the receiving. Curry and Mendes will do the mound work for the colored boys. The famous colored band will be out at the park Sunday.

Paul Zuelch, first sacker for the Kant-Skore Pistons, has been showing up in fine style around the initial bag. He also has been hitting the agate to all parts of the lot.

Two husky rookies, Mike File, 190-pound right-hand pitcher, and Bud Anderson, 195-pound outfielder, have been signed to Angel contracts by Scout Joe Pirrone. Both are expected to make good.

GETTING READY FOR BIG MEET

Runners Train Hard for Indoor Clashes

Keen Race is Expected for Meritorious Prize

Struggles to Come Off in Brooklyn Armory

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—A keen struggle is expected for the Meritorious trophy, which will be offered at the annual indoor athletic meet of the Wilco A.A., in the Thirteenth Regiment Armory, Brooklyn, on February 10, to the athlete whose performance in the opinion of a jury of three qualified judges is adjudged the best in the series of events planned. This trophy, offered last year for the first time, was won by Joie W. Ray, Illinois A.C. middle distance star and national champion, who was voted the star of the meet by Lawson Robertson, University of Pennsylvania track coach; Secretary Fred W. Rubien of the Amateur Athletic Union and James E. (Ted) Meredith, former Red and Blue athlete. It was at the Wilco games last year that Ray established a world's record of 8:31 2-5 for the 3000-meter run.

TO BE FEATURE

Ray is again entered for the 3000-meter run, which will be a feature of the coming meet. But the Chicago runner is promised plenty of opposition by the runners who will be selected to face him. Among them is Walter Higgins, Columbia's crack distancer, who is expected to extend Ray to the limit in the bid for victory. Abel Kiviat, one of the greatest runners in the country when he was competing as a member of the Irish-American A.C. track squad, is scheduled to make a "comeback" at the coming meet and is regarded as a likely candidate for the trophy award.

Allan Woodring, Syracuse sprinter; J. A. LeConey, intercollegiate champion; Loren Murchison of Newark and Bob McAllister, entered in the sprint feature, and Willie Plant, Morningside A.C. walking star, who is to compete in a 3000-meter walk, are others who are expected to contribute performances which will qualify them for consideration when the trophy is awarded.

HIS COMEBACK

Kiviat is expected to make the Metropolitan A.A.U. half-mile run championship the occasion for his "comeback instead of the 3000-meter run, as he originally intended. This event has attracted a representative field of local middle distancers. Among those expected to strive for the title are Sid Leslie, national 600-yard champion; Mike Devaney, national steeplechase champion; W. Thompson, local mile titleholder; Jack Sellers, local half-mile champion; Joe Higgins, for Holy Cross middle distance star; Bob Crawford, former Lafayette College runner; William Sullivan, Paulist A.C.; Walter Koppisch, Columbia University; R. L. Johnston, Princeton; Charles Beagan, St. Anselm's A.C.; Alex Brewster, Bloomfield Lyceum; Eliot Balestier, Knights of St. Antony, and George Nolan, Al Hulsenback and Al Dolder of the New York A.C.

The handicap A.A.U. events have attracted large fields. These events include a 100-yard dash, 440-yard run, one-mile run and two-mile novice race.

Cubs Tackle Whittier on Home Grounds

Caddy Works's casaba chasers will take on the Whittier College basketball crew this evening in the fourth round of the conference row. The brawl will take place at the Southern Branch gymnasium.

It is not expected that the Cubs will experience much trouble with the Post quintet. The latter has not appeared to be a very strong outfit, and have as yet failed to annex a contest.

However, it is entirely possible that the Quakers may show a complete reversal of form and hand the Bruins a surprise.

The Cubs have recovered from the setback they received Monday at the hands of their big brothers from Berkeley, and are in excellent shape for the battle. Hoppenyan and Gibbs have been showing some fine stuff in hitting the basket recently, and Bresee, Beason and Goertz are going as great as ever.

TIJUANA RESULTS

First race, five and one-half furlongs—Cannoe (Pond.) won; The Vengeance (D. Hurt,) second; Charlotte Smith (Flynn,) third. Time 1:11 2-5.

Miller has helped the Manual casaba team to win its first three league games and play with the Toilers against Hollywood in the Artesian gym today. Miller is leading in points scored for the season.

CHINESE BALL NINE LEADS CITY LEAGUE

FIGHT GOSSIP

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—Joe Jawson, the Milwaukee lightweight, who will clash with Sailor Freedman of the West Side in the main event at East Chicago on Monday night, gave a pleasing exhibition of his wares today at the Arcade Gymnasium.

Freedman also worked at the Arcade before Jawson arrived, and boxed with his sparring partners. He was on the road in the morning and is anxious to give a great exhibition of his ability. It will be the first time Sailor has boxed in the vicinity of Chicago in two years.

Charley White, local lightweight, matched to meet Rocky Kansas in New York on February 9, settled down to strenuous training today.

Tommy Walsh, manager of Joe Burman, has closed with Frank Mulkern, Milwaukee promoter, for Joe to meet a worthy opponent on February 19. Manager Walsh asserted he hopes the promoter will get Joe Lynch, bantam champion.

Jock Malone, Minneapolis middleweight, came down from St Paul and started light training today for a number of pending matches.

Ever Hammer, another of Chicago's lightweights, is hard at work for his ten-round bout with Sid Barbarian at Detroit on February 12.

"MY THIRTY YEARS IN BASEBALL"

Article XXV

BY JOHN J. McGRAW

Manager of New York Giants, World's Baseball Champions, 1921-1922

[Copyright, 1923, U. S. and Canada, by Christy Walsh Syndicate.]

When I took charge of the Giants there were twenty-three players on the pay roll. Their contracts were turned over to me by Mr. Freedman. The club at that time was in last place by fourteen games—a good, safe margin. The attendance was almost nothing.

When I first walked on the field to see my team I found Christy Mathewson playing first base.

"Mr. Freedman," I said to the owner, "with a club in last place by fourteen games in the middle of the season, there is little chance of us doing much this year. We've got to build for next season. I will center on that and do what we can with what we've got."

In front of me I had a list of the twenty-three players.

"You can begin by releasing these," I said, and I marked out nine names with one stroke of the pencil.

"But you can't do that," he said in astonishment, "those players cost me a lot of money. Those nine men represent nearly $14,000."

"Well, what of it?" I retorted. "The club couldn't be any worse off without them. Their salaries for the rest of the season would amount to more than that. We will really be saving money."

"But"——

IS MANAGER

"Don't forget, Mr. Freedman, I am the manager of this club, I will decide who I want. You can have those players if you want them for your own amusement, but I won't have them on the club."

He threw up his hands in a gesture of helplessness.

"What will you do for others?" he asked.

"I'm going to get 'Kid' Eiberfeld, 'Fielder' Jones, Ed Delehanty, George Davis"——

"Stop right there!" he ordered. "I won't have George Davis on my club. He's been here and I don't like him. I wouldn't give him thirty-five hundred dollars a year. I won't have him."

"But Im going to have him, Mr. Freedman. He's a great player and I need him. I am the manager, you know."

"All right, I can do nothing," he finally said. "Go ahead."

TAKES MATTY OFF

In the meantime I took Matty off first base and put McGann there. We knew Matty to be a great pitcher and did everything to encourage him.

Soon we had a fighting spirit in the club and, though we ended the season last, we managed to win half of our remaining games.

That fall I set about in earnest to put together the club I wanted. I got Mike Donlin from Cincinnati; George Browne, who had been released by Philadelphia and I traded Charley Babb and Jack Cronin to Brooklyn for Bill Dahlen. That, by the way, I consider the most successful deal that I ever made. It gave me just what I wanted—a great defensive shortstop. There were mighty few better than Dahlen. I also got Jack Warner from Boston. Remember, I already had McGann, Mertes and Billy Gilbert. On the New York club I had inherited Mathewson and Bowerman.

To prevent confusion let me explain that Bresnahan was a pitcher. Mathewson, McGinnity and Bresnahan as the leaders. I did not get Wiltse and Ames until some time later, when I also bought Arthur Devlin, a youngster from Newark.

OUT WITH RUSH

Before we got well under way several minor changes were made. At any rate we started out with a rush and ended the season in second place. The attendance had begun to increase in leaps and bounds. If I do say it myself New York was again on the baseball map.

In the meantime Freedman had sold out his interests to John T. Brush, owner of the Cincinnati club.

There has been much talk about why Freedman got out of baseball. Personally, I believe my signing of George Davis for that salary and putting on other players as I pleased started him. He thought baseball was out of his hands; that he was helpless in the hands of a manager who had such authority in a four-year contract. Often I have talked with him about that during his latter years and he has laughingly agreed that I had the dope about right.

John T. Brush, though, observing my start thought that I was

Sarazen, Miss Hollins Play Mrs. Letts, Hutchison

GENE AND JOCK IN MIXED TILT

Beverly Hills Club Gets Big Golf Program

Ed Tufts's "Children" Hosts to Girl Golfers

Mrs. Letts and Miss Hollins Will Tee Off

BY BOB LOCKE

Long Beach is terribly sore at the weather man. Yesterday Gene Sarazen and Jock Hutchison were to give their public golf lesson at the Virginia Country Club, but due to bad weather conditions the affair was canceled and thus a large number of the beachers are forced to play their same old golf until Gene finds time to drop down again.

Today, however, the two famous pros will put on one of the classiest shows that Los Angeles and points south have ever seen. At the Los Angeles Country Club Gene Sarazen and Miss Marion Hollins will play Jock Hutchison and Mrs. C. F. Letts in an eighteen-hole match.

Mrs. Letts, conqueror of Mrs. Cecil Leitch of English fame, and Miss Hollins, are two of the best women golfers in the country. Both women play a strong, steady game and make an even match as partners for Gene and Jock.

GENE IS FAVORITE

If Gene Sarazen plays the kind of golf he has been lately, he and Miss Hollins ought to get first honors on a silver platter. Jock, however, is confident that he and Mrs. Letts are the stronger team and will have little trouble in annexing first place.

The Los Angeles Country Club course is in fine condition and if the weather man will postpone "his stuff" for about twenty-four hours a wonderful exhibition will be seen by a large number of the golf bugs of Los Angeles.

Following their match today the Big Two will leave for the south to give an exhibition at the Coronado Country Club and another at Chula Vista. Both these matches are awaited with a lot of interest by the southern enthusiasts and a big crowd is ready to see Gene and Jock perform.

Monday they return to Los Angeles and from here they will make their weary way to parts unknown——unless——

Walter Hagen, British open champion, now is in town and is feeling in a fighting mood after copping top honors at San Antonio. Hagen is more than anxious to meet Sarazen in an unofficial championship match and also is anxious that the match be played in or near Los Angeles.

Ray McCarthy, manager of Sarazen and Hutchison, has no dates lined up for next week and is doing all in his power to bring the two champions together some day during this time. So, if all turns out as it should, the golfers of Los Angeles will have dished out to them one of the most sensational matches ever played.

NEW JAP NET DEMON FOUND

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Zenzo Shimidzu, Japanese Davis cup player, who resides in this city, today reported the achievement of another Japanese player who is expected to demonstrate his right to recognition in Davis cup matches. Shimidzu received a cablegram which announced that S. Okamato had just won the singles, doubles and mixed doubles in the Bengal championship at Calcutta.

BOXING NOTES

With new boys stepping into town every day after bouts, it looks like plenty of entertainment should be furnished the local fans.

Johnny Reisler, the New York featherweight, who recently arrived here, started training yesterday at McFarland's gym. Reisler is here with his manager, I. Kessler, and may be signed up to box Danny Nunes or Bud Ridley at Vernon. Reisler is a good boy and should give either Ridley or Nunes plenty of trouble.

The Portland Boxing Commission suspended Jimmy Sacco and Frankie Britt the other night for stalling. Local fans wonder Sacco ever gets a bout anywhere with his style of fighting. He had quite a number of starts around here, but put up only one good fight.

George Lavigne, Los Angeles' own product, will start again soon. Lavigne is one of the classiest welters on the Coast and when he is right, it takes a very good boy to beat him. Lavigne wants to box Jimmy Duffy.

Joe Burns, the San Francisco 122-pounder, writes that he recently boxed in Sacramento winning in one round. Burns is working hard in the north, hoping to get in good form before coming to Los Angeles after bouts. Burns wants to make the south his home.

LINCOLN STARS PLAY FINAL GAME TODAY

Carrol (Pete) Thompson and Jimmy McCue, Lincoln High star athletes will play their last game for their Alma Mater this afternoon, when the Railsplitter basketball squad tackles Pasadena on the Bulldogs' court. Thompson has played on the football, basketball and baseball teams during his last three years at Lincoln. McCue also starred in these same sports. Their graduation will weaken the Railsplitter quintet severely as they have been the big point-getters.

Shoemaker finished in fifteen frames without a scratch on his string, making a high run of twenty-four.

exactly right. Immediately he began negotiations for the club. I acted as the emissary between him and Freedman's home out in the country. I must have kept that road hot going back and forth.

Finally the deal was consummated and John T. Brush became the owner of the New York Giants. He was heart and soul with me in my plan to build up a club. He didn't care what players I bought or what I paid for them as long as my judgment dictated their purchase. Right here I would like to say that not once from then until his death did Mr. Brush ever interfere with me in the slightest way. He gave me the reins and told me to go just as far as I liked.

IN LOOSE WAY

I have related these incidents of the early days in New York in a rather scattering way. I have made no attempt to pick up the various moves in chronological order. Their places in the construction of the club was of more importance than the dates. I have, therefore, dealt with them that way.

During these interesting days the Baltimore club, as was expected, dropped out of the American League and New York took its place. Then began the rivalry—the competition—in New York that eventually turned out a great thing for the game.

The biggest move we made in the latter part of 1902 and in 1903 was rehabilitating Mathewson as a pitcher. The way he developed through encouragement was little short of amazing. With a club of spirit behind him he burst in bloom overnight it seemed.

Another chapter is required to point out the early defects and quick growth of Mathewson.

SALVADORE VIES WITH SEA BOXER

Champion Tackles Ashmore in Main Event at Legion Arena Tonight

Phil Salvadore, holder of the Pacific Coast lightweight and welter championships, and also regarded as one of the foremost mitt artists in the country, does not seem to be greatly concerned over the outcome of his fight with Sailor Ashmore in the main event at the American Legion Hollywood arena tonight.

Salvadore holds decisions over Jack Josephs and Joe Benjamin, but he should find in the sailor a tough opponent whose style is quite different than any he has battled of late. Ashmore has lost but one battle in twenty starts at the Legion arena and is prepared to put up a stiff fight against the title-holder tonight.

Tod Morgan, who has whipped every featherweight of importance on the Coast, is stacked up against Jimmy Hackley in the semi-windup. Hackley is the holder of the fleet featherweight title, and is expected to slow up the Morgan party.

The special event will bring together two high-class boxers in Frankie Malone and Jackie Norman. The former held the featherweight championship of the Coast for some time, while the latter is regarded as one of the most dangerous men in the business.

Classy Jimmy Dunning meets Kid Williams, a 116 pounds, John Kenney will square off with Sailor Martinez, at 133 pounds, Benny Demske will tackle Hank Gattan at 155 pounds. Sailor Stiers and George Sirey furnish the curtain-raiser at 120 pounds. George Blake will referee.

HIGH-PRICED GIANTS SIGN 1923 CONTRACTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Jack Bentley, southpaw pitching star and home-run hitter, purchased for $75,000 by the New York Giants from Baltimore, today accepted salary terms with the world's champions for 1923, the Giants announced. His signed contract is expected in a few days.

The signed contracts of four other players reached the Giants today, including that of Centerfielder Jimmy O'Connel, another $75,000 star, acquired from San Francisco.

YANKS RELEASE TWO AND MAIL CONTRACTS

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The New York Yankees today released two players to Southern Association clubs.

Contracts were mailed by the Yankees to twenty-eight players, including all of last year's regulars except Babe Ruth and Carl Mays, both of whom have held-over contracts for 1923.

BATTLING NELSON IN SCRAP WITH TURNER

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

STOCKTON, Feb. 1.—Battling Nelson, former lightweight champion of the world, will meet Rufe Turner, who was a prominent negro lightweight on the Pacific Coast many years ago, in a short exhibition match here tonight. Turner claims he challenged Nelson several times when both of them were in their heyday but the match was never made.

WOMEN BOWLERS IN BIG MATCH TONIGHT

Some good bowling scores should be made tonight at the Angelus alleys, when a special match between two three-player women teams is put on. Mrs. L. D. Meador, former Pacific Coast woman champion, will captain one team, while Mrs. Robert Warner will skipper the other team.

TWO CHAMPS IN BIG MAT CARD

Double Main Events Slated for Monday Night

Philharmonic Auditorium Scene of Battles

Ad Santel Tackles Tough Salt Lake Wrestler

Los Angeles wrestling fans will be treated to the sight of two champs appearing in a double main event next Monday night when Ad Santel, world's light heavyweight champ, meets George Nelson, and Johnny Meyers, world's 158-pound champion, takes on Sam Sandow at the Philharmonic Auditorium.

Both bouts are expected to bristle with action and, according to the advance seat sale, a packed house is assured to take in the best grappling card ever put on in Los Angeles. All four principals are in tip-top condition and feel certain of victory.

Santel has won all of his bouts here in a rather convincing style and has had a hard time finding opponents. After searching around here without success Promoter Kenneth Dix hit upon the plan of importing some mat men capable of giving the champ a tough battle. George Nelson, 210-pounder, who has met all the best wrestlers in the world, was the man chosen. Nelson has strength, speed and a variety of holds, so should give Santel the toughest kind of a match. The two will meet be two falls out of three with a two-hour time limit.

Meyers's contest with Sandow will mark his first appearance in Los Angeles since he so spectacularly defeated Walter Miller in the match for the middleweight title. Meyers has cleaned up everything in the East and Middle West and will bring with him a new hold which he has made famous. The cognomen of the new grip is the "stopper hold," so called because it always stops his opponents. Sandow claims he can show Meyers something and that he has ordered calling cards with the words "middleweight champion" after his name.

Society is expected to attend the matches in a body and many of the local "400" have made reservations for seats.

NET MEN TALK OF CHANGES

International Questions to be Discussed When Tennis Officials Get Together

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Consideration of questions of international importance will occupy the United States Lawn Tennis Association at its annual meeting here next Saturday.

The new regulations for Davis cup play and a new international playing code, adopted at a conference of fourteen nations in London last December, will be discussed while consideration will be given to the question of joining the International Tennis Federation.

Among the subjects to be considered will be the reduction of the entry list for the national singles championship to sixty-four players instead of approximately 128 as in recent seasons.

Resolutions will be offered to revive the national interscholastic championships; to change the eligibility age limit for the boys' and junior championships and the eligibility age limit for the veterans' tournament.

Dwight F. Davis of St. Louis, donor of the international team trophy bearing his name, is slated for election as president to succeed Julius S. Myrick of New York. Other officers selected by the nominating committee are: Vice-President, George W. Wightman, Boston; secretary, Paul B. Williams of Utica, N. Y.; treasurer, Louis B. Dailey, East Orange, N. J.

Slow motion pictures showing in action William M. Johnston of San Francisco, former national singles champion, and Gerald L. Patterson, captain of the 1923 Australian Davis cup team, will be shown at the annual banquet.

Of four pioneer automobiles, one was built by Henry Ford, one by C. E. Durrea, one by Elwood Haynes and one by Benz of Germany.

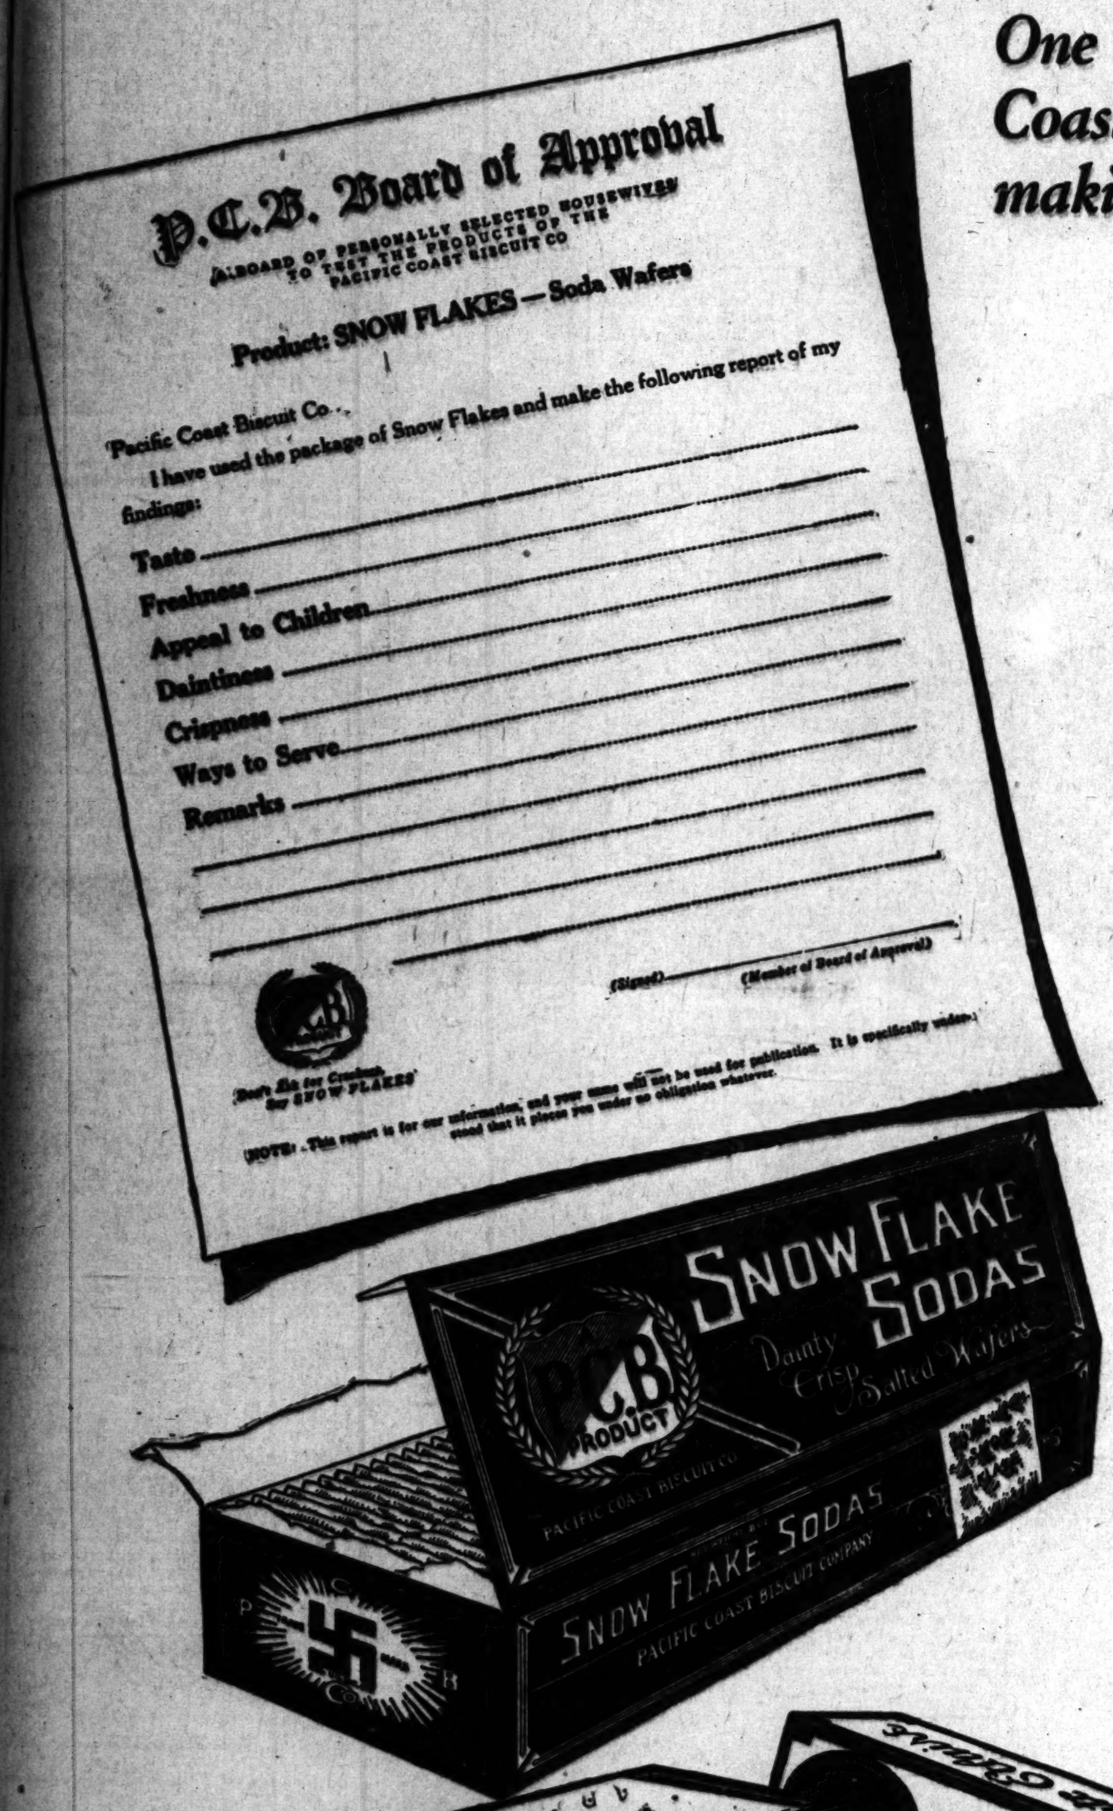
Los Angeles Women to Serve on P. C. B. Board of Approval



One thousand local women to act on Pacific Coast Biscuit Company's Board of Approval making special taste tests of P.C.B. Products

ONE THOUSAND representative women in Southern California cities are being selected to judge the merits of Snow Flakes and other P.C.B. bakery products. Those selected are being chosen because they represent what might be called the "typical Western housewife."

These women will constitute the P.C.B. Board of Approval—actually testing P.C.B. crackers, cakes and cookies in their own homes.

They will observe carefully the reception given P.C.B. Products when they serve them to their families and guests. They will serve them on as many different occasions as possible and thus by the actual test of taste learn the opinions of many users.

They will of necessity be frank and impartial in their tests of P.C.B. Products, for they will get the viewpoint of the consumer, alone. That should mean much to you.

The establishment of the P.C.B. Board of Approval is a natural outgrowth of the constant desire of this company to keep very close to the preference of the consumers of its products.

Thus the Pacific Coast Biscuit Co. is able to bake crackers and cakes to please the public taste.

All this month—February—the P.C.B. Products tested by the Board of Approval will be SNOW FLAKES. The results of these tests will be published at a later date. Be sure to watch for them!

PRODUCE MARKET

Trading yesterday was light. The demand was moderate and supplies were liberal in fruits and staple vegetables, but rather light for all local vegetables except peas. Apples and bananas are in good demand among the fruits. Lettuce is weaker and selling at lower level. Peas are in heavy supply and selling slowly, although reports of frost damage were reported from some producing sections. Local and Turlock sweet potatoes are about cleaned up and the trade is drawing upon the Southern States for supplies. Tomatoes are selling slightly lower, although local stock is practically of the season.

Bullish Views Reverse Prices in Grain Mart

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

CHICAGO, Feb. 1.—A decided change in sentiment was witnessed in the grain markets and, while there was a moderate decline early on bearish news from abroad, the undertone was strong and the finish was at about the top, with net gains of 1¢@1¼¢ on wheat, ¾¢@1¼¢ on corn, ¼¢@¾¢ on oats and ¾¢ on rye.

There was little enthusiasm among local wheat bears early, despite a decline of ⅞¢@1¼¢ in Liverpool and prospects of Argentine exports of 2,555,000 bushels from Argentina for the week, the latter being around 2,500,000 bushels in excess of the previous week. Offerings around 1.16¾ for May were quickly absorbed by commission houses and with short covering and increased outside buying prices moved up readily at the top, showing 1¢@2c over the early low, with the finish within ¼@¾¢ of the outside figures.

A belief that the Lenroot credit bill would pass the Senate tomorrow with an Allied loan in Austria, and a lack of moisture in the dry districts in the Southwest were the main bullish influences and there was little opposition until May got up to around 1.18, at which figure and over there was plenty of grain for sale. Export demand was only fair, with sales of 700,000 bushels claimed to have been made to Greece. Hard winter premiums at the Gulf were ¾¢ lower at 6⅝¢ over Chicago May, the lowest difference on the crop.

Corn prices advanced to the best figure in two weeks, and at the top May sold within 1¾¢ and July within 1¢ over the highest point of the season. Sentiment was bullish and with wheat strong and an increase in the outside interest the bulge was easily maintained. There was some buying by a strong local operator, while the selling on the advance was largely in the way of profit-taking. Some rain has fallen in Argentina, but more is needed. Domestic conditions continue the dominating influence in corn and reports of a slow export demand attract little attention. Receipts, 110 cars, with the basis on spot better as compared with May.

Short covering on the strength in other grains advanced oats prices readily. There was nothing in the situation to cause independent action. Cash demand slow and Mayburg sold at 41⅛@41⅝, or 9⅛¢ under the May. Receipts, 62 cars.

While there was some foreign buying of rye futures early, there was only a limited demand at the seaboard and the advance in futures was due mainly to the upturn in wheat. The two northwestern markets had 102 cars.

DAILY MARKET LETTER OF THE NEW YORK COMMERCIAL

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The California Prune and Apricot Growers' Association today announced its re-entry into the prune market and named prices ranging from 1 to 3-4 of a cent per pound over the opening basis save on 20s, which are quoted lower. The new prices are: Sunsweets, 20s, 21½ cents, a reduction of 3½ cents per pound; 30s, 11 1-4 cents; 40s, 9 cents. The prices on the latter two sizes are bulk basis; the 20s, packed basis. Growers are offered at 21 1-4 cents for 20s packed, a cut of 3 1-4 cents; 30s, 11 cents; 40s, 8 3-4 cents; 50s, 7 3-4 cents; 60s, 7½ cents. All bulk basis and representing an advance of 1-4 cent on each size; 70s, 80s, 90s, 7 cents, bulk basis, representing advances of 1-4 cent on 70s and 3-4 cent on 80s and 90s. On 100-120s the market is ½ cent higher, at 6½ cents packed, with 120s at 6 cents, up 3-4 cent. Only a limited quantity of the smaller sizes is available, says the association and Growers and Sunsweets cannot be shipped in mixed cars.

The association offered a few growers apricots at 20 cents for standards, 24 cents on choice and 25½ cents for extra choice, all in twenty-five-pound boxes. In commenting on market conditions, the association said: "Stock prunes and apricots very light considering season of year. Believe market will be entirely cleaned up by April."

SOME ORANGES UP

California oranges were slightly higher on 150s and smaller; unchanged on 126s and larger. There was a good demand at the sale of nineteen cars of navels, prices ranging $2.40@4.50 per box, according to size and quality.

Florida oranges were strong, 3870 boxes being sold at $2.65@6.25. Grapefruit was unchanged. Florida tangerines were likewise unchanged, prices ranging $1.75@4.00 per half box; 3215 half-boxes being sold. At the sale of 5000 boxes of Palermos and Messinas ex steamship Malgache prices were: Firsts, 300s, $4.12@4.50; seconds, 300s, $3.62½@4.12½; firsts, 360s, $3.25@3.50; seconds, 360s, $3.00@3.25.

In local canned foods trading jobbers were in the market for spot stocks of practically all staples and while there were no large individual orders reported satisfying volume of small lot orders was noted.

CHERRIES SOLD

California and Northwestern canners are well sold upon their number 10 cherries, and this is resulting in more business on the Michigan packed varieties.

In futures tomatoe buyers are not yet willing to take hold of the Maryland-Delaware futures market due to variance in prices quoted and uncertainty as to crop prospects. The market on spot tomatoes for prompt cannery shipment remains strong at 77½ cents for standard 1's, $1 for 2s, $1.55@$1.60 for 3s and $5.40@$5.50 for 10s all f.o.b. cannery.

Warner has secured some 12,000 bags of Cuba raw sugars for February shipment at 3 5-8 cents cost and freight. The American Sugar Refining Company and Czarnikow, Ryonda & Company purchased some 150,000 bags of Cuban raw sugars at 3 5-8 cents cost and freight February shipment. An invoice of 5000 bags of Porto Rico for prompt shipment was reported to one of the refiners at 5.34 cents. American Sugar Refining Company secured 5000 tons of Philippine Islands centrifugals for February arrival, indicating a steady enhancement of values for duty free raw sugars. The United Kingdom is closely watching the advance in raw sugars on this side. Good business is reported moving in refined sugar especially at the 6.50 cents level. Fair business is also in evidence by the refiners quoting 6.60 cents. Refiners quoting 6.70 cents took a fair business.

FUTURES RECOVER

In sugar futures first prices came 1 to 2 points higher. Pricag advanced a point or two after the call but just before noon the market worked off 3 to 5 points from the early levels.

Finals were at an advance of 2 points to a decline of 1 point with sales estimated at some 43,050 tons. The switching was fairly active including March to May 9 and 10 points; February to March at even rates; July to September at a difference of 8 points and March to July at a spread of 21 points.

Sales of the May and June options were made at 7.10. Prices closed nominally 5 to 10 points higher.

The coffee market gained 1 to 5 points at the outset and kept buoyant although sales in the main were of generally small proportions. Trading largely consisted of switches from the near months into the more distant positions, March swatching with May at 55 points and with July at 120 points, while May switched with September at 128 points while Septemper was exchanged for December at 31 points. At the close near months had gained 16 to 25 points. The more remote months were about 7 to 13 points higher.

TEAS IN DEMAND

Teas are feeling the impulse of increased consumption the country over. Steady buying features all varieties in this market. The market for standard Congous teas continues to rule firm on a basis of 21 cents a pound, while Formosas are meeting a good demand.

Trading in rice is showing increase. Prices at primary points are well maintained.

A prominent bean dealer is offering Madagascar Lima beans which just arrived and packed in 100-pound bags at 6 1-4 cents, f.o.b. New York. Quality is good and the quantity limited. Peas are the easiest sold. Red and white kidneys appear to be wanted. California limas are strong and 10 cents is asked, but this price is rather extreme. Peas are quiet. Lentils in fair demand.

The downward course of the butter market was unchecked, nearly all grades of table stock showing a decline of 1 cent per pound. Call sales were 25 and 25 tubs extras 47¼ cents; 25 tubs, 100, 100, 50, 50, 50, 25, 25, 25, 25, 25, 100, 500, 25, 100, 25, 100, 100, 25, 80, 80, 100, all at 47 cents per pound, spot delivery. In futures five 100-tub lots extras 47 cents; 100 seller the week, 46½ cents; 100 seller February, 46 3-4 cents; 100 seller February 46 3-4 cents; 200 seller February 47 cents; 100 seller Friday 47 1-4 cents; 100 seller February 47 1-4 cents.

The market is steady on fresh eggs. Call sales were 70 cases f. g. firsts, 36 cents; 50 cases 35c spot delivery and 100 cases seller, 10 days at 33 cents per dozen.

COPPER HOLDING

Copper is firmly held at 15 cents a pound for electrolytic delivered over the next four months. London reported standard advancing 5s to £65, 12s 6d for spot and £66 5s for futures and while electrolytic spot was unchanged at £72, 5s, futures showed a gain of 5s at £72, 15s.

Zinc was 5 points lower at 7.05 cents a pound St. Louis for February shipments with later months available at 7 cents a pound. London reported standard spot unchanged at £35, 17s 6d but futures declined 5s to £34, 18s 6d.

The price of bunker fuel oil at New York and other Atlantic points was raised 10 cents a barrel today by Standard Oil of New Jersey, establishing a terminal quotation of $1.60 per barrel and an f.a.s. price of $1.66½ per barrel. The latter figure includes 6½ cents lighterage charge in New York Harbor. Other large distributors made similar advance. The increase is the result of increased demand and higher tanker freight rates on crude petroleum brought from Mexico and California.

FURTHER ADVANCE

A further advance of 10 to 25 cents per barrel in posted prices for Pennsylvania and other eastern grades of crude oil was announced today.

Strength in foreign loans again furnished opposition to the bear raids on the market in sympathy with stocks. French issues were higher with the municipals up an average of 2 points. British issues were stronger, due to the recovery in sterling; Belgian issues were active, closing near the day's best and fractional gains were recorded in Dutch bonds.

In Liberty bonds first 3½s and the Victories finished with slight gains, but the other active issues were down 2 to 4 points for the day.

Irregularity was the keynote of rail bonds during most of the day except for a few steady groups here and there. The finish was better than was generally expected in view of the uncertain trend of the stock market, coupled with firmer call-money rates.

Short Selling Sends Cotton Market Down

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—The cotton market today was highly irregular and fluctuations were erratic. After showing opening strength short selling came in carrying the list down 15 to 29 points from the early high. Wall Street and local commission houses were the principal sellers. Around midday a good demand for May appeared and rallied prices a point where they were unchanged to 6 points advance. Trading steadied till around 1 o'clock, when the bears again took the market in hand and sharply depressed prices. At the end of the fourth hour prices were off 13 to 33 points. The market recovered near the close, final prices being 3 to 12 points net lower, the close being on a wide range.

Spot cotton was quiet, 10 points decline, 27.40 for middling upland.

Southern markets: Galveston, 27.50, 10 points decline; New Orleans, 27.62, 26 points decline; Savannah, 27.38, 12 points decline; Norfolk, 27.63, unchanged; Memphis, 27.88, 35 points decline; Houston, 27.50, unchanged; Little Rock, 27.25, 25 points decline.

BUSINESS NEWS

The Harbor Refinery, located at the intersection of East Ninth street and the Santa Fe Railroad, was originally established by E. L. Doheny and associates twenty-six years ago. Through successive managements and under different corporate names it is said to have been in continuous operation ever since.

The business was recently acquired and reorganized by L. L. Featherstone, the corporate name, however, remaining unchanged as the Harbor Refining Company. Capital stock authorized was reduced from $1,000,000 to $150,000, of which $65,000 is preferred, and $85,000 common. All of the old stock has been recalled and the new stock exchanged therefor. First mortgage 7 per cent bonds to the amount of $65,000 have been issued and sold at par to liquidate obligations for additional facilities and as working capital.

Net earnings for the last quarter, after deducting depreciation, $9237.22, or at the rate of $36,948.88 annually. After providing for interest and sinking fund on bonds, quarterly dividend on the preferred was declared at the rate of 7 per cent, payable February 1. Net balance available for dividends on common equal to 25 per cent, or $2.50 per share, par value $10.

DAILY TRADE TALK

Rival Petroleum Distributors Clear Decks for Action; New Freight Rate Reductions

Forecasting active competition between the petroleum marketing companies operating in this part of the State, the Shell Company of California is engaged on a program of expansion that includes the acquisition of over fifty station sites in Los Angeles, the construction of storage tanks and service stations in twelve cities located in Southern California, the commencement of actual construction on a refinery at Wilmington to cost over $2,000,000 and the laying of standard pipe lines from the oil fields to the refinery, and from there to the harbor, all of which will involve expenditures of from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000.

Confirmation of these developments came yesterday from J. C. Wheeler, district manager, who declared that concerted efforts were being made to increase marketing facilities of the company in order to properly distribute the growing quantity of refined products resulting from the large crude-oil production from Shell wells in Southern California oil fields.

The institution of the expansion program brings the Shell Company of California in sharp conflict with leading marketing companies already established in the field, especially Union Oil of California, Standard Oil of California, Associated Oil, and various other concerns having numerous service stations and distributing facilities. The competition with Union of California is especially significant because of the fact that the Shell Union Oil Company, controlling the Shell Company of California, owns 26.17 per cent of the stock of the Union Oil Company.

Aside from Los Angeles, the cities in which the Shell company has acquired sites for service stations and storage tanks are Santa Barbara, Ventura, Santa Monica, San Fernando, Long Beach, Santa Ana, Riverside, San Bernardino, San Pedro, Chino, San Juan Capistrano and Oceanside. It is expected that a number of other cities will be included in the course of the expansion schedule. In addition to the present projected sites in Los Angeles and adjacent territory, the Shell company has the stations formerly operated by the Puente Oil Company, which was purchased by the Shell Company of California over eighteen months ago.

Production from the Shell wells now is running at 65,000 barrels daily in Southern California, a figure which places the company as the second greatest producing company in California and third in the United States, according to claims made by Shell officials. As compared with January, 1922, the increase is 49,000 barrels, and has been running over 30,000 since early last summer. The company has 172 producing wells in Southern California fields, and has fifty-four wells being drilled. Approximately 65 per cent of the production is in Signal Hill, which the Shell company pioneered.

The refinery at Wilmington is being constructed on the unit plan, the first of which will have a capacity of 15,000 barrels daily. Oil will be brought to the refinery by pipe lines from Signal Hill, Huntington Beach and Olinda. A large part of the company's crude and refined products is marketed in foreign countries, and during the present year the schedule calls for the loading of eighty-four ships owned by Shell interests and destined for foreign ports.

LOWER FREIGHT RATES

Continuing its policy of reducing freight rates from Chicago and points west to the Pacific Coast, the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway yesterday announced through H. F. Anewalt, general freight agent, decreases on certain commodities ranging from 77 cents to 5 cents per hundred pounds. The new schedule is effective March 14, and is part of the general movement instituted by western lines to bring the manufacturers in the territory contiguous to Chicago in a more favorable competitive position with Atlantic seaboard manufacturers in Pacific Coast markets.

The shipping points to which the rates apply are in the freight districts designated as Chicago and immediate vicinity, Mississippi River Valley, Missouri River, intermediate territory from Colorado to the Missouri River and Colorado. These districts include practically all of the territory west of Chicago to the Sierra Nevada Mountains.

Commodities to which the reduced rates are applicable comprise tin plate, phosphate of lime, baking powder, saleratus, pianos, organs, glucose, corn syrup, etc. The tin-plate shipments originate chiefly in the Chicago district; phosphate of lime in Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City; baking powder and saleratus from the same points; pianos and organs from Chicago, and glucose, corn syrup, etc., from Iowa and Illinois.

Pacific Coast markets are growing considerably as important centers of consumption of manufactured goods, and because of cheap water rates, Atlantic seaboard manufacturers are able to land goods here at favorable rates compared with the rail rates heretofore prevailing for shipments from the middle western points.

MUNICIPAL BONDS

Municipal bonds amounting to $1,256,764,229 were issued by States, cities and other political subdivisions of the United States in 1922, according to B. H. Graham of Blyth, Witter & Co.

This large amount of bonds, all of which are tax-exempt, exceeds the total issues of all railroads and industrial corporations, and is nearly twice the amount of the total public utility issues for the same period.

Despite this huge total of tax-exempt bonds placed on the market during the past year, it is more than $100,000,000 less than the amount issued by municipalities in 1921, when the total reached $1,352,265,000.

According to statistics compiled by the Wall Street Journal, the total issues of municipal bonds for the past twelve years amount to $7,536,381,336.

Assuming that these bonds have an average interest rate of 4½ per cent, this means that there is an annual income of $339,052,659, which is free from all taxes. A substantial portion of these securities is held by persons of large incomes subject to heavy surtaxes, and Mr. Graham thinks it is safe to assume that the Federal government alone loses about $50,000,000 annually in income taxes.

NEW LISTINGS

Trading began yesterday on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange in Southern California Edison 7 per cent preferred. The authorized amount of the issue is $36,000,000, of which $5,219,000 is outstanding. The dividend is payable 1st March, June, September and December.

Yellow Dog Mining Company stock will be called February 5, the application for listing having passed the listing committee and received the approval of the board of governors a short time ago. Authorized common stock totals $1,500,000 with a par value of $1. Stock outstanding amounts to $599,995. The property is located three miles south of Mojave.

"YES and NO" of the Income Tax

There are two tests for income tax returns:

First: Will it satisfy the department?
Second: Does it protect your own interests?

IN view of the complicated nature of the Revenue Act every individual must carefully consider the special provisions of the Act, and Department regulations bearing upon his individual liability.

To meet this exact situation a condensed booklet is being specially prepared for us, based on the actual questions in the new income tax blank. It will take you through every stage of your compilation question by question and line by line, considering every explanation from your point of view.

It was impossible to compile this book before the new blank was out, hence announcement cannot be made for a few days of the exact date it will be off the press.

If you contemplate reporting on income in excess of $5000, we shall be pleased to reserve a complimentary copy for you.

Invest for Safety In Good Utility Bonds

The first judgment you make of any bond should be for security.

You should always first apply the "test of safety." You should find out what equity there is underlying the bond issue in which you are investing. You should select an issue in a class of securities which are recognized as safe.

We believe that well managed public utility companies are strong and that their securities are safe.

For example, the $11,274,200 outstanding First Lien 6% Gold Bonds of the Nevada-California Electric Corporation are a first lien upon the properties of the system valued at over $25,000,000, subject only to $3,332,000 underlying bonds.

Considering the nature of the utility business, coupled with strong credit and a large property value, this is a generous equity protection for funds which you would invest in the Nevada-California Electric Corporation First Lien 6% Gold Bonds Series "B." This bond matures in 1950 and can be obtained for 98 and interest to yield 6.15%.

Additional information about the Nevada-California Electric Corporation is contained in a circular describing this company and this bond issue. It will be sent to you today at your request.

COAST VALLEYS GAS & ELECTRIC
6% Cumulative Preferred Stock

THE POWER used by this company is largely Hydro-Electric—purchased under contract from the Sierra & San Francisco Power Co., which is now operated under a fifteen-year lease by the Pacific Gas and Electric Co. The terms of this contract are subject to the jurisdiction of the Railroad Commission of California, which assures an equitable rate and a continuity of supply. To enable it to handle this contract, the Sierra Company originally constructed a 75-mile transmission line which cost approximately $288,000, and in 1920 completed a second duplicate circuit of greater capacity paralleling the first at an additional cost of approximately $150,000. Three steam generating plants owned by the Coast Valleys Company furnish an adequate source of reserve power.

This cumulative preferred stock is tax exempt in California and the quarterly dividends are free from the normal Federal Income Tax. At $86 per share and accrued dividend the investor is assured a steady return of 7.00%. Write or call our nearest office for more detailed information.

Freight Rates—

The cost of transportation of raw material to factory and of the finished product to the market affect to a large extent the earnings of a company.

The Columbia Steel Corporation will produce steel at the site of their limestone quarries (Provo, Utah). Their iron and coal mines are only a short distance away.

It is estimated that there is a saving of $10 per gross ton in freight over their competitors in reaching Pacific Coast markets with their finished products.

This is a factor worthy of consideration when judging the company and influenced us in our offering of the

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1. — Little progress was made by today's stock market, which seemed to be marking time pending more definite developments in the domestic business and foreign political and economic situations. Prices generally moved within narrow and irregular limits with the professionals doing most of the trading, and the so-called outsiders showing no disposition to either buy or sell at present prices.

Some selling took place at the start in response to another break in the Durant Motors and related issues, but it was confined principally to the motors, chemicals and a few specialties. Continued heaviness of continental exchange and a higher renewal rate for call money influenced bearish sentiment, but the shorts brought out comparatively little stock, and sufficient buying support was forthcoming to steady the list. Trading was dull on the rally.

Acute weakness of Fisher Body was again one of the features. This stock dropped to 150, as against this year's high of 212¾, and then rallied to 153¾, where it was off 7¾ on the day. Durant stocks on the curb also were depressed. In the reaction which followed this break, Chandler dropped to 67¾, Studebaker to 118¼ and Stromberg to 63¾, the first two making up the loss and the last-named closing at its low price for a net loss of 2¼ points. Two conflicting movements took place in the last hour, Moon Motors rising to 20 for a net gain of 1¼, and Maxwell A breaking 2¾ points to 44. Strength of Moon motors reflected the absorption of a block of 12,000 shares, which have been overhanging the market and which changed hands at 19.

There were a few conspicuous strong spots in the industrial and specialty lists. Brooklyn Union Gas continued its rise to higher ground, gaining 2¼ points on publication of a statement showing net income for 1922 of $9,660,631 after taxes and charges, and exclusive of earnings of subsidiaries, as compared with a deficit of $4,570,027 in 1921. Phillips Petroleum also gained 2¼ points on official denial of reports that new financing was contemplated. Associated Oil was pushed up 2¾ points.

Announcement of another increase of 25 cents a barrel in Pennsylvania crude oil prices and an increase of 10 cents a barrel in the price of bunker fuel oil in New York Harbor were the principal items of trade news. Owens Bottle was quite active on overnight action of an extra dividend of 25 cents, the stock closing a point higher on total transactions exceeding 25,000 shares.

Electric stocks were again among the most prominent of the standard shares, General Electric rising nearly 3 points and Westinghouse 1 on reports of higher earnings.

Pressed Steel Car yielded readily to selling pressure, dropping 3 points. United Retail Stores was supplied freely on publication of a statement showing a large decrease in earnings.

Trading in rails was sluggish, a few dividend-paying issues showing signs of heaviness, notably Louisville and Nashville, off 2½; "Nickel Plate" first preferred off 1¼, and Reading first preferred off 1.

Call money opened at 4½ per cent and then advanced to 5. Time money rates were unchanged at 4½ bid and 4¾ asked, with a few long term loans being arranged at the higher figure, and some shorter maturities reported at 4¾. Interior institutions are making more inquiries for commercial paper, the bulk of the best names going at 4¼.

Demand sterling advanced nearly 1 cent to 4.66, but the continental exchanges were slightly reactionary, French francs again selling under 6 cents.

The day's total sales were 545,990 shares. Twenty industrials averaged 97.71; net gain, .26; high, 1923, 99.42; low, 96.96. Twenty railroads averaged 86.08; net loss, .18; high, 1923, 87.20; low, 84.52.

For information regarding National Department Stores, Inc., and its First Preferred Stock, we refer to a letter dated Jan. 31, 1923, from Mr. Victor W. Sincere, President, some of the statements of which he has briefly summarized as follows:

HISTORY: National Department Stores, Inc., will acquire the assets and business of the following old established concerns, operating modern department stores: The Bailey Company (Cleveland); The Rosenbaum Company (Pittsburgh); B. Nugent & Bro. Dry Goods Co., (St. Louis); Geo. E. Stifel Co., (Wheeling) and Geo. R. Taylor Co., (Wheeling).

The business of these concerns was established at various dates back to 1847 and they now rank among the leading department stores in their communities, with combined sales for the twelve months ended January 31, 1923 (one month estimated) of over $33,000,000.

NET PROFITS—Combined sales and net profits of the above mentioned companies, as certified by Messrs. Ernst and Ernst, Certified Public Accountants, have been as follows:

Year ended	Sales	Net profits after deducting Federal taxes computed at 1923 rates
January 31, 1918	$17,931,173	$1,058,135
January 31, 1919	20,899,145	1,288,141
January 31, 1920	29,243,950	2,152,543
January 31, 1921	39,981,093	1,181,987
January 31, 1922	32,663,263	934,467
December 31, 1922 (11 months)	30,484,532	1,935,560

Net profits as above for five years and eleven months ended December 31, 1922, averaged $1,445,211 per annum or 4.12 times annual dividend requirements on First Preferred Stock outstanding and for the eleven months ended December 31, 1922, were at the annual rate of $2,111,520, or more than 6 times such annual dividend requirements.

ASSETS: Combined total net assets of the constituent units on December 31, 1922 (exclusive of good will, trade marks and leaseholds) based on recent appraisal by American Appraisal Company and independent local appraisers, and certified by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst, Certified Public Accountants, aggregate $13,339,000 or the equivalent of $266 per share on the First Preferred Stock. Combined net quick assets alone on that date amounted to $6,374,204.

The foregoing figures make no allowance for the immense value of good will created over a period of years, nor for advantageous leasehold interests certified by independent appraisers at an aggregate value in excess of $2,000,000.

SINKING FUND: A cumulative sinking fund for the purchase or redemption of First Preferred Stock at not exceeding $115 per share and accrued dividends is to be created by setting aside semi-annually from profits on February 1 and August 1, commencing with February 1, 1924, a sum equal to 1½% of the greatest amount of first preferred stock theretofore issued, that is at the rate of 3% per annum.

GENERAL: The stores are admirably located in four important growing cities and serve, including surrounding towns, a population estimated at 4,400,000. Aggregate floor space of all stores is approximately 1,000,000 square feet, and aggregate number of employees is about 4000. The management of each unit will continue the same as heretofore. The combined ownership will make possible purchases in large quantities and the unification of sales and advertising policies, etc., which should result in substantially enlarged volume of sales and increase profits. Mr. L. A. Behr is Chairman of the Board and Mr. Victor W. Sincere is President of the Corporation.

It is expected that application will be made to list the stocks of the corporation on the New York Stock Exchange. Interim receipts or temporary certificates will be deliverable in the first instance. All offerings are made "when, as and if issued and received by us." The legal proceedings in connection with this issue are being passed upon by Messrs. Hornblower, Miller and Garrison and Messrs. Stein and Salant, New York.

A copy of the provisions governing the rights and preferences of each class of stock will be furnished as soon as available, and reference thereto is made for all details.

Price $100 per share and accrued dividends

Santa Fe Springs Producing Oil Royalty

We hold subject to prior sale 7% gross production in producing oil well in Santa Fe Springs that we will sell in whole or parts as small as ¼ of 1%. This is paying in excess of 10% per month on the basis of present production, which is increasing daily. It is our opinion that this royalty will pay up to 20% monthly. It is indeed an unusual buy.

INSURE YOUR INVESTMENTS

TO INSURE your investments against loss the best policy is that of diversification.

The "eggs in many baskets" idea is not new; it has been followed for years by banks and insurance companies whose profession is investing money—that is their source of income.

The insurance of diversification in your investments costs you nothing, and if professional investors employ this safeguard, why not you?

The services of a reliable bond house often prove invaluable in this connection.

We invite you to discuss the subject with us.

NEW YORK CURB CLOSE

Pipe Stocks Strong

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Another sharp break in Durant issues and marked strength of the pipe-line stocks featured today's trading on the curb market. More than 30,000 shares of Durant Motors of Delaware changed hands, the closing price of 40 1-8 representing a net loss of 7 5-8 points. Durant of Indiana fluctuated between 14 1-8 and 12 1-8, closing at 13 for a net loss of 1-2. Stutz Motors dropped 2 3-8 in sympathy.

Cumberland Pipe Line was run up from 93 to 108, or 17 points above the previous sales. Crescent Pipe advanced 2 points. Buying of this and other pipe-line shares was based on speculative expectation of higher earnings, one of the first 1923 reports to be made public, that of the Eureka company showing a profit of $12.65 a share, as compared with $8.52 in 1921.

Another increase of 25 cents a barrel in Pennsylvania crude oil prices failed to elicit any response from other oil shares, which moved irregular and fractional limits. Trading in mining shares was confined principally to the cheaper issues.

The Economy of Knowledge

KNOWLEDGE is matter of experience, not of observation. Therefore in selecting a managerial board for the direction of a corporation's affairs, it is necessary to know that those selected have made a success in their business, and that their business is kindred to the work outlined for them in the new corporation. By observing all of these points first, the possibilities of loss by lack of experience is practically eliminated.

In the selection of the personnel of the Federal Discount Corporation, three elements were necessary—Banking, Furniture and Legal. The men who were finally chosen have proven successful in their business. Therefore at a meeting of the directorate and advisory board of The Federal Discount Corporation one finds caliber of men, whose knowledge has especially fitted them for the positions they hold.

Personnel should be an important factor in the selection of your investment. It is one of the elements of stability, and carries with it a safety of your principal. An investigation into the personnel of the Federal Discount Corporation will convince you that this is just one of the many features that make their offering of shares an ideal investment. Send today for the "Questions and Answer Booklet" we have just compiled.

What the Fosters Say It Is—
IT IS!

WE say that SIGNAL HILL is the MIGHTIEST OIL FIELD OF AMERICA; that it has FEWER FAILURES, MORE SUCCESSES, MORE BIG WELLS, fewer small wells than any other oil field in the world; that it has, in the Nicholson No. 2, the biggest oil well in California.

WE Say that Signal Hill has and will enrich more small investors than any other oil field the world has ever known.

We Say—

WE say that we believe the MIRACLE Oil Syndicate is a better oil investment—gives more opportunity for profit—less chance of failure—more dollar-for-dollar value than any other California oil investment that has to our knowledge ever been thrown open to the general public.

We say this, and back it up with three guarantees—one to our old clients guaranteeing total initial minimum of 2000 barrels of production from Miracle's wells by Jan. 1, 1924, or their MONEY BACK—

The second to the public—that we will drill Miracle's wells to a depth of 4000 feet unless 1000 barrels of oil are procured from each well at a lesser depth.

The third—that 100 per cent in dividends will be paid every investor in Miracle before we receive a dollar of profit out of the oil that belongs to the Miracle Oil Syndicate.

WE say that MIRACLE has some of the choicest leases on Signal Hill.

WE say that MIRACLE will get oil—that MIRACLE will pay dividends—and pay them every 30 days.

What Miracle Can Pay—

We say that the Miracle Oil Syndicate, with three wells each producing 2000 barrels of 28 gravity oil per day for six months, will pay 100% in cash dividends to each purchaser, besides having left enough money with which to drill another well for its unit holders.

WE say that each purchaser in MIRACLE receives, without charge of any kind, an additional interest in a Signal Hill well that is drilling in the same block with four gushers.

Miracle Sells Fast—

WE say that MIRACLE units at $100 each are being sold both in our office and by mail at a rate that means MIRACLE'S books may close any minute.

WE say that MIRACLE will be over-subscribed just as every other Foster Syndicate has been over-subscribed.

WE say and believe that you could make no better investment than to buy MIRACLE units.

We say that to buy Miracle units at $100 each, you must get your order to us immediately.

Inspection of Miracle's Properties May Be Made in Our Private Cars by Appointment

BOND QUOTATIONS

Foreign Issues Recover

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Chief interest in the bond market centered on the further sharp recovery of foreign bonds, several of which closed 1 to 3 points higher. Jugo-Slavian 5's jumped 4½ points and Czecho-Slovakian 8s, 3½.

Bordeaux 6s advanced 3 points to 74; Lyons 6s, 2¾ points to 72⅞; French 7½, 2 points to 89, and the 8s, 1⅝ to 91⅜, while Prague 7½s, Marseilles 6s, Belgian 7½s and 8s, Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean 6s, Fr. American 7½s and Queensland 6s each closed at least 1½ points higher. Jurgen 6s and Bolivian 8s were heavy.

United States government securities all made partial recovery from recent heaviness, the second 4¼s gaining 10 cents on $100 and the fourth 4¼s and Liberty 3½s, 2 cents each, with the other active issues either unchanged or 3 cents lower.

Except for gains of approximately a point in Erie Consolidated 4s and 2 points in Illinois Central refunding 4s and a loss of 1⅝ in Erie convertible 4s, series B, railroad mortgages showed only nominal changes. The principal changes in the industrial and public utility groups was a point gain in Steel and Tube 7s and losses of a point each in Interborough Rapid Transit 7s, Utah Power and Light 5s, Marine 6s and American Telephone convertible 6s.

Total sales, par value, were $10,447,000.

The treasury statement showing a balance of $285,000,000 on January 29 was interpreted as indicating the need of further government financing in the near future.

An issue of $5,000,000 State of Oregon veterans' State aid bonds was purchased today by a syndicate headed by the Bankers' Trust Company for 100.029. The issues consist of $4,000,000 4½ per cent bonds and $1,000,000 4 per cent bonds, due serially from 1932 to 1951. Public offering will be made tomorrow.

NEW YORK, Feb. 1.—Following are the closing bond quotations on the New York Stock Exchange. Furnished by Logan & Bryan.

SENATE INVESTIGATES PURE OIL COMPANY

DAWES TESTIFIES THAT BUT TWO STOCKHOLDERS OWN OVER ONE PER CENT

[BY A. P. NIGHT WIRE.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1.—Details of the business of the Pure Oil Company were presented to the Senate Oil Investigating Commission today by B. G. Dawes of Marietta, O., president of the company and brother of Charles G. Dawes, former director of the budget.

Mr. Dawes said his company had 2300 wells with a production in 1922 of 8,684,800 barrels in Ohio, West Virginia, Illinois, Kansas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana and Texas. Production of oil, he asserted, constituted about 15 per cent of the business of the Pure Oil Company.

Mr. Dawes said that among the Pure Oil Company's 27,324 stockholders there are only two owning one per cent of the stock. These he gave as Dawes Brothers, Inc., of Chicago, with holdings of 3.65 per cent and the Humphreys Oil Company of Mexico with 1.03 per cent. Seventy-five per cent of the employes of the Pure Oil Company, the witness said, hold stock in the company, which has outstanding common stock amounting to $64,487,000 and preferred stock outstanding of $20,000,000.

Regular dividends paid by the company since its organization in 1914 and up to last January 1 have amounted to $40,507,420, Mr. Dawes testified. Stock dividends during the same period have totalled $5,944,975. Besides these dividends a per cent cash dividend was declared last Saturday.

The committee, it was learned today, has asked of the Mexican Petroleum Company, Ltd., of which E. L. Doheny, a California oil man, is board chairman, to appear Saturday. The appearance of representatives of this company is expected to give the committee additional information on the Mexican oil situation.

COUNCIL SPONSORS STATE DRIVE FOR LAW REFORM

Resolutions Appeal to Municipal Governing Bodies of California to Urge Anti-Crime Program

The Los Angeles City Council yesterday decided to ask the city councils or boards of trustees of every city in California to join it in petitioning the Legislature to enact the program of judicial and legal reform that is being demanded generally in the State.

The principal parts of the program already have been introduced as bills in the Legislature. They are for amendments to the State Constitution so that a three-fourths verdict may acquit or convict in criminal as well as in civil cases, except where the death penalty is involved, and so that the trial judges may comment on matters of fact to the juries as is done in Federal courts. Several other parts of the program also have been introduced as bills.

The program in its entirety has been indorsed by the Los Angeles County Bar Association, the Los Angeles Crime Commission and several clubs and societies. Its chief measures are identical with resolutions made by the judicial section of the California Bar Association at its last convention at San Francisco.

JURIST FAVORS CHANGE

An eminent jurist of Northern California, Judge J. R. Welch, of the Superior Court of Santa Clara County, in an interview yesterday in San Jose, joined in urging action generally in the State to accomplish the three-fourths verdict and the comment-on-fact reforms.

"I am heartily in favor of three-fourths jury verdicts in all criminal cases other than capital ones," he said, "and for a change in the law so as to allow State judges the same discretion as Federal judges in commenting on the facts to the jury.

"Miscarriage of justice is one of the most fruitful causes for the existing criticism and disrespect for the laws and the courts. Miscarriage of justice results largely from the defective administration of antiquated laws.

"The jury system as now constituted and not the courts is to be blamed for the failures to obtain swift and speedy results. In keeping with the progressive age, the administration of law must be reformed.

"The guilty must be convicted. Conviction (the deterrant to crime) must deal with a criminal justly but humanely under prison rules and the probation system. Courts of law must be depended on to protect the people.

"Clearly it is to the interests of the associations throughout the State to join the bench in bringing about these salutary changes in the administration of the law. It should go far to establish the sentiment in the favor and confidence of the people."

In its action yesterday the City Council of Los Angeles indorsed the reform program and instructed the Mayor to send copies of the resolutions to the governing bodies of every city in the State and to the Los Angeles representatives in the Legislature. In addition, the city clerk or boards of trustees of all other cities will be asked in letters to urge their respective legislators to get behind the various measures necessary to put the program through. It was merely the suggestion from the Council of the southern metropolis of the State that the matter be made one of record by the city governments and thus leave the Legislature no doubt of the interest concern at the admitted breakdown in the wheels of justice with its serious consequences to every community, and the immediate need of reformatory measures.

The resolutions were introduced by Councilman Sparks and sec-

HAHN WILL BE HARDER ON YOUTHS

Judge to Take Personal Charge of Cases; Cuts Down on Probation

Indicating a tightening of the procedure in handling juvenile cases, Judge Hahn of the Superior Court juvenile department announced yesterday that he would take complete charge of the investigation and disposal of each case.

Judge Hahn granted Joseph W. Libby, referee for boys in Department 8, a leave of absence for six months.

The court said that he felt there was some fundamental reason in individual instances where boys or girls broke laws, and that henceforth he would inquire into each case personally.

It has been observed recently that juvenile offenders have appeared in court as many as eight and nine times, and each time have been given probation. It was intimated that in the future, when leniency has been extended three times without effect, the offenders will face the probability of being placed in an institution.

DENTON ESTATE WINS NOTE SUIT

An echo of the Jacob C. Denton murder for which Mrs. Lone Louise Peete is now serving a life sentence in San Quentin was heard in Judge Hardy's department of the Superior Court yesterday when H. W. Reneau appeared with a suit for $2500 against Judge Russ Avery, administrator of the slain broker's estate.

The suit was based on a promissory note asserted to have been signed by Denton in 1904. Judge Hardy decided in favor of the Denton estate on the ground that the note was outlawed by lapse of the time limit.

Burial Service Is Conducted for Mrs. Bates

The funeral and burial services for Mrs. Laura J. Bates, 77 years of age, who died recently at her home, 1339 Ogden Drive, Hollywood, were conducted yesterday at Hollywood Cemetery.

Mrs. Bates, who had made her home in California for the last fourteen years, was the widow of Judge Henry C. Bates, former Governor of Vermont, who was appointed to the bench in the Philippine Islands during the McKinley administration.

Mrs. Bates leaves one son, Maj. John D. Bates, military editor of the Boston Evening Transcript.

VENICE RAIDS ARE AIRED

Woolwine Also Will Investigate Report of Klansmen as Special Officers at Beach City

Further investigation into the charges that Venice police under Henry H. McCausland have illegally conducted raids at the beach without first having obtained search warrants, and that many of the special officers recently appointed by the Chief are members of the Ku Klux Klan, will be conducted by Dist.Atty. Woolwine, it was announced yesterday following a conference of City Recorder Walter Reddish of Venice with Chief Dep. Dist.-Atty. Keyes and Dep. Dist.-Atty. Woolwine.

"The charges will be sifted to the bottom," Dist.-Atty. Woolwine said yesterday. "Every angle of the case will be thoroughly investigated."

The investigation into the court records brought into the office yesterday by Recorder Rennie revealed that there had been no irregularity in the issuance of the search warrants, McClelland said. It is possible however, according to McClelland, that there might be cases of imposition on the court in which warrants were issued under false pretenses following a raid, and without the knowledge. Dates of the issuance of the warrants on the records will be verified later by investigation testimony, it was said. Deputies of the District Attorney's office will also conduct a thorough investigation of the charges that many of the policemen are members of the Klan organization and were under undue influence, was intimated when it was said that it would be investigated whether any action other than lawful, have been taken relating the issuance of the search warrants.

Chief McCausland accompanied Recorder Rennie to the District Attorney's office, but was not called into conference.

SEEKS SUPPORT OF LOS ANGELES

Long Beach Asks Chamber Aid in County Fight

Redistricting by Supervisors Scored at Mass Meeting

Secession Threat Taken Up by Other Parts of State

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

LONG BEACH, Feb. 1.—The Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce will be asked to condemn the recent action of the Board of Supervisors in splitting Long Beach into two divisions, according to the terms of a resolution passed at a mass meeting here tonight.

This will be done to determine the sentiment of Los Angeles toward the Supervisors' action, it was declared by L. N. Whealton, prominent attorney and former Mayor of the city, who introduced the resolution.

Another resolution, introduced by Mr. Whealton and bitterly opposed, requested the City Council of Long Beach to pass an ordinance taxing every bread wagon, furniture truck and all vehicles carrying any articles to Long Beach that had been purchased in Los Angeles. The resolution was not passed.

In opposing it, J. E. Davis, director of the Chamber of Commerce committee appointed to deal with the Supervisors' action, declared the people and merchants of Los Angeles were not aligned with the Supervisors and that such a move would antagonize them and lose their possible support.

FIGHT IS URGED

Mr. Whealton urged that Long Beach fight for proper representation and outlined the legal difficulties in the way of Long Beach becoming a separate county, which could only be done by having an amendment to the State Constitution adopted. A committee of the Long Beach Bar Association was said to have been working on this angle.

Dr. Frank C. Renfrew, president of the Chamber of Commerce, declared his organization would fight the redistricting to the last ditch. He called the Supervisors' action a "gerrymander move," "the political assassination of Long Beach," and declared the officials' position untenable.

Other speakers declared the move was a political trick to split the voting strength of Long Beach. Among those who addressed the meeting were Miss Belle McCord Roberts, owner and editor of the Long Beach Telegram; Mayor Buffum, Dr. Ralph Taylor, City Manager Windham, Councilman Condit and others.

COMMERCE BODY ACTION

At a meeting of the Long Beach Chamber of Commerce today, Dr. Frank Renfrew, president, announced that the San Joaquin Valley, San Francisco and a goodly portion of the remainder of the State was ready to support Long Beach in the Legislature in its plan to secede from Los Angeles county and to create a new county with this city as the county seat. Other sections of the State, he declared, are prepared to lend their support to the secession movement as a means of striking at Los Angeles for its asserted efforts to "grab" the power to be developed from the Colorado River project.

The Chamber of Commerce head declared the representatives in the Assembly of the other cities and towns have intimated they will support solidly the bill for the creation of a new county with Long Beach as its seat when the secession measure is presented.

A bombshell was thrown into the meeting by C. D. Beauchamp, first vice-president of the chamber, who charged that several members of the City Council had agreed to the division of the city by the Board of Supervisors if the board would authorize work on the highways about the city.

COUNCILMEN ATTACKED

Mr. Beauchamp declared that several members of the Council had met secretly with Supervisor Cogswell prior to the passage of the redistricting measure and had entered into a compact to support the measure in exchange for highway work.

Vigorous denial of the charges, however, was made by practically every one of the City Councilmen, Mayor Buffum and City Manager

VANDERLIP IS IN CITY ON BUSINESS

Project at Palos Verdes Brings Capitalist From East to the Pacific

Urgent business associated with the Palos Verdes project brought Frank A. Vanderlip, former head of the National City Bank and capitalist and economist of international renown, to Los Angeles yesterday.

Mr. Vanderlip made his westward trip in the private car of Carl Gray, president of the Union Pacific Railway. He registered at the Ambassador and then went to his downtown office.

The estate, a 16,000-acre site extending along the Pacific Ocean between Redondo Beach and San Pedro, is soon to be transformed into a civic and residential district which, when completed, will represent expenditures of $35,000,000, according to present plans of the syndicate.

Mr. Vanderlip denied himself to interviewers, explaining that he has not been in the city long enough to discuss local conditions and that he had not, while en route, kept up with current domestic, foreign and financial affairs sufficiently to grant an interview on these subjects.

His sole announcement yesterday was that at the conclusion of his work here he would grant himself a two-months' vacation in or near Los Angeles.

Mr. Vanderlip's party included Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Schwedtman and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Harden, who are at the Ambassador.

Maybelle Roe Goes to Prison This Evening

After two and a half years spent in the County Jail and after three trials, in two of which she was convicted, Mrs. Maybelle Roe, slayer of McCullough Graydon in a rent row at Venice, will go to San Quentin prison. This evening she will leave for the prison in custody of Undersheriff Biscailus and Mrs. Biscailus.

The slaying of Graydon took place on September 21, 1920. Since then Oscar Bowers, now in prison, was convicted of first-degree murder for the slaying and is serving a life term.

Mrs. Roe was convicted in her second trial, but was granted a new trial. In the first trial the jury disagreed and in the third trial she was again convicted of first-degree murder. She was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge McCormick while she lay on a cot in her cell in the County Jail.

Woman Charges Husband Pushed Her From Auto

After failing from her husband's automobile last night at the intersection of Jefferson and Griffith avenues, Mrs. Maurine Martin, 27 years of age, 3316 South San Pedro street, was taken to the Receiving Hospital with severe scalp lacerations and suffering from shock. Mrs. Martin said her husband, E. J. Martin, pushed her from the car when she tried to keep him from an appointment with another woman, police declared. Martin was locked up at the University Police Station on a charge of being intoxicated.

WOMEN'S DOPE DEN RAIDED

Chinatown Store Yields $3000 Worth of Opium; Patron Leaves Purse Behind in Flight

A woman's purse of good quality found on a cot in an asserted opium den at 310 Apablasa street, in the heart of Chinatown, gave raiding police yesterday their only clew to occupants supposed to have been in the room a few moments before they entered.

The purse contained $2, but no card or other mark of identification. The police drew the conclusion that the den was one frequented by women, who had sufficient warning to get out by another door before detectives broke in the door leading from the street.

The raid resulted in the arrest of Tom Gin, asserted proprietor, and the confiscation of almost $3000 worth of opium, some of which was of genuine Chinese origin, half a dozen pipes, the same number of lamps and other paraphernalia said to be used in smoking opium.

Detective Sergeants Mailheau, Littlejohn and Hamilton and Inspector Earl of the State Board of Pharmacy constituted the raiding party. They say they found the Chinaman with the reminiscent name in a small store full of lawful Chinese goods on the ground floor of the building. Behind a partition that divided the store was a stairway leading to the second floor.

The doorway at the head of this was locked, but one of the detectives put his foot through it and forced his way into a room containing six cots, according to the police description. Here the detectives assert they found ninety-five taels of smoking opium, about 1000 empty "toys," or small boxes in which opium is sold, pipes, lamps, weighing scales, cooking pins and so forth. A vaseline jar yielded about $900 worth of genuine "Rooster Brand" Chinese opium, detectives say, and the ninety-five taels of opium in another container are worth about $5000. Most of the opium found, the detectives say, is produced in Mexico, and the real Chinese article is a rarity.

The raid is the most important, detectives say, that they have made in that quarter in several months. Tom Gin, who gave his age as 65, was arraigned for bail. He was booked on a charge of violation of the State Poison Act.

SOLICITOR FOUGHT OFF BY WOMAN

Police Seek Subscription Agent on Charges Made by Doctor's Wife

Following a frustrated attack yesterday morning on the wife of Dr. A. Roberts, 2765 West Eighth street, police were searching for a supposed subscription agent for magazines.

Mrs. Roberts reported to Wilshire Station that she went to the door yesterday morning to answer the bell. Outside the door was a young man who represented himself as a subscription agent. When Mrs. Roberts declined to subscribe to the magazine he said he represented, he asked for a drink of water.

She told him to step inside and she would bring him a drink. As he closed the door, Mrs. Roberts reported that he grabbed her and attempted to kiss her. After a struggle, she broke away from him and ran to the telephone, which frightened him away.

She described her assailant as about 20 years of age, five feet nine inches in height, weighing about 170 pounds, and wearing a brown suit and brown soft hat.

HONOR EDISON PRESIDENT

John B. Miller of Southern California Company Given Dinner Celebrating His Long Service

Commemorating twenty-five years of service, John B. Miller, president of Southern California Edison Company, was given a complimentary dinner by the officials and employees of the company at the Alexandria last night.

The twenty-five-year service button, which is the highest of a series of buttons given every five years, was presented to Mr. Miller during the evening. Sixteen employees who have achieved the twenty-five-year rank served as a guard of honor during the presentation. When Mr. Miller joined the Edison organization in 1898 there were only twenty-nine employees and the gross earnings were less than $50,000 a year. At present there are 5000 employees and the annual revenues exceed $17,000,000. R. H. Ballard, now vice-president and general manager of the company, was the only book-keeper, and W. L. Percey, now treasurer of the company, was cashier at the time Mr. Miller came into the organization.

IS CONGRATULATED

During the evening complimentary telegrams were received from Thomas A. Edison, Samuel Insull, president of Commonwealth Edison Company, Chicago; Joseph B. McCall, Philadelphia Electric Company; Frank W. Smith, president National Electric Light Association; Mortimer Fleishhacker, president Great Western Power Compan, San Francisco; W. E. Creed and John A. Britton of Pacific Gas and Electric Company, San Francisco, S. Z. Mitchell, president Electric Bond and Share Company, New York; C. L. Edgar, president Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Boston; H. M. Byllesby, president H. M. Byllesby Company, Chicago; Albert Harris, president Harris Trust and Savings Bank, Chicago; E. W. Rollins of E. H. Rollins & Sons, Boston; James H. McGraw of McGraw-Hill Publishing Company, New York; Franklin T. Griffith, president Portland Railway, Light and Power Company, and Daniel E. Pomeroy, Bankers' Trust Company, New York.

The substance of these messages from big men connected with the industry directly and indirectly, demonstrated that Mr. Miller is held in high esteem in the great financial and business centers throughout the United States and that he has been admired for his vision, his constructive policy and his financial ability, his friends declare.

MODERN FAGIN IS SOUGHT HERE

Youth Held as Vagrant Tells of Beggar Chief

Declares Score Solicit Alms for Percentage

Arrests in January Set New Squad Record

Search for a "beggar chief" in Los Angeles was begun by members of the police vagrancy squad yesterday upon orders of Capt. R. Lee Heath, following the uncovering of evidence that the master beggar has a score of youths out soliciting alms under his direction.

The unusual case came to the attention of police with the arrest of James Martin on a charge of vagrancy. He had in his possession an affidavit with a notary's seal stating that he was James Hagen, that he was speechless as the result of an attack of typhoid, and asking aid in behalf of himself and his aged mother.

Police said that the youth was well able to talk and that he confessed he had been given the affidavit by a man to whom he and other youths turned in the proceeds of their begging and were paid a percentage.

In line with vagrancy cases of this nature the squad detailed to arrest idlers reported to Chief of Police Oaks yesterday that a record number of arrests had been made in January.

The arrests totaled 562, compared to 260 during December; there were 500 convictions, forty cases are pending, twenty-seven defendants were dismissed and $740 in fines was collected. December also was a record month with 253 convictions. Beggars, idlers and vagrants made up the list.

The vagrancy squad is made up of Officers Lane, Oliver, Townsend, Stanger, Heintz, Willheit, Waugh, Sheffied and Corley and is under the direction of Capt. Heath.

TWO CEMENT COMPANIES COMBINED

Half Million is Involved in Amalgamation of Two Products Plants

An amalgamation involving assets of $500,000 was completed yesterday with the announcement that the Marbelide Corporation of America had taken over the plant and assets of the American Cement Products Company.

The interests of the E. D. Blinn estate and Henry Barkschat were absorbed by the new company with all the fixed and liquid assets, including a plant and six-acre tract at the intersection of Thirty-second street and Long Beach avenue. The Marbelide Corporation is incorporated for $1,000,000, and will be headed by Henry Barkschat as president.

The American Cement Products Company was taken over ten years ago by E. D. Blinn and Mr. Barkschat. Using a patented centrifugal process to manufacture hollow concrete lamp posts, telephone and telegraph poles, sewer and high-pressure pipes, its products have become well known.

The Marbelide Company has scored a conspicuous success in manufacturing concrete electroliers and poles, which have been installed in almost every city in Southern California and many western cities. The government is a heavy user of their products.

Negotiations for the amalgamation which have been pending for several months, were conducted through R. T. Leonards & Co., and Stephen A. Barber, Pasadena capitalist.

FILM STAR'S MARRIAGE NEAR

Harold Lloyd and Mildred Davis Tacitly Admit Engagement and Marriage Is Expected Soon

The engagement of Harold Lloyd and Mildred Davis, long suspected but only tacitly admitted by the pair, will reach fulfillment in their marriage within the next few days.

The understanding among friends of Mr. Lloyd and Miss Davis is that they will be married Sunday, unless they suddenly decide to surprise everybody by eloping either tomorrow or Saturday. Nobody is to know about the wedding until it is over and so closely have they kept the secret that even their best friends are not quite sure of the exact hour.

Lloyd refers all questions concerning the event to Miss Davis and the latter has made every effort to elude questions concerning the time of their marriage popped at her by personal friends as well as by newspaper reporters. When a reporter visited her home yesterday he was informed that Miss Davis was ill and that as a consequence she could not see anybody. When he called her on the telephone about an hour later he was informed that Miss Davis was out for the evening.

"Why an hour ago I was told that Miss Davis was ill," he exclaimed.

"Well-er-er, she has gone over to see the doctor."

"DR. JACK" PERHAPS

"Oh!" answered the reporter. He subsequently recollected that the name of Lloyd's latest picture is "Dr. Jack" and concluded that there might be some connection between the two statements after all. It is pretty generally understood, anyway, that "Dr. Jack" could furnish the necessary prescription to cure Miss Davis of any complaint from which she might at present be suffering.

Lloyd is one of the most successful comedians on the screen and he is still in his twenties. He has been regarded as one of the most eligible young bachelors in filmdom. With the exception of a friendship for Bebe Daniels, which at one time, it was reported might culminate in marriage, he has confined his attentions practically exclusively to Miss Davis, who is 20 years of age.

Until very recently she was the leading woman in his comedies. She left him to engage in a feature production and it is understood that the separation, brief though it was, hastened their intention to get married.

Harold first became acquainted with Mildred via the screen. From her home in Tacoma she had come south as a schoolgirl to try picture work and had been successful in getting a small part at the Metro studio. Later she returned to her home and resumed her studies at a girls' finishing school.

SAW HER ON SCREEN

Lloyd saw her on the screen and she made an impression on his mind almost immediately. Shortly after he had seen the film, Bebe Daniels signed with Lasky and in casting about for a new leading woman he bethought himself of the girl who had attracted his attention on the screen.

The company made an effort to trace her but owing to the fact that she had gone north again, it was several months before they could locate her. She immediately signed the contract that Hal E. Roach offered her and has played

STOCKYARDS HIT BY CATTLEMEN

Southwestern, Denver Men Back Los Angeles Plan

F. H. Bixby Reelected Chief of National Association

Supports Resolution Opposing Local Institution

Despite support for the Los Angeles Union Stockyards by the representatives of the Texas and Southwestern Cattle Growers' Association and other organizations, a resolution opposing the institution was passed and officers were elected there during the stockyards' sessions at yesterday's meeting of the American National Live-stock Association. Speaking for the forces directing the stockyards in the conventions were W. H. Anderson of the Texas and Southwestern cattlemen's association, and Ben Ali Miller of Denver, chairman of the association's finance committee. They said only a handful of cattlemen among the 5000 delegates, however, and the affirmative votes for the resolution were in the majority.

"The bill under that passed," Mr. Anderson told the audience, "There is not one in fighting individual or association in Texas that is not absolutely and utterly unfriendly to the stockyards at Los Angeles. If you find that the better element, and if you extend your sympathies to all stockyards as the guests of Manager J. H. McNaughton.

Free car transportation was provided by the stockyards company to the 5000 visitors, some of whom made the trip in the "pullmans" of the cattle trains. Many were presented with an ornate souvenir showing the administration building. Most of the delegates praised the buildings and equipment.

Pioneer Realty Dealer of City Passes Beyond

One of the city's pioneer real estate dealers passed yesterday when Francis Chas., 72 years of age, died at his home, 1138 East Twenty-fifth street.

Mr. Chas came to Los Angeles thirty-nine years ago and engaged in the real estate business, in which he was active until a few years ago. He was prominent in the affairs of the Christian Science Church here, having at one time been a reader.

He leaves two nieces, both of Los Angeles, who are Mrs. Ilma M. Roberts and Miss Marion Chas.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 11 a.m. from Pierce Brothers' chapel, with burial in Evergreen Cemetery.

Headed by the troop bugle, Mr. West was hoisted from the depot to the Alexandria in an [illegible] car, escorted by the scouts. He is here to stimulate interest in the Boy Scouts, the national organization of which he is campaigning for 600,000 members by the 15th inst.

Among the scout officials who were at the station to greet Mr. West were Scout Master H. H. Rhodick, Malcolm McNaughton and Alfred Wright. As luncheon was tendered Mr. West immediately after his arrival at the California Club by the officials of the Los Angeles Boy Scout Council. Those present included Arthur Letts, president, W. K. Music was furnished by the Boy Scout band of Los Angeles.

"Only the surface has been scratched, only the high tops of the high hills have been touched in Boy Scout work," Mr. West said in addressing the troop leaders of Southern California during the meeting.

Mr. West then went on to say that the Boy Scout movement has proved its practical and substantial value to society and with the support of the leading men of the country behind it its progress in the next few years should be phenomenal.

Pearson, manager of operations, and W. A. Raymaker, chief superintendent of construction. These men have been associated with Mr. Miller for many years, and the occasion was as great an delight to them as it was to their president, they said.

In accepting the twenty-five-year button, Mr. Miller said in part:

"During my career I have received tokens from numerous organizations, all of which I prize highly, but nothing has ever been presented to me which makes with this gold button that has just been pinned on my lapel.

"When I think of what we have been through, twenty-five years seems like a long time, but when I look at these twenty-five men gathered around me, it seems but a short while that we have all been working together."

At the conclusion of the program a painting by John M. Gamble, entitled, "Spring in the Desert," was presented to Mr. Miller by the officers and men of the Edison company.

GOING ABROAD

William A. Bryan, director of the Los Angeles Museum, yesterday applied for a passport to enable him to make a research trip to Central America, at the office of the Clerk of the United States District Court. W. L. Valentine, president of the Fullerton Oil Company, made a similar application to make a trip to Europe. He will be accompanied by his wife and they will join a daughter who is already in Paris.

VENICE RAIDS BEING AIRED

land stated emphatically that he was not a member of the organization and did not know of any member on the force who belonged to the Klan. He indicated, however, that there might be members of the organization on the force without his knowledge.

"If there are members of that organization in the force, which I am unaware of at present," Chief McClanahand said, "they have not made their presence known by any violations of rules or neglect of duty. The men have performed their duties to the letter and have never exercised any undue force or been guilty of any brutality in the performance of their duties. I did find out, however, that one man whom I dismissed recently was a member of the Klan."

SAYS WARRANTS ISSUED

"Every place entered," Chief McClanahand said, "was proceeded by the issuance of a search warrant. All the raids which have been conducted, especially the liquor raids, since I have been in office, have been made in my presence and under my orders."

Chief McClanahand declared that most of the liquor stills which have been seized by Venice police recently have been obtained from side or private sources.

"Of course there has been considerable bootlegging in Venice, but no more than in other places," Chief McClanahand said. "But there has been a marked decrease in that activity since I have taken office."

Chief McClanahand took office as Chief of Police last November 20, succeeding William M. Cavanaugh, former United States Marshal, who sat as register meeting of the City Board of Trustees was unanimously elected from the office. McClanahand announced upon taking office that the first would lay around Venice loafing dens. Chief McClanahand for four years was liquor enforcement officer in Riverside county, Mrs., before coming to Venice several months ago.

TWENTY SQUEAKS

At present there are about sixteen regular officers on the police force at Venice, but since Chief McClanahand came into office seven additional men have been sworn in as special officers by Chief McClanahand. These men were appointed, the Chief said, to provide for any emergency that might arise. It is against many of these men that charges have been made that they are members of the Klan or that they have used their appointments through their appointments.

The investigation was called two days ago, following complaints made by several persons to T. H. Griffin and Claude Smith, special representatives of the District Attorney's office in the Bay district, and statements made by three persons who were questioned at the District Attorney's office. The persons involved were H. D. Clark, manager of the Ambers Hotel, George Friedland and Tony Granvento, all of Venice.

REDISTRICTING SIRS UP STATE

Windham declared they were in active ignorance of the plan to redistrict the county and divide the city into two districts until the plan had been passed by the supervisors.

At the conclusion of the meeting an committee, to be known as the Long Beach county committee, was appointed by the chairman to cooperate with other organizations to further the secession plan and the efforts to recall Supervisor McClellan.

The committee consists of J. H. Davis, chairman; Fred H. Dill, W. M. Cook, O. S. Peacock, M. O. C. Todd, H. J. Gillette, W. H. Holder, John F. Craig, George M. Shiver and Henry P. Harbour.

The following statement was issued by Chairman McClellan, of the Board of Supervisors today:

"Apparently, the action of the Board of Supervisors in redistricting the county of Los Angeles into five supervisorial districts has excited some adverse comment in Long Beach and it is fitting and proper that the public should know the facts.

"It is the mandate of the law that the Board of Supervisors shall subdivide the county into supervisorial districts and said districts shall be as nearly equal in population as may be."

RAPID GROWTH CITED

"By reason of the rapid growth of Los Angeles county the registration of voters in the respective districts at the last general election was as follows:

"First district, 96,779; second district, 70,009; third district, 66,857; fourth district, 138,285; fifth district, 65,606.

"So it can be seen at a glance that the fourth district, being the old district in which Long Beach was located, most of necessary be subdivided and some territory added to each of the other four districts. The result was that it was necessary to the city of Long Beach, as the and the city of Pasadena, being larger centers of population, to place an portion in each of two or more supervisorial districts, with the result that at the present time the registration in the five districts is as follows:

"Fifth district, 98,811; second district, 96,784; third district, 93,080; fourth district, 89,975; fifth district, 79,922.

"This puts nearly 100,000 registration out of the fourth supervisorial district so that the obvious answer to the charge that an effort was being made to prevent Long Beach from controlling the supervisorial districts answered by the fact that with one-half of Long Beach in the present supervisorial district they have a greater proportion of voters than they had in the old district, or when the whole of the city of Long Beach was in the old district.

"The Board of Supervisors, in making this division, have tried to act fairly and impartially and have had only the welfare of the country at heart."

WAR MOTHERS TO MEET

American War Mothers will meet at 2 p.m. today at the Disabled Veterans Building, 946 South Hill street. All War Mothers now visiting in Los Angeles are invited.

SIDDURSKY WILL SPEAK

TEXT OF RESOLUTIONS

The text of the resolutions, which include a summary of the various bills proposed or to be proposed, reads as follows:

"Whereas, the difficulties of enforcing justice in our courts have brought about a condition that makes for crime among the criminally inclined; and

"Whereas, said difficulties appear to be due for the most part to the mechanical difficulties of the relations between judge and jury, the functionings of each and inadequate penalties for crime of a serious nature, and

"Whereas, a program of penal reform, including two amendments to the State constitution, has been adopted by the Los Angeles Crime Commission and the Los Angeles County Bar Association, said program, being summarized as follows:

Day's Broadcast to Bring Their Artistry to You

...tistry an individual touch that is at once appreciated.

Elsie Manion, who, through numerous appearances on KHJ concert programs, has perhaps as wide a reputation in radioland as any violinist in Southern California, presented listeners-in with a generous portion of true violin artistry last night, accompanied by Grace Eaton Dow. Miss Manion has marked interpretative ability, throwing her whole soul into the expression of difficult scores. Faultless technique and delicate shading are pre-eminent in her solo work and these have been important factors in winning for her a large following among lovers of good music.

C. Knutson, harp-guitar soloist, another frequent entertainer from KHJ, carried radio folk through several minutes of dreamy music, such as only the harp-guitar under capable fingers can produce. He proves himself a master of this type of music and made radio folk demand encores through his creditable performance last night.

Little Margaret Brannen, whom radioland claims as its own and whose saxophone solos from KHJ always bring a flood of mail and telephone commendations, took part in last night's feature broadcast, giving listeners five solos in her inimitable style.

Little Margaret, who has been blind from birth, is a born musician. She is equally proficient on saxophone, violin or piano, and her ability to make people happy through giving of her musical ability is her chief inspiration.

Dr. Eugene Francis Storke, lecturer of world-wide reputation, gave another of his weekly lectures last night, this time having as his theme "Fixed Ideas and What They Mean." His expression left the listener in a frame of mind where doubt and assurance joined hands on a fifty-fifty basis. He told his invisible audience that a fixed idea can work their salvation or their ruin, depending upon the fundamentals of the idea. He contends that fixed ideas rule the world—also wreck it. He traced concrete examples of how fixed ideas find expression in everything we have; in everything we do. The main food for thought which he left with his listeners was that they should show a wise choice in fixing their ideas, which, if right, should be clung to "with all the tenacity of the original sin."

SAN QUENTIN FOR PROBATION BREAKER

John D. O'Malley failed to live up to the terms of his probation, it was decided yesterday by Judge Reeve, who revoked the order granting probation and sentenced O'Malley to San Quentin for from one to fourteen years.

O'Malley had pleaded guilty to forgery of the name of Fulgencio Luna to a check for $5. He was granted probation of three years on August 24 last.

Probation Officer Neily reported to the court that O'Malley did not live up to the terms of probation and had served a sentence of fifty days in jail for vagrancy.

It was charged that O'Malley posed as a sailor from San Diego who had been robbed and needed money to get back to his post before he became a deserter. In this way, it was charged, he obtained money.

ANCIENT SLANDER SUIT IS DROPPED

A slander suit pending several years between Ralph M. Seay and George E. Marsh, both of Long Beach, was dismissed yesterday by Judge Burnell in Superior Court by consent of both parties.

Seay had asked $25,000 damages, declaring Marsh had circulated reports damaging to his financial standing and reputation.

The A.B.C. of Good Tea

THIS diagram shows clearly one reason for the superior flavor, strength and aroma of RIDGWAYS TEA.

In order to get the very choicest pickings, only those leaves marked "A," "B" and "C" are gathered for Ridgways. These tender, young tip-leaves give to Ridgways Tea that rare quality of flavor which distinguishes the famous Ridgway blends.

The leaves marked "D," "E," "F" and "G" are coarser and less flavory and therefore are never used by Ridgways.

This carefully guarded Ridgway quality also assures more cups to the pound. When you buy Ridgways Tea you not only get the best tea, but actually more of it than is possible from inferior tea. As an example of pure good tea we suggest that you order Ridgways (GOLD LABEL) the Genuine Orange Pekoe.

THE WAIST PLACES

It seems a pity that a man should be hugging a delusion when so many attractive twenty-two-inch waists are going to waste.

NEEDED MUZZLING

Speaking of a social affair in Constantinople, an American observer wrote to her home paper that the Turkish women still came in their yashmaks. The puzzled printer got it into type as "gas masks," which wasn't so bad when you come to think of it.

BADLY MANAGED

Reports made through the Coal Commission set forth that there are 200,000 more coal miners in the country than are needed and that more mines are being operated than are essential. Instead of a coal famine there should be overproduction. The industry is not on a practical basis and the unions have wrecked their end of it. A fact-finding body generally turns out to be a fault-finding one.

SOMETHING ON FOOT

It seemed to be the verdict of those present at the convention of the Retail Shoe Dealers of America that a real lady could not possibly get along on less than twelve pairs of shoes a year. This would be a pair a month, but, of course, there are shoes for special occasions that do not count with the regular run. With shoes costing around $12 a pair it may be seen what the average husband is up against. If it is going to cost $150 a year to keep a woman from going barefooted, what has become of the old-fashioned schedule which showed how a lady could dress completely on $109 a year?

THE BIG PROBLEM

President Harding admits that he has no practical plan for the stabilization of Europe or the adjustment of economic conditions. This is a confession that no Senator would make, yet it is significant that no American has yet contributed more than a few loose words to the situation. There is much general conversation and gruff suggestion that Europe must go to work and save its money, but when it comes to offering an intelligent program for the settlement of the various economic and financial obligations of Europe the Senators might as well have been born deaf and dumb. Some of them would be better dumb, at any rate.

RELIGION AND RADIO

In England the churches are objecting to the extension of radio service and equipment. It is claimed that the concerts and other entertainment on the air interfere with attendance at the sanctuary. Some regulation is sought. If there were a wireless outfit in every home lots of people would never go to church. They would get the whole Sunday service out of the air—sermon and all. They might even cease to feel the necessity of maintaining the church organization. That is why the church in England is disturbed. But it doesn't furnish a situation to worry about it. Here the radio dissemination appear to stimulate the appetite for other good things. Church attendance is being invigorated if anything. The theologians should not grieve if the people are getting music and other features with their aerial pabulum. There is room and glory enough for all.

THE HOME FIRES BURNING

The big department stores now have educational directors, who mix diplomacy with merchandising. They not only keep their fingers on the public pulse, but speed it up a few beats every now and then. At the annual conference on household management one of these experts gave some practical advice on keeping the vampire out of the home. If the wife negotiates her breakfast in a tacky kimono and with her hair awry she is in a fair way to lose her spouse. He will not always stand for that sort of stuff. The vampire never makes any mistakes of that kind. She is always dressed up and never looks the soiled and dirty thing she may be in private life.

According to this expert women must make and keep themselves attractive in the home if they hope to hold the love and affection of their lords. The dowdy woman who wears a tattered cap, a soiled Mother Hubbard and ragged slippers at her household duties is taking a long chance on Friend Husband. Dainty but simple gowns may have had much to do with winning him in sweetheart days. They are equally important in keeping his love and respect after the wedding bells have rung. Women are apt to forget this. They may think a husband captured is a husband tamed. Yet he will run away some day to the lure of a newer and prettier skirt. The intelligent wife will not suffer herself to become drab or stale.

It is really easier for a woman to do her housework when she is dressed neatly and in order. Dainty and spotless garments are an inspiration for good housekeeping. The wife who is cleanly and careful as to her personal appearance will have a shining and unsullied home. Also her chance for retaining the unbroken admiration of the husband is mighty good.

This expert may be worth listening to.

PUTTING TEETH IN THE LAW

The Statewide campaign to combat crime and to discourage criminals is proceeding along practical, efficient lines. It is backed by the law-abiding people of California. It is indorsed by bench and bar, by police officials and civic organizations. It is a stern and determined move to wipe out the blot of rampant lawlessness. It holds out the hope of protection for life and property. It holds over the head of the criminal punitive measures with teeth in them.

Two proposed constitutional amendments designed to combat and prevent crime and expedite criminal trials have been introduced in the California Legislature. One proposes to change the constitution to permit a three-fourths verdict by juries trying criminal cases and the second would permit judges to advise juries as to the facts in the case and their bearing on the verdict.

These amendments have been introduced. It remains only for the Legislature to submit them to the vote of the people. Then, if ratified at the polls, the arm of the law, in the opinion of jurists and police officials, will have been greatly strengthened.

Throughout the State people are thoroughly aroused to the menace of lawlessness. The increase in crime has become a serious menace and people are insistently urging their representatives in the Legislature to submit these reasonable and effective proposals to the vote of the people. Judges and other men whose experience particularly qualifies them to understand the situation are emphatically and unqualifiedly in support of the proposals and the overwhelming weight of popular opinion appears to be back of them.

Six amendments to the Political Code have also been introduced in the State Legislature. The stated object of these proposed amendments is to enable the State to increase its powers to suppress and discourage violent crimes. Legislative proponents of the amendments say that the crime wave has become so serious a menace to the welfare of the community that it must be met and overcome with measures adequately drastic.

In Los Angeles the Crime Commission, supported by bench and bar, police officials and City Council, has already succeeded in putting into effect a portion of a program to suppress violent crime. The police force has been strengthened by vote of the City Council. It has since been reorganized in some departments by Chief Oaks with the specific object of combatting crime.

Now it becomes necessary to put a few more teeth into the laws and the measures introduced in Sacramento are for that purpose. For the sake of the good name of California and of its law-abiding people it is to be hoped that the Legislature will promptly arrange to submit these measures to vote of the people.

The door of opportunity still swings wide to the honest man in California, but an awakened citizenship has determined that the way of the transgressor shall be hard.

OUR CONSULAR SERVICE

Secretary Hughes is determined to establish a strong, consistent and progressive foreign policy for the United States. He accepted his present position fully realising the tremendous responsibility it involved; already he has made the power and authority of his country felt in the international movements of the world.

But if the Secretary of State is to accomplish the task he has mapped out for himself he must be intelligently informed at first hand of what is transpiring in foreign countries—he must obtain information ahead of the event—he must get the facts.

To do this he has to rely on the embassies, consulates and diplomatic servants appointed to the various nations with which this government has friendly relations. And, of course, the value of the office depends on the personnel of the officeholders.

Secretary Hughes believes such important positions should attract the best intellects of the land since actions that affect the whole trend of civilization may wait on information they furnish—or omit to furnish—to the State Department.

The financial remuneration of such posts, however, does not attract the same high brand of trained experts that similar positions in the business world command. Indeed, the expenses attached to the more important embassies so far exceed the salaries offered that only those blessed with large private means can afford to undertake their high responsibilities.

This does not imply that men of wealth are incompetent to fill a place in the foreign diplomatic service of the nation. Many have done so with credit to themselves and to their country. But these important posts should not be restricted to men of independent means.

Secretary Hughes wishes to see our diplomatic foreign service improved so that the United States can send on foreign missions of state alert, trained, young American specialists, capable of holding their own with the diplomats of Europe with the same certitude shown by the American business agents abroad, let us say—of the Standard Oil Company.

But the Standard Oil Company would not have been so successful in foreign fields if it had restricted its agencies abroad to men of independent incomes.

GOLDEN WEDDINGS

We hope the whole wide world will take note of the fact that when a local theater gave a special performance and reception to which only couples that had been married fifty years or more were invited 250 persons attended.

While divorce is not unknown in Los Angeles and its environs, the world in general is likely to get wholly erroneous ideas of the high percentage of fidelity and happy married life here. One reason for that is that there are here an unusually large number of notable, exceptional and outstanding people, and some of them, like other people, get into the divorce courts. The natural result is wide publicity. Any divorce case, no matter how unimportant in the public eye, is a matter of news, whereas the cases of 100 couples who live happily together in the same neighborhood a divorce case comes from are so much the expected and regular thing that no mention is made of them.

There are—as yet—bigger cities in the United States than Los Angeles, but it is doubtful if any of them can produce 125 couples who have celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at any one gathering. If Chicago or New York can beat that record let them step right out and do it.

In fact, Southern California probably has a higher percentage of happy homes than any other region. That's natural. People who are grouches elsewhere become pleasant company after imbibing the health and sweetness of Southern California air. Folks who couldn't live happily anywhere else get along splendidly here, and anyone who couldn't live in peace and harmony here couldn't anywhere.

PANAMA CANAL DEFENSES

Brig.-Gen. B. H. Wells of the United States War Plans Section, after a series of practical tests and scientific investigations, acquaints the public with the unpleasant fact that the Panama Canal along the entire fifty-mile stretch of territory between Balboa and Colon is practically at the mercy of any powerful enemy.

Army officers, including Gen. Pershing, agree almost unanimously with the views expressed by Brig.-Gen. Wells. Fortification experts contend that Congress should without delay vote funds sufficient to provide for several batteries of sixteen-inch guns of 50,000-yard range to insure the safety of our transcontinental waterway.

Ample provision has been made for defending the entrances to the canal from naval attack, but this, after all, is but a partial defense. Wherever a point is left unguarded between the Atlantic and the Pacific there is a weak link in the chain and the strength of the whole defense is the strength of that weak link.

The prestige of the United States would be lowered in the eyes of the world and the morale of our own people would suffer should, even for a brief period, an enemy be able to in any place puncture this national artery. Moreover, the material damage that might thus be inflicted on the construction works and locks and banks of the canal would exceed by an immense amount the cost of providing the necessary batteries.

In addition to this a block of the Panama Canal in case of war would dislocate the defense plans of the Navy Department and throw all naval maneuvers into confusion by breaking the connection between our Pacific and Atlantic fleets.

At all costs the country must insure this public investment against every possible form of assault from sea or earth or sky. The canal is a great national highway of peace and in the cause of peace must be secure against the dangers of war. Defense is not defiance. The nation may never need to use those sixteen-inch guns. But, if we ever do need them, we shall need them badly—and in a hurry.

No State is more vitally interested in the Panama Canal than the State of California—no port will figure so largely in its future as the harbor of Los Angeles. Our people therefore have an especial interest in seeing that Congress provides for its adequate defense.

RENT PROFITEERING

The government seems also to be at the mercy of rent profiteers. Part of the Attorney-General's office is in rented quarters. The administration has been paying $37,500 a year under a lease. Now the lease expires and the landlord is demanding $300,000 a year before he will consent to a new contract. Even Uncle Sam is sure that a 900 per cent advance in rentals is too much. He should be the leader in the own-your-own-home movement. The government should never pay rent.

DAY BY DAY

It seems a bit odd, but the big contractors are our greatest expansionists. This illustrates the elasticity of our language. The more they contract the more we expand—and we have some expansion to show for last year's contracting.

HUMORISTS' VESTED RIGHTS

J. W. Arnold, a government expert making a frost survey in the citrus belt, gravely informed the Kiwanis Club of Redlands that in nine cases out of ten the weather man's prophecies come true.

Of course, everybody laughed. Redlands can appreciate a joke just as well as anybody. But, then, Mr. Arnold did the mean thing. He went ahead and proved his assertion.

Haven't humorists—of the pen, the crayon and the stage—any established rights in this country? Is Uncle Sam going to come along at this late day and take the bread out of the mouths of the comedy duo that never yet has failed to get a hand and a laugh by taking a crack at the weather man? Is the hard-pressed cartoonist, who already has yanked off 99 45-100 per cent of his hair in the struggle for new ideas, to be robbed of the one sure shot in his locker, which he learned at his grandfather's knee was the very platinum of humor, guaranteed never to rust or wear? And, lo! the poor paragrapher—has this ruthless Arnold person no thought of him?

But it isn't only they who will suffer. It is the general public. For it isn't always that the general public knows when to laugh. There are a few things, however, which it has been trained, through generation after generation, are indestructibly numorous and chief among these is the weather man. As soon as it suspects that he is about to be mentioned the general public sets its face for a grin and takes a deep breath for a guffaw.

Is Uncle Sam going to permit one of his experts to come out here and take so much laughter out of the lives of fathers and mothers, old men and maidens, young men and children?

RIPPLING RHYMES

AFTER HOLIDAYS

Christmas found me robed in peace, joy was shining in my eyes and I filled myself with geese and I ate six kinds of pies; I devoured some roasted pigs and a lot of nuts and figs and some bakeshop thingmyjigs, all of which was scarcely wise.
After Christmas New Year's Day, and the table groaned with things which, in all their brave array, might have tempted queens and kings; ducks I ate with eager zeal and a section of an eel and a turkey stuffed with veal and a pair of ostrich wings. For a man, though old and sere, must pretend he's not afraid; when the holidays are here he must march with the parade; he must join the joyous crew, he must chew what others chew, with a cock-a-doodle-doo and a whoop-la undismayed.
So I sat me down to dine with a gay and merry lot; they had younger works than mine and they at and then forgot; I have suffered ever since and I curse the pies of mince and the marmalade of quince and the oysters smoking hot. I am breathing fire and smoke like a dragon or a joss, and a murrain I invoke on the pudding and its sauce; and I heave sepulchral sighs when I hear you mention pies, and the briny soaks my eyes and I am a total loss. But I hope to be restored to my health within a year and I'll jolt the groaning board when the Christmas days are here; yea, forgetting bygone aches, I'll consume the luscious cakes, and the things the baker bakes rapidly as they appear. WALT MASON.

THE BIG DOINGS

Building and construction work in this country last year called for the expenditure of nearly $5,000,000,000, which is a heavier investment than ever before known. It was the greatest creative program of the time. We have something to show for it—something beautiful and impressive. Five billions of dollars is a vast sum of money. Supposing it had been spent for firecrackers and then touched off with a match! That shows the difference between spending billions for war or for home-building

Chicago is to have the tallest church in the world. But religion comes high in that town.

How many mornings this week have you heard the favorite salutation, "Good day for ducks," etc.?

The storms that lashed the Atlantic are over. It was all due to the silk pants of Ambassador Harvey.

The American Live Stock Association, in session in this city, seems inclined to take the bull by the horns.

We don't hear anything about E. Mont. Reilly, Governor-General of Porto Rico, these days. Where is he "at"?

The chief of the Federal narcotic squad is Col. L. G. Nutt. He ought to form a legal partnership with Atty.-Gen. Coco of Louisiana.

So far as we know Coue never used his favorite theory in cases where his automobile engine broke down. That would be the acid test.

How would it do to follow the example set by Greece and hang or shoot the managers of the baseball clubs that fail to land the pennant?

An eclipse of the sun is booked for this latitude in September. And we are assured there will be no postponement on account of the weather.

Improvement is the record of the times, but we notice that there is just the same amount of time between Monday morning and Saturday night on the 1923 calendars as there was on those of 1922.

Pauline Frederick, the screen star, is suing her attorney, a New York lawyer, for a mere bagatelle of almost $50,000 in the local court. His fees must have been in the class of the bootleggers' attorneys.

President Harding admits that he is up a tree, so to speak, on what ought to be done with the European situation. And, quite unlike Woodrow Wilson, he is telling the people of his troubles. It is the Harding way.

Lew Dockstader, the veteran minstrel man, is stricken with paralysis. Dockstader, whose real name is Lewis Clapp, is a Connecticut man and for years was a minstrel star. When blacked up as an end man or stump speaker Dockstader had the habit of always visiting the newspaper offices and getting the latest local news happenings before his performances. And then the customers in the theater wondered where he got it.

THIS IS THE DAY

A treaty was signed between the United States and Spain in the year 1819 by which Spain ceded Florida to the United States for the purchase price of $5,000,000.

The Treaty of Guadaloupe-Hidalgo was signed by the United States and Mexico in the year 1848. By the terms of this treaty Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California were formally ceded to the United States upon payment of about $15,000,000.

STOP THAT TAX LEAK

BY EWELL D. MOORE

Article III

It is not always easy to distinguish between what is and what is not income. The law says that gross income shall include "income from every source." However, disputes constantly arise between taxpayers and the government on this apparent all-inclusive definition. There is no general rule. The facts in each particular case control.

The United States Supreme Court has defined income, and its definition should be followed by the taxpayers when they doubt their own judgment. It says: "Income may be defined as the gain derived from capital, from labor or from both combined, provided that it be understood to include profits gained through a sale or conversion of capital assets." One may get a special ruling on any particular case by applying to the Internal Revenue Bureau at Washington.

Every individual who has had a gross income of $5000 or over for 1922, regardless of his net income, must file a return. Even in the face of this it is often difficult to decide whether one should really make a report to the government. It depends upon whether taxpayer's "gross receipts" are also his "gross income." There is a distinction. To illustrate:

A merchant or trader, married, has receipts of $10,000 for the year. He would first subtract the cost of the goods sold in the amount of, say, $7000. If he has no other income his statutory gross income would be $3000. Now if his expense of doing business should be $1100 his net income would be $1900 and no return would be required.

On the other hand, a lawyer, doctor, architect or other professional man has gross receipts from fees amounting to $6000 and his business expenses are $4500, leaving a net income of $1500. A return must be made because his gross "income" as well as his gross "receipts" is $6000. These examples apply, of course, to citizens.

THE NET INCOME

Income as used in the law cannot be determined by merely counting cash receipts. It means more than that. It is the "excess of that which is received over that which is parted with."

Suppose a man sells a piece of land for $5000 cash. The cash received is not necessarily income. He has received property of the same value. Or suppose he buys land for $5000; the cash paid out is not an expense. It is an investment.

Net income means the gross income, less all ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred in any trade or business. The allowable deductions for expenses are specified in the law and shown upon the return. Taxpayers cannot go wrong in following the instructions printed on the government forms.

LOSSES MAY BE DEDUCTED

A very important matter to be considered, however, is the item of losses. In general all losses actually sustained may be deducted by both individuals and corporations under the present law, whether incurred in business and trade or not. There are certain restrictions, of course, the details of which cannot be fully covered in a series of brief articles such as these are to be.

Net income must be computed for a fixed twelve-months period, which is called the taxable year. DEATH NO CURE

By the Foothill Philosopher

Some persons dread death. Others would welcome it. Perhaps both attitudes are the result of undue publicity given the "Grim Destroyer"—publicity for which, according to latest reports, the "Destroyer" has never paid humanity a single penny. For, just as the fact of sex is neither "good" nor "bad," but natural, so death is neither a monster nor an angel, but, comparatively speaking, merely human.

Death levels all ranks, cancels all debts, it is said. Does it really do so? Does it really make things any "leveler" than they are? Does it actually make a Hottentot the equal of Shakespeare or reduce John Bunyan to the level of his persecutors? And does the mere fact of death settle all accounts, liquidate all debts? How lovely—if this is so!

There is a superstitious idea to the effect that death brings freedom. It is not true. Only the "life more abundant" can liberate the soul.

In the last analysis death itself is only a conception of a living being. Life is insistent and eternal in every atom of the universe. The disintegration of an organized body means only that that special form ceases to function—but it does not mean that its component parts have been rendered inactive, nor that the spirit which organized it has been annihilated, nor does it prove that the organizing power cannot re-collect and revivify the same form at will.

If annihilation were possible, it it were "a fact in nature," no one could prove it, for to do so he would have to prove the existence of nothing—which is unthinkable, for to prove the existence of something that does not exist is equivalent to establishing its existence and, if a thing or "state of being" exists, then it is not nothing, but something.

Can we go further than to say that nothing does not exist? And if nothing is not, then annihilation is a conception of the all-inclusive consciousness and is not a reality, either in or outside of consciousness.

If annihilation were possible no one could be conscious of it, for to assert that it is possible to be conscious of the nonexistent is a proposition that is self-contradictory and requires no argument to prove its fallacy.

Once a person is convinced that life is universal and eternal he will never more will admit the possibility of death, in the sense of the annihilation of "matter" or of consciousness. Such a person will know "matter" and "mind" as identical in nature, manifestations of the great soul in which they live and move and have their being. He will know that the "dead" is forever conscious and immortal, able from the spiritual, and he will know that the spirit is eternally substantial.

Such a perceiver will not fear resurrection, for he will know that He who creates and preserves is also the One who changes and remodels all forms that reflect the Maker. No, such a person will not deny resurrection. Rather will he affirm it, but he will make no special miracle of it—will take no special delight in it, any more than he will pay tribute of fear to the fact of disintegration. For he will be at one with the Master who knew Himself for "the life, the truth and the way." He will recognize himself for the unborn and the undying.

He who perceives life as positively good will see only the good in all of life's manifestations. And he who once realizes the immortable and supreme fact of existence is no longer the slave of time, and is he deeply disturbed by the phenomenal, pictorial drama that is being enacted.

IMMORTAL

Soul, the immortal part of man
Merely inhabits a house of clay
Death is the key that in God's great plan
Opens the gate of eternal day.

The dawning breaks as when I come to me
Of those dear ones I loved and lost awhile,
I am so grateful I can always see
Their faces with the old familiar smile,
So closely they abide
That I am satisfied
Death brought them only immortality.

This kindergarten life on earth
Teaches the lesson all must learn
Death is only a second birth
And men must harvest the seed they sow.

BUILDERS URGE OFFICIAL SPEED

City Moves Too Slowly on Permits, They Say

Force Held Inadequate for Volume of Business

Condition Made Subject at Contractors' Convention

A resolution presented to the City Council some time ago by the Southern California Chapter of the Associated General Contractors of America was read yesterday to the delegates to the national convention of the Associated General Contractors now in session in Los Angeles.

The resolutions deal with a condition which has existed and still exists in somewhat modified form in this city—the inadequacy of the city building department's forces to handle the great increase in Los Angeles building operations.

The resolution reads:

"Whereas, for many months there has been an increasing amount of building activity in the city of Los Angeles, with which the present forces of the city building department could not adequately cope, and,

MONTH'S DELAY

"Whereas, the leading industry of this city, i.e., the building industry, is now seriously handicapped with a month's delay in having building plans approved by the department, and,

"Whereas, it has come to the attention of the Southern California Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America, that the Los Angeles City Council has taken cognizance of this wasteful situation, and,

"Whereas, the chief building inspector was authorized by the Honorable Council of this city to augment his forces in a small degree, together with a moderate increase in salaries for some of his assistants, and,

"Whereas, there is a crying need for more substantial increase in both personnel and compensation in this department to bring the efficiency equal to the demands upon it, therefore, be it

"Resolved, by the Southern California Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America, that this acknowledgment be extended to the Honorable Council of the city of Los Angeles for the above action looking to the improvement of conditions in the building department, and, be it further

"Resolved, that this chapter recommends to the City Council that still further steps be taken to render this important department efficient and satisfactory in its operation by expending the revenue derived from building permits only within the building department until the above described handicap to building operations in Los Angeles be removed.

"Southern California Chapter, Associated General Contractors of America.

"J. C. EDWARDS, President."

The convention delegates were divided yesterday into three divisions, the building division, the highway division, and the public works and railroads division. Each group met in individual quarters and discussed questions which pertained to its department in particular.

The split caused considerable confusion, and as a result several speakers failed to find the group which they were scheduled to address.

FOUR WANT JURY TRIALS

Clogging of Courts With Liquor Cases Likely, Belief of Officials Who See Trouble Ahead

Jury trials are becoming the fashion for Wright Act cases, it developed yesterday when Constable Thomas was notified to get four times twelve good men and true to hear the evidence in four such trials in the local Justice Courts. Heretofore only one defendant, John De Bortola, accused of violating the Wright Act, demanded a jury trial. He was acquitted.

It was stated that because of the large number of such cases, if the defendants all demanded jury trials, the local justice courts would be crowded to capacity.

Two jury trials set for tomorrow are those of M. M. and M. A. Terry, who were arrested by Detective Contreras and a squad from the District Attorney's office on charges of manufacturing liquor, having it in their possession and transporting it.

OTHER TRIALS SET

Two other trials are set for the same day. The Terrys have furnished bail of $1500 each. The Terrys have furnished bail of trials will be held in Justice Follett's court.

Mrs. Charlie Eddy, arrested at Belvedere for selling liquor, was released on $1000 bail for appearance before Justice Baird tomorrow. Duke Miller, arrested on a charge of having five fifty-gallon barrels of mash and 300 gallons of whisky, is to appear before Justice Baird tomorrow.

Nearly every piece of plumbing in the modern house may be used in making illicit liquor, according to the detectives who arrested W. C. Maas of San Gabriel. They assert that Maas used his bathtub as a cooler. Maas is accused of manufacturing liquor. Th eofficers said they found a 100-gallon still, fifteen gallons of liquor and some mash in the house. Maas is to appear tomorrow before Justice Follette.

LOVE BLIND, 'TIS PROVED, SAYS JUDGE

Financial Value of Man's Affections Are Set at Nil by Jurist

The financial value of George A. Shafer's love is nil and its intrinsic value is even less, if possible, Judge Valentine of the Superior Court declared yesterday in dismissing the $50,000 lost love suit brought by Mrs. Matie B. Shafer against Nora Dawson.

The court bitterly assailed Shafer, who had testified against his wife during the trial of the suit, declaring that he could not see how any women could value his love.

"Never before have I seen a better exemplification of the truth of Shakespeare's saying that love speaks with the heart and not with the mind; therefore is winged Cupid painted blind," Judge Valentine said.

"It is difficult to understand how any woman of sane mind could bestow her affections upon a character such as Mr. Shafer painted himself to be. Devoid of feeling, much less of affection for his former wife, he was willing to and did listen to the promises of the plaintiff that if he would divorce his former wife and marry the plaintiff she would pay his expenses to California or some other place.

"Instead of him getting the divorce, he was forced to admit that his former wife got the decree from him on the ground of extreme cruelty which is not a matter of surprise to me viewing his appearance and demeanor on the stand and listening to his testimony, full of contradictions and showing an entire lack of a sense of truth, respect or affection and kindly human feeling.

"Not only one but two women, it appears, have made this despicable character the object of their affections."

Shafer had revealed in his testimony that his present wife had promised to pay his fare to California and also the allmony if he would divorce his first wife. He also stated that his love for his second wife had cooled several months before he met Nora Dawson.

DIVORCE GRANTED

Wife Testifies Husband Left After Expressing Hate

One morning Albert E. Witt strode to the door of his home, turned to his wife and said: "I hate you! I despise you!" He did not return.

This was the testimony of Henrietta G. Witt yesterday in her divorce action before Judge Hardy in the Superior Court.

Judge Hardy granted her a decree and $175 a month allmony.

Witt was formerly auditor for the Union Tool Company of Torrance. He now lives in Toledo, O.

Attorney A. J. Getz represented Mrs. Witt.

People and Their Troubles

Elizabeth Jordan's Column:

PUNISHING CHILDREN

Here's another letter from an anxious parent. I am flattered by her confidence, but having no children of my own, all I can do for her is to give her the result of my observations of the methods of my married friends with their youngsters. Most of these friends are up-to-date and intelligent, and many of them have made a special study of the problem which troubles my correspondent.

Dear Miss Jordan: In a recent article of yours you advise a certain mother not to whip her boy. You say, "Wise parents don't do that sort of thing nowadays."

I rise to ask a question. What do wise parents do when their children are disobedient and wilful? Talk to them? Moral suasion has no effect on my boy. A MOTHER.

No, my friends do not depend upon moral suasion. They do talk to their children, but they realize how fleeting is the impression of mere words upon young minds. They point out to disobedient or wilful children how wrong their conduct is, and why it is wrong. Then they emphasize the lesson by some form of punishment which fixes it in the memory.

MODERN PUNISHMENT

The best punishment, from the standpoint of results, is to deprive the child of a pleasure he has looked forward to. Keep him away from some picnic or some fishing trip or some excursion to the swimming hole with his pals, or some pleasure of that kind, and probably he will decide that it is not worth while to be disobedient if one has to pay such a price for it.

Of course this is not the highest lesson you wish him to learn, but it is better than no lesson at all. As he grows older, presumably he will see the moral aspects of the situation. In his extreme youth, before he is able to grasp these, your task is to find some way of fixing in his mind the knowledge that certain things must not be done, and that unpleasant penalties will follow them if they are done.

No child should be whipped. No child should be sent to bed hungry as a punishment for wrongdoing. But any child may be legitimately deprived of a pleasure he has forfeited and the experience will make a strong impression on his little mind.

NO BRIBES NOWADAYS

Bribing children to do things they should do naturally and willingly is another parental habit that has gone out. So has the habit of fault-finding and threatening. The wise mother ignores the childish imperfections which are unimportant and concentrates on those worth while. She does not "nag" nor does she threaten. She merely remarks quietly that the penalty of wrongdoing will be so and so. If the child does wrong she immediately exacts the penalty.

We are all familiar with the old-time method: "Now Johnny don't do that. If you do I'll send you right to bed. Johnny, why did you do that? Didn't I tell you not to. If you disobey me again, I will surely send you to bed. Johnny! Why are you so naughty? Didn't I tell you not to do that? Do you want to be sent to bed? Oh, you don't! Well, let me see any more of such conduct and you will be." And so on and so on.

Nowadays, the mother who talks like that and acts like that shows herself many years behind her time.

All over the land small boys are hearing the clear determined voices of wiser mothers:

"John Anderson, you go right upstairs to bed!"

And John Anderson goes.

Question: Is the evolution of the human race still in progress, or is the man of today a finished product? G. A. C.

Answer: Scientists say that the evolutionary process is still going on, and that while it is not likely that man's body will admit of great change, there is room for some improvement such as in the superfluous length of the food canal and the overcrowding of the teeth. It is likely, however, that there will be constitutional changes, e.g., of prolonged youthfulness, a higher standard of healthfulness and a greater resistance to disease.

LETTERS TO "THE TIMES"

Doubts the Figures

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Some time ago my attention was called to an article in The Times. The said article being an account of a speech delivered by Alvin Owsley, national commander of the American Legion. He made the statement that 80 per cent of the crimes in America were committed by unnaturalized aliens. It is beyond my comprehension how he can put such a high percentage of crime against the aliens. There are only 13,000,000 aliens out of a population of almost 110,000,000. There are only two ways in which I can think of him making such a statement. He either does not know the subject of which he talks or he is trying to misrepresent the facts as they are. Some folks will read his speech and say it was alright without analyzing the truth of his statements. It is my desire to see fair play for everyone, therefore I do not like to read so much of this false propaganda. In closing, I would like to know of any alien in connection with any big crimes in Los Angeles since the big crime wave started after the war. JAMES C. BROWN.

Talks to Boys

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Call him father and lead a healthful life. Boys, when you speak of our father don't call him "the old man." Of course, you are older now than when you learned to call him father. You are much smarter than you were then; you are much more manly looking. Your clothes fit better; your hat has a more modern shape and your hair is combed differently. In short, you are "finer" than you were then. Your father has a last year's coat and a two-year-old hat and a vest of still older pattern. He can't write such an elegant note as you can and all that, but don't call him "the old man." Call him father. For years he has been hustling around to get things together; he has been held to the thorny path of uphill industry for years, and the brightest half of his life has gone from him forever. But he loves you, though he goes along without saying much about it, and if he knew you were bad it would be the heaviest burden he has to bear. Lead a moderate, healthful life. Take plenty of sleep. Take plenty to eat. Take plenty of exercise. We need more walking philosophers in this world. Keep a contented mind. Remember the man who wants little is always rich. And the man who has much isn't always. Sometimes a man owns a house, but sometimes the house owns the man. It is better for the man to own the house and to bear in mind that a very big man can live in a very little house. I need not say that little men can live in big houses. This life can only give a man at best one thing—contentment. JOE TOWNSEND.

It May be Jealousy

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 20.—[To the Editor of The Times:] I am attracted by a letter in Monday's Times headed, "Too Much Movie," and signed W. G. H. Dudley. The writer seems so well informed as to newspaper work and publicity effort that one is persuaded that the letter is the instructed work of a reporter, at the mandate of some superior, who has been repeatedly and severely scooped by The Times' many and consecutive big pieces of news, or some peeved and disappointed movie picture publicity man, who has been called to the boards for inefficiency and needed foresight.

As a veteran newspaper man, who has within a few months come to Los Angeles, and who has become an enthusiast in view of the really miraculous advancement and progress of your great city, let me say that I was on the point of writing you, complimenting you on the distinctively exceptional special news, covering motion-picture business. You have not only beaten all other local newspapers, but have scooped the whole country with the biggest break in connection with the motion-picture industry, and to the astonishment of newspapers in New York, the center of motion-picture interests. My exchanges disclose that all the big cities have played up belated articles of The Times as front page news. The Times' exclusive stories have served as a series of bombs on the tardy and seemingly safe and secure financiers of other cities, particularly New York. The mail and the telegraph brings to me, professionally, clear evidence that financial and business interests in New York have been awakened to the realization that Los Angeles has severely and dangerously loosened the tenacious grasp of an overconfident Wall street trust.

It recalls a lesson that Henry Ford administered to the same interests.

From my personal observations and scrutinies I am encouraged to the belief that the moving-picture business has contributed more to the almost unbelievable enrichment of Los Angeles, a wondrous city, and which has filled the vaults of your banks an dthe coffers of your merchants, to the extent of millions and millions of dollars, and the outlook is that it will run into the billions, with the new plans as given by The Times.

The assertion that the very valuable news about the coming of several representative moving-picture companies to Los Angeles to make this the point of uistribution as well as producing center, is slush and not real news, savors of nausea instead of wholesome support of a vicious and grossly inaccurate letter. B. H. BENTON.

Wrong Way to Right Wrong

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 1.—[To the Editor of The Times:] One of the distinguishing characteristics of the ostrich is that he foolishly takes refuge from his pursuers by tucking his head under the desert sand and cajoles himself into thinking there is no danger.

Like the ostrich we enact laws, both subjective and adjective, prohibiting the use of alcohol and foolishly think we have abolished the evil of drinking.

Whether we be for or against the use of liquor, all persons of sound reason must concede that our method is wrong in this, just the same as it has been in other cases where we have sought to eradicate harmful elements and influences. For instance the dissolution of the oil and tobacco trusts, and the pulsitive abatement of the tenderloin. That is to say we have driven them into seclusion and scattered them beyond control. Now, even members of the United States Supreme Court bench openly declare we have enacted a rule of conduct, a law which is unenforcible, and further, that disrespect for this law is causing disregard for all law. That is not surprising, since it has long been recognized that we can not legislate people's morals.

In sharp contrast with the above method we constituted the Interstate Commerce Commission governing such public utilities as interstate railroads. Note the method. The roads were left in the hands of private owners under rigid governmental supervision. No one can question the fact that the evils, rebating, and other forms of tyranny, which were the immediate cause for appointing the commission, have been nearly if not wholly corrected.

Why not put the liquor traffic into private hands and under government control, making the manufacturers and dealers pay for their own regulation and pay into the United States Treasury the $2,000,000,000 tax as of old, thus saving in the disgraceful failure to control the traffic, expelling the "bootleggers," correct the evils, and letting those who must drink "booze" pay for their folly the money we now call "the income tax?" G. A. MORRERY.

Information Valuable

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 22.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In Sunday's Times I was surprised to see on the Literary page an article entitled "Old Volume is Political Mine." "A book worth more than its weight in gold," etc., in reference to the "Political Text-Book of 1860," by Horace Greely and John F. Cleveland.

Now I happen to be the owner of one of those books in a good state of preservation, so I naturally "sat up and took notice." It is true I have never seen another copy of the book, but had not dreamed it was so rare or valuable. However, that is not the first information of value that I have received through The Times, for all of which I am duly appreciative. OLIVER B. STEEN.

False Economy

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 21.—[To the Editor of The Times:] In voting the minimum wage bill from $10 to $16 a week the Arizona Legislature thought it a wise act to be liberal with the purse of the employer so as to be in favor with politics of the women.

Now, what difference does it make between a tax on sales and the imposition of the minimum wage?

The high cost of living will never be helped by it, as it will hit those businesses that employ considerable help, the laundries, the 5 and 10-cent stores, as well as department stores and others.

Not the employer, but the purchasing public will feel the pinch.

In this case "self-preservation is the first natural law," a thing the Legislature never learned. B. G. SMITH.

CITY WILL ASK PLAZA STATION

Move of Strategy Ordered by Council

Effort is to Place Roads in New Position

Grade-Crossing Fight Also is Included

The City Council yesterday instructed City Attorney Stephens to make application before the Interstate Commerce Commission for the Los Angeles union terminal at the Plaza and for the elimination of grade crossings identical to the program of the State Railroad Commission that was blocked by adverse decision of the State Supreme Court.

Mr. Stephens, who appeared before the Council, said he sought to make such a move as a matter of tactics, since, if granted by the Interstate Commerce Commission, it would put the railroads in their opposition to the union terminal between two fires and have them "going and coming."

Councilmen Mallard and Allen held that, since the State Supreme Court only held that the Railroad Commission had exceeded its jurisdiction in ordering the terminal, and not the grade crossings, it would be better to divorce the two issues, but both acquiesced and voted to authorize Mr. Stephens to go ahead with the point program as he proposed.

The City Attorney said that if the two things were separated now the tactical advantage of having the Interstate Commerce Commission make an order identical with the State Railway Commission would be lost, and that this would be a quicker way of getting at the matter than by appeal of the original case. He said that assurance had been given that the Interstate Commerce Commission would deal promptly with the matter and he expected a decision perhaps within ninety days. He said the matters could be divorced later if it seemed best, and gave assurance that he would always seek advice from the Council on matters of policy.

STAKE BRINGS FINE HOME

Son Makes Strike in Oil and Court Gives Parents Property Claimed by John S. Sankey's Executor

A $500 stake, given their son before he made his strike in the Texas oil fields and became wealthy, grew yesterday into a luxurious home for J. F. Sankey and his wife, Mary I. Sankey, by a decision of Judge Elliott Craig in Superior Court.

Judge Craig awarded the couple, who are getting on in years, property at 960 Third avenue, which had been claimed as part of the estate of John S. Sankey by F. P. Lieuallen, the latter's executor. John S. Sankey died at Fort Worth, Tex., in November, 1921, supposedly a millionaire, but Federal income and inheritance taxes threatened to eat up most of his estate.

MENTIONED IN WILL

Because he had mentioned the property at 960 Third avenue in his will, leaving it to his father and mother, the executor sought to take possession of it, despite the fact that the elder Sankeys had a deed to the property signed by their son. The suit resulted.

Sankey testified that the son, after various unsuccessful ventures in oil, in which he had lost heavily, applied to his parents for aid. "We gave him $500, all we could scrape together," said the father, "and he went back to Texas and finally made a lot of money; they said it was about $1,500,000. He told us he would see we were taken care of the rest of our lives and he bought this home and gave it to us.

EXECUTOR STEPS IN

"Then the executor came along after John died and said there was about $800,000 of Federal taxes to pay."

The excutor said the deed given the parents was void for want of consideration, but the father's story convinced Judge Craig to the contrary.

Sankey, the son, purchased from Eva Tanguay her Hollywood home and lived there with his wife. He died suddenly.

Burial Service Conducted for James Rogers

Funeral services for James A. Rogers, 51 years of age, who died Monday morning at his home, 802 South Normandie avenue, were conducted Wednesday at 2 p.m., in the First Baptist Church. Dr. J. A. Francis, pastor, officiated.

Mr. Rogers had been prominent in this city as a contractor and builder for more than twelve years. He was born in 1872 in Grand Chenier, La., and spent most of his boyhood in New Orleans. In 1901 he was married to Miss Hettie Millard of Kentucky and went to Mexico as a mining contractor.

After his return to this country he lived in Washington, D. C., for three years. Moving to Los Angeles in 1910, he rapidly attained prominence as a contractor and builder. He was also interested in farm lands in Southern California.

Mr. Rogers was prominent in Masonic circles, being a Knight-Templar, a member of the Scottish Rite and a Shriner.

He leaves a widow and one son, Miller Rogers, 15 years of age. Burial was at Forest Lawn Cemetery. Pallbearers were: Dr. J. Walter Gray, N. Kos, Perry Bacon, Elmer Salmon, W. H. Fine, John Austin, John Kleinteter and Col. Bardeman.

TITLE CONTEST BOON TO STAGE

Legitimate Plays Growing Popular With Revue

"Times" Event is Exceeding All Expectations

All Southland Clamoring to Win Cash Prizes

Picking titles in the Play-Goers Revue, now running in The Times is becoming such a popular pastime that if Will Shakespeare were here to look things over he would be likely to proclaim that he knew what he was talking about when he said: "The play's the thing."

The ranks of those who would share in the $8500 prize list by the simple process of choosing titles for the daily pictures now appearing in The Times are increasing far beyond all early calculations. It's a good thing the Play-Goers Revue doesn't require an actual theater for presentation; they would have to scrape off the wall paper to get the people in!

Interest in plays of the legitimate theater is receiving a tremendous impetus as a result of the Revue now in progress. While no doubt the majority of participants are actuated to a considerable degree by the mercenary impulse of carrying off one of the seventy big cash prizes, there is behind it, too, a strong fascination for things theatrical. The educational value of the drama is recognized by all; the entertainment derived from it affords to most of us the proper balance that makes life worth while.

OLD PLAYS REVIVED

In the Play-Goers Revue many of the well-known plays for a generation or more back are in effect revived. The calling to mind of play titles and fitting them to daily pictures printed in The Times is providing people of the Southland the greatest diversion ever offered by any newspaper.

The pictures are not scenes taken from plays, nor do they have reference to plots. Only the cities are meant, and the object of participants in the Revue should be to submit the highest number of best titles.

For this reason it is obvious that three titles should be selected for each picture. Participants should safeguard their interests by doing so. Moving picture titles are not possible—only titles of plays that have appeared on the legitimate stage. Of course, quite a number of plays have been produced in moving pictures bearing the same titles, but the revue concerns only the legitimate or speaking stage.

For the convenience of participants The Times has published the "Book of Plays," containing almost 1500 titles. These are arranged alphabetically and by referring to this list it becomes an easy matter to select three titles for each picture, and arrange them on the title coupons in the order of the participant's choice.

The "Book of Plays" is in such demand that a second edition has been made necessary. It is on sale at 10 cents a copy at The Times main office and branch office, 611 South Spring street. A copy will be mailed anywhere postpaid upon receipt of 10 cents in coin or stamps.

MUST PAY IN ADVANCE

The only requirement in competing for one of the seventy cash prizes offered in the revue is to send in either a three months' or twelve months' subscription to the Los Angeles Daily and Sunday Times. It may be either a new or renewal subscription, and must be paid in advance. It should be borne in mind that all subscriptions are to be sent direct to the revue department. In no case should payment be made to the Times' agents or to carriers, as the subscription must accompany the title answers submitted at the close of the revue. If sent before the close an auxiliary receipt is issued by the revue department to return with the title answers, showing that the subscription already has been paid.

Anyone wishing to participate in the Playgoers Revue and try for a cash prize may start picking titles any day. If any of the previous pictures were missed, duplicates may be obtained free of charge by communicating with the Revue department of The Times. Full details of this fascinating entertainment, together with today's new picture, appear in an advertisement elsewhere in this issue.

Turn to it now and join the crowd of title pickers.

Taking of Vows May Free Nurse in Escape Case

Roselle S. Smith, nurse, accused of aiding the escape of Betty Arnold, asserted drug addict, from the County Hospital, may avoid prosecution by entering a convent, Dep. Dis.-Atty. McDaniels said yesterday when her case was called for pleading in Superior Court before Judge McCormick. If she carried out this expressed intention, the deputy said, the case would be dropped. Judge McCormick continued it until the 8th inst.

WIFE FEARS SPOUSE

Charges in Maintenance Suit He Threatened to "Brain" Her

When Harry Clarke voiced the opinion that it would be a good thing if his wife were to "fall and break her damn neck," he but came to the climax of a long series of abusive remarks, Mrs. Maud Shalor Clarke declared yesterday in a separate maintenance action filed in Superior Court.

"Every time I come near you I feel like choking you," Clarke said once, and another time declared he didn't mind taking her mother and father out riding, but did object to taking her, Mrs. Clarke averred. He threatened also to "brain" her, objected to her going to church, saying it was only hypocrisy on her part, and once actually attacked her, being prevented from choking her by her mother's loud cries for help, according to the complaint.

Mrs. Clarke declared her husband makes $300 a month and has property in Vancouver, B. C., and in this city. Her attorneys are McComb & Hall.

LUCKY YOUTHS

STAR HAS TWO PROTEGES STUDYING TO ACT

By Grace Kingsley

There are two lucky boys in the picture world, or at least on the fringe of it. They are Roy Yost and Harry Hill. Both are proteges of Charles Ray. Both are later to have their chance in pictures.

At present Yost is a sort of glorified office boy at the Ray studios in Hollywood. He came one day to apply for work as an actor, waylaying Ray in the alley back of the studio as the star got out of his car.

"But you've got to go through the mill, the same as the rest of us!" explained Charles Ray.

"Why, I have," answered the boy naively, "I've been trying to get into pictures for six weeks!"

"Well, will you work first as a boy around the lot, doing errands, playing extras, etc.?" asked the star.

"Sure," said the boy, "that is, if you'll let me dress up like an actor."

So every day Roy dolls up in make-up and a Miles Standish period suit of clothes, and he is proving so bright that he is going to be promoted to playing extras and bits pretty soon.

The other boy is Harry Hill. He came one day to Ray's house in Beverly Hills—had been tramping all day, he explained.

"I don't see all your pictures, Mr. Ray," he explained to the star. "That made a hit with me," commented Ray in telling about it.

"I saw you in 'The Tailor-Made Man,' though," the boy went on, "and I said to myself, 'Well, if that young fellow could get ahead on his nerve, maybe I can too!'"

"What could I do after that?" said Ray with his boyish smile. "But I'm not putting him ahead too fast. I'm having him work around my garden at home, and help us out a bit there. Don't want him to go ahead too fast for fear it will turn his head. But he has done a lot in amateur theatricals, and later on, I'm going to give him his chance."

Wait for Barbara LaMarr

Some people are popular, but it remains for Barbara La Marr to achieve the ultimate, professionally anyway, in popularity. Miss La Marr has been chosen to play the leading feminine role in the screen version of "Captain Applejack," and she actually has them waiting for her.

"Captain Applejack" is to be a Louis Mayer production, with Fred Niblo directing. Both Mr. Mayer and Mr. Niblo decided that Miss La Marr was admirably suited to the leading part, that of a Russian dancer, but Miss LaMarr is working at Goldwyn Studios in the Rupert Hughes feature "Souls for Sale," which will not be completed for some few weeks. Niblo was scheduled to start working on "Captain Applejack" at once. But to sure were Messrs. Mayer and Niblo that nobody else could play the role that they decided to hold up the production until Miss La Marr has finished in the Hughes picture.

Mary Nash is now appearing in the stage version of the play, and it is to Miss Nash's role that Miss La Marr is assigned in the picture.

Duncans Come Home

Having signed up with Universal, William Duncan and Edith Johnson returned yesterday from New York. The contract begins March 1. It is possible that Vitagraph may exercise its right to the services of the Duncans during the present month, in which event they will make one more feature for that firm.

Rosemary Theby Signs

Rosemary Theby was signed yesterday to play the vampire role in Edwin Carewe's production of "The Girl of the Golden West." Miss Theby will have one of the four leading parts, her role being that of Nina Micheltorina.

Doubles for Extras

Bull Montana has such a reputation for strength, that the other day, following a big bullfight scene in which he worsted some dozen extras or so, the employment bureau was surprised by receiving a call from Hunt Stromberg, Bull's producer, asking for "forty extras and an extra double for every extra!"

Ten Stars in Row

No less than ten comedians, each of whom has previously been starred in his or her own productions, have been engaged for the all-star cast of Halperin Productions latest breezy comedy-drama, "Tea With a Kick," which Erle Kenton is directing. The funsters are Doris May, Victor Potel, Zasu Pitts, Harry Mann, Gale Henry, Billy Franey, Earl Montgomery, Chester Conklin, Hank Mann and Dot Farley.

Farmer-Actor

Roy Laidlaw, retired Goldwyn character actor, has given up his life on his Kansas farm to play one more role for the screen. He arrived here this week after Director Wallace Worsley had combed the country for him. The farmer-actor is playing the role of Maitra Charmolie in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame," which Worsley is directing for Universal with Lon Chaney as star.

"I had positively given up pictures," declared Laidlaw. "The only connection I retained in the past two years of my retirement has been when I paid my little 30 cents to see our neighborhood show, amateurs, country store and everything."

As soon as he finishes his role in this picture, Laidlaw will return to his farm with Mrs. Laidlaw and their baby daughter.

Concerning Seena Owen

Seena Owen is reported to be one of the stars who will sign with Samuel Goldwyn to appear in one or the other of his proposed new producing units. Miss Owen has just finished a picture called "The Go-Getter," the last on a contract.

FROM BALTIMORE

Mahlon Hamilton, prominently cast in Goldwyn's version of Sir Hall Caine's novel, "The Christian," which is now playing at the California theater, hails from Baltimore. He had an extensive stage career to his credit before going into films. He has acted leading roles for most of the big producers. One of his biggest hits was in a previous Goldwyn picture "Earthbound."

CONTRACT ENDED

RUTH ROLAND MAY DECIDE ON FEATURES

By Edwin Schallert

Her contract for serials with Pathe having been completed, there is a possibility that Ruth Roland may now transfer her interest to features. It is generally reported that she has been strongly considering this change. Miss Roland states, herself, however, that as yet she has no definite plans for the future.

"Since the completion of my contract I have been sick in bed with a cold," she stated last night, "and I have had no chance to go ahead with any of my plans. I have not made up my mind as yet regarding my future picture work."

Miss Roland's contract with Pathe was completed last Saturday. She has been making serials for them for several years. She has an independent fortune, accumulated through her successful dealings in real estate and finance, so her film future is not a matter of dollars and cents with her.

It is probable that she will not decide on her film future for several weeks, although the impression now exists that the balance will be in favor of features rather than serials.

Laurel With Roach

Stan Laurel, who appeared in the comedy "Mud and Sand" for Metro, has been signed by the Hal E. Roach organization, and will start his career with them making one-reel comedies. Laurel was formerly a member of the same vaudeville company that brought Charlie Chaplin to this country. He has heretofore been appearing on the screen in Metro releases.

Formerly in Films

Allen Connor, who is playing the juvenile lead in "Now and Then," the Kolb and Dill production, was formerly a film player at the Famous Players-Lasky Studio. He paid a visit to the studio this week, and shook hands with many of his former friends, including Theodore Roberts and Gloria Swanson, among others. He has been attracting a great deal of favor in his musical comedy work.

Kathleen Key Mix Lead

Playing leading lady in a new Tom Mix picture is the current occupation of Kathleen Key, who made a pleasing impression in "Where is My Wandering Boy Tonight?" when it showed some time ago at the Symphony theater. Jack Ford is directing the production.

Chaplin Hastens Film

Charlie Chaplin has started cutting the Edna Purviance starring picture, temporarily titled "Destiny." Actual shooting has not yet been finished, but Chaplin is speeding the work on the picture—Probably in anticipation of the culmination of his present romance.

Martindel Ill

Edward Martindel, character actor, is suffering from an attack of 'Kleig eyes." It came on him while he was enacting a role in "The Eleventh Hour," starring Shirley Mason. He has been absent from the studio, and Director Barnard Durining has changed the shooting time in order to prevent too great a loss of time.

Between Engagements

An announcement is promised in a few days as to the future fate of Kathryn MacGuire, who has just finished her contract with the Sennett Studios. Miss MacGuire appeared in a number of comedies and in the feature, "The Crossroads of New York," for the Sennett organization, and has lately been lent out to several feature organizations She appeared in "The Lass o' Lowries," starring Priscilla Dean, and in "The Woman in Bronze," with Clara Kimball Young, among other pictures.

Kathleen Gets Oil Money

Kathleen Clifford is on the way to becoming an oil magnate. The second producing well on her property at Signal Hill is reported to have recently begun flowing.

Incidentally Miss Clifford has been signed for a Christie comedy, doing the "boy" role, which made her popular in vaudeville.

News From East

Miriam Battista will appear in the child role in "A Fool There Was" on the stage.

Hedda Hopper, stage and screen player, has gone abroad for six weeks' vacation, before commencing a new film contract.

Party for Mae Busch

Frank Mayo and Dagmar Godowsky (Mrs. Mayo) gave a supper and box party with Mae Busch as guest of honor on the occasion of the opening of "The Christian" Sunday night. Miss Busch plays the part of Glory Quayle in the feature, which is showing at the California theater.

POSTPONE OPENING OF GRIFFITH FILM

D. W. Griffith may after all not be able to attend the Los Angeles premiere of his new ten-reel production "One Exciting Night" at the Mission Theater, because the premiere has now been postponed another week on account of the success of Mabel Normand's "Suzanna," which is entering its seventh week here.

Griffith intended to remain over in Los Angeles for the opening. However as the producer is expected to come through here sometime next week it will be impossible for him to wait long enough for the showing of "One Exciting Night" as no one knows just exactly when it will be staged.

DANCE CONTEST TONIGHT

The fastest one-step dancers in Southern California have assembled for the whirlwind dancing contest at the Cinderella Roof tonight, and from reports some smart "made-in-Los Angeles" dancing will be introduced, namely "The Hottentot Canter" and "Henderson Whirl." This is all preliminary to the big "Hottentot Handicap" race which is scheduled for next Tuesday night, in compliment to Douglas MacLean's screen version of Willie Collier's stage success now at the Kinema Theater.

RICH WIDOW WILL MARRY EASTERNER

Mrs. Tomblin Announces Her Engagement to Connecticut Manufacturer

Announcement of the approaching marriage of Mrs. M. Marie Tomblin, widow of the late John Wesley Tomblin, Los Angeles, to August E. Rickerbacker, wealthy Connecticut shoe manufacturer, was made yesterday by Mrs. Tomblin, who also stated that she will leave within a few days for New York to attend to a business matter.

The "business matter," according to Mrs. Tomblin, concerns the settlement of an estate involving more than $1,000,000 absorbed to have been made over to her by a man she is said to have married almost three years ago, but whose name has never been made public.

Following their wedding in the East, Mr. and Mrs. Rickerbacker will make a tour of the Southern States, according to Mrs. Tomblin, and will then return to Los Angeles to build a fine home at Beverly Hills.

According to information given The Times yesterday by Mrs. Tomblin, she was previously married to a multimillionaire, a widower of New York, but the marriage was annulled three days after the ceremony. The husband of three days later remarried, according to Mrs. Tomblin.

Mrs. Tomblin said that her second husband settled a large estate upon her and that an agreement was entered into not to divulge the name of the man she had married. Upon signing certain papers, later, Mrs. Tomblin was to become possessor of the estate and her newly acquired name was to be dropped.

Mr. and Mrs. Tomblin lived in Los Angeles for twelve years at 720 West Twenty-eighth street. Mr. Tomblin was a member of the Chicago Stock Exchange and a banker. Mrs. Tomblin is a member of the Ebell and the Wa Wan clubs here and also a member of the Immanuel Presbyterian Church. She says she has donated a $60,000 pipe organ for the new Immanuel church of which Dr. Herbert Booth Smith is pastor.

"I have been waiting for years to get a chance to live in California," Mr. Berkshire said yesterday. He will have his office in connection with A. E. Burnett, inspector of the Los Angeles immigration district, in the Federal Building.

Diet and Health

By Lulu Hunt Peters, M.D.

Author of "Diet and Health, with Key to the Calories"

I, I, I: I, MYSELF, I
THE HISTORY OF ME BY ME

Chapter XLIII

COLIC

Here we are with colic again. Some people might think I was spending altogether too much time on this painful subject. But I know the mammas won't and I am sure the babies won't. For of all the ordinary tragedies of babyhood (and fatherhood and motherhood, I'll state) colic ranks first.

But, mammas, I want to warn you again not to think everything we may have is colic. Sometimes we babies suffer with other things. However, if we are not cold and wet, and have no open pins trying to ingratiate their points into our tender bodies, and if we have no fever and are not fearfully famished or fearfully furious (because we have been taught that that is the way to get what we want!) and if we are gaining our four to six ounces a week—if we haven't these "ifs," then you can safely say that if we yell like a Comanche Indian and draw up our legs and our tummies are hard and distended, then we probably have colic.

Last week I gave you the chief causes of colic. If you missed my talks of last week and a week ago on colic you can have them by sending to our doctor. (But doctor says to remind you that you must address the envelope to yourself and stamp it or she cannot send you the information you ask for.)

I shall repeat today what to do for the attack at the time. Then if your baby has repeated attacks, you must find out which one of the causes I gave you is responsible for it and correct that. I know you will do so, for I know you will not want to be spending your nights and days with a miserable, unhappy baby.

Calomile, annise and cinnamon tea are old-fashioned remedies that mammas used to give. They do not do any harm and sometimes seem to help. Sometimes a drink of warm water with a pinch of baking soda or a half of a soda mint tablet will bring up the gas if it is in the stomach. It acts really by combining with the hydrochloric acid of the stomach and forming more gas, but when that comes up the other tags along.

If the gas is in the lower intestine a warm enema, made with a small cup of warm water with five to ten drops of turpentine or one-half a teaspoonful of salt, will bring the gas away. But enemas are not good for babies every day, mammas. Some mammas and some nurses (who ought to know better) give baby an enema nearly every time it cries. That is very bad.

If you will rub the abdomen gently with a circular motion, beginning on the right side low down, going up toward the stomach, then down on the left, it may help the gas to move along. Another thing you can do is to put baby on his back, bend his knees and press them gently on his abdomen several times. That opens up the lower bowel and gives the gas a chance to escape.

We must be kept warm and it is a good plan, after doing these other things, to put us on our tummies over a hot-water bag with a flannel cover.

If your baby suffers much with colic, mamma, you had better see a baby specialist so he can determine the cause and then you can correct it. The fault, as I have told you, may be due to your own errors of diet or habit. One thing you must not do, mammas, is to give babies soothing syrups and other drugs yourself. If you baby suffers so much that he needs medicine, then your doctor will prescribe it and watch baby.

One of the causes I gave was gas germs that get in the intestines. You will have to see your baby specialist about this and have him tell you how you can change the food to make them disappear.

Now I hope we shall be through with colic for a whole. Au revoir.

LOS ANGELES CENTER OF ART

A. Phimister Procter, Sculptor and Painter Comes from Sacramento to Establish Studio

Seeing Los Angeles as the art center of America and believing that this city is rapidly becoming the cultural parlor of the world, A. Phimister Procter, internationally famous sculptor and painter, arrived here yesterday from Sacramento to establish one of the most elaborate studios on the Pacific Coast.

The new studio will probably be in Hollywood, according to Mr. Procter, although it is possible it will be established near Exposition Park, in which district many noted artists and are exhibitions are finding homes of exquisite beauty.

"I really haven't had time to look around yet," said Mr. Procter and he added with a smile: "Judging from what I hear of the growth of Los Angeles, it's going to take me quite a while to look the town over.

"It's different from what it was thirty years ago. There's hardly anything here now that was here when I first rode into this city, on horseback, thirty years ago—and on the other hand there are a multitude of fine things here now that were not here at that time. This time I came in on a cushioned seat in an auto. Oh, what civilization does to us—as well as for us! However, we can't keep our groves and plains forever, wandering about on the breast of Mother Nature like the fawns of the olden forests."

MISSES OLD DAYS

"But oh, I miss the old days!" sighed Mr. Procter. "We lived in those days—did things as well as dreamed them. No, maybe we didn't accomplish much in some ways, but didn't we have a good time? I rode here on horseback from Colorado, in which territory I had just killed a grizzly bear and a bull elk. I was 16 years old then—and you're mighty old when you're 16.

"However, I still love the Old West, for it's still colorful, grand and beautiful. I have a studio in New York, but I think—yes, I'm pretty sure—that I'm going to settle in Los Angeles, for this city is becoming the great art center of the country."

Mr. Procter, who is a member of all the important art societies of the East and who has gold medals obtained for exhibits at all the recent national exhibitions, as well as for sculptural exhibits at Paris, brought with him from Sacramento many fine bronze casts and has sent to New York for a score of bronze works which will be shown here within a short time.

STATUE OF ROOSEVELT

Last year, at New York, Mr. Procter finished the statue of the late President Roosevelt, which he started at Sacramento more than two years ago. The statue was made for Dr. Henry Waldo Coe of Portland, and was recently dedicated at Mr. Coe's home, the exercises including the singing of a song the words of which were composed by Ben Hur Lampman.

Another work of extraordinary interest to both artists and to students of American history is a large statue of an old-time circuit rider, which Mr. Procter recently finished in plaster and which has been sent to New York to be cast in bronze. The bronze cast will be sent to Salem, Or., and placed on the capitol grounds, the gift of R. A. Booth.

Mrs. Faris to be Laid at Rest Next Monday

Funeral services for Mrs. Alice Hynes Faris, 50 years of age, who died Wednesday at the Chase Diet Sanitarium, will be conducted at 10 a.m. Monday in St. Brendan Church, at the intersection of Third street and Western avenue. Father Sullivan of San Francisco and Father Ford of St. Brendan will officiate.

Mrs. Faris was the wife of William A. Faris of the Fifth Street Store and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Hynes of this city. She came to Los Angeles with her parents from Quincy, Ill. She was married to Mr. Faris in 1915 in San Francisco.

Although a victim of ill health for the last two years, Mrs. Faris was well-known in club and social circles here. At the time of her death, she was living in the Faris home at 341 Arden Boulevard.

She leaves, besides Mr. Faris, her mother, Mrs. G. B. Hynes, three sisters, Mrs. N. B. O'Heran and Miss Edith Hynes of Los Angeles, Mrs. Harry Barrows of Wisconsin, and one brother, Herbert R. Hynes.

Burial will be at the Hollywood Mausoleum.

State Highways Action Is Taken by Local Body

The board of directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce yesterday took action indorsing and approving the recommendations of the road conference held in the rooms of the chamber January 31, as follows:

"The board of directors of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is hereby requested to include the coast highway from Oxnard to San Juan Capistrano in the recommendation of the chamber concerning the completion of Southern California highways.

"The president of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce is hereby requested to appoint a committee of thirteen members, representing each county in Southern California, to wait on the State Highway Commission to find out the attitude of the commission toward completing the roads under construction in the State of California. (The board of directors modified this recommendation, increasing this committee to fifteen to give broader representation.)

"The representatives of chambers of commerce, boards of supervisors, and Automobile Club of Southern California, assembled in this road conference, do demand of their representatives in the State Legislature that they use every effort to bring about completion of the three transcontinental highways entering Southern California and the coast highway."

TRAIN HITS HIM; YOUTH UNHURT

Little Thing Like That Doesn't Faze Young Carl Moore

When a fast Santa Fe passenger train struck Carl W. Moore, 18 years of age, late yesterday at the railroad crossing on North Main street, the youth is said to have been thrown thirty feet in the air, to have turned three somersaults, and landed on his head fifty feet away from the point of contact.

"Where's my cigarette?" he asked Police Sergeant Ross and Officer Kuykendall, who, witnessing the accident, rushed up to gather up the pieces.

At the Receiving Hospital, Police Surgeon Charles Francis Sebastian was unable to find even a scratch on the youth's body. Even his hair, carefully combed and saturated with a stay-where-you-put-it tonsorial product, was unruffled, though a trifle sandy.

Young Moore is employed as a timekeeper for the Standard Oil Company and lives at 4006 West Seventeenth street.

Brother's Body Found by Man Near Railroad

Face down, near the Union Pacific railroad tracks at the intersection of Noaks streets and Sunol Drive, the body of B. P. Stadler, 30 years of age, 4809 Lovett street, was found last night by his brother, Dewey Stadler.

Deputy Sheriffs Johnson, Conley and Harrington were summoned and declared Stadler died from natural causes. No wounds were found on his body and a sum of money in his pockets showed he had not been robbed. The body was taken to the French & Sons undertaking establishment, 3819 East First street.

Stadler left his home to get some fence posts from the Union Pacific right-of-way, which he had been given permission to take, it was stated. He leaves a widow and three small children.

DR. MILLIKEN TO SPEAK

Dr. Robert A. Milliken, president of the California Institute of Technology, will give a lecture on "Church and Science" before Congregational ministers at 10:30 a.m. next Monday at the parish house of the First Congregational Church at the intersection of Ninth and Hope streets. The meeting will be open to the general public.

Why Not Feel Youthful—and Be Beautiful?

Science Offers You Lyko, the Great General Tonic to Give You Health, Strength, Attraction

Men who win in business and women whose beauty and charm make them popular in society are invariably healthy people. It is health which gives the vivacious spirits, the sparkling eyes and the attractive personality which brings success and makes friends.

Thousands of people have awakened to the importance of keeping the body in normal condition and have found wonderful help in Lyko, the great general tonic.

Take, for instance, Mr. Mitchell Murray, well known in northern Missouri. Mr. Murray writes, "When I began to take Lyko I was so weak I could hardly walk across the room. Now I am able to do a pretty fair day's work and my neighbors are surprised at the effect."

Mr. W. L. Lawler of Alabama says: "This is one of the greatest tonics for vitality, digestion and liver trouble. A general rebuilder for run-down persons. It made me an entirely new man at 58. I feel like I am only 30 years of age today."

These are only two out of the multitudes of letters from grateful people who have restored their strength and energy by the aid of Lyko and who recommend it as the best medicine they have ever used to restore the system to its normal healthy state.

The amazing power of Lyko quickly build up run-down people due to the fact that it acts on all parts of the system. It is a great medicinal general tonic compounded from pure medicinal ingredients, each of which has its own special properties.

One of these ingredients is a laxative but efficient laxative which cleanses the bowels and keeps one free from constipation, another ingredient beneficially acts on liver and kidneys and a third aids digestion so that the body absorbs the full strength from the food, another steadies the nerves and helps to overcome sleeplessness, irritability and nervous depression. There is not an ailing part of the body which does not feel the benefit of Lyko.

If you suffer from the effects of overwork or worry; if you have headache, constipation or kidney trouble; if you are ailment; if you lie awake nights; if you that energy and spirit which wins success and popularity, put Lyko at work in your stomach and vitality flow here and you will feel like new. Lyko is sold by reliable druggists. Ask for it today.

The Aristocrat of Foods—

Lettuce, traces its "lineage" back to the banquet tables of the Roman Empire. Julius Caesar erected a statue to the "wonderful health-giving plant."

Lettuce is valued even more highly today because it is known to be rich in the magic vitamines and because the tender, crisp leaves are made far more delicious by the Aristocrat of salad dressings, the perfect mayonnaise. Made of new-laid eggs, the finest of oils, the most delectable seasonings, after a recipe a Caesar might well envy—Gold Medal delights the connoisseur and proves a revelation to those who have tried only the ordinary dressings. PLEA IS SENT TO CONGRESS

German Labor Unions Would Avert Disaster

Declare Occupation of Ruhr Will Bring Ruin

America Alone Can Save, is Tenor of Appeal

[BY CABLE AND ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

BERLIN, Feb. 1.—Organized German labor, speaking for more than half the population of the German republic, views the American Congress as the logical tribunal to which to address an appeal, declaring that "American honor asserted at this time can save us and the world from the inevitable disaster."

This is the keynote of a message, which was forwarded to Washington this afternoon, carrying the signatures of the chairmen of the executive boards of the General Federation of Trade Unions, the Federation of Christian Labor Unions, the League of Clerical Employees and the Independent Federation of Liberal Trade Unions, which embraces a registered membership of 12,000,000 male and female workers.

OUTCOME OF OCCUPATION

Labor's action is the direct outcome of apprehensions with which the situation growing out of the occupation of the Ruhr is viewed by the federation leaders, regardless of their political affiliations, and the telegraphic appeal to both houses of Congress is a briefly and informally worded message recalling the German workmen's willingness to submit to complete disarmament and their prompt readiness to adopt a democratic constitution in return for the American promise that right and justice should prevail in the postwar adjustments.

The labor leaders assert that their action was undertaken independent of any influence from official sources, which, it was stated, would first learn of the appeal to the American Congress in case it was reported back from Washington. Neither has the German press been appraised of the unique procedure.

"We decided to go straight to the official representatives of the American people with our appeal, and preferred to dispense with official or diplomatic intervention," Paul Grassmann, vice-chairman of the general federation's executive board, informed the Associated Press.

"The message was drafted this morning at a joint session of the executive heads of the four federations, and it represents the feeling of alarm with which labor already is contemplating the situation after three weeks of the Ruhr occupation. There is something more than the fate of the Ruhr Basin at stake. If Germany is still a land of apparent order and organization it is only because the dozen cool-headed men in charge of organized labor's ranks have prevented the workers in all lines from becoming dangerously restive."

Redlands Has Silver Jubilee for Charities

[LOCAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

REDLANDS, Feb. 1.—Twenty-five years ago today Dr. J. H. Williams, pastor of the Congregational Church, called together a meeting at which time the Associated Charities was organized. This morning he presided at the silver jubilee of the association which in those twenty-five years has brought relief to 10,000 persons.

Rev. E. S. Lane, rector of Trinity Episcopal Church, spoke this morning on "Giving." Miss Ruth Fish in her report said 933 people were helped the past year, 3000 quarts of milk and 2500 garments were given in relief. May Day baskets were taken to the County Hospital patients. Thanksgiving baskets were given to seventy-five families and 200 stockings were filled for children at Christmas.

Officers elected were E. M. Lyon, president; K. H. Field and Mrs. Ben Hodge, vice-presidents; Mrs. J. P. Fisk, secretary and J. O. Riddell, treasurer. Those with Miss Mary Cornwall, Miss Mary Crawford, Mrs. A. W. Dike, Mrs. Robert Herold, Mrs. Leland Lyon, Miss Estelle Shepherd, Mrs. J. A. Stewart, Mrs. G. G. White, F. H. Clock, F. C. Hornby, Rev. E. S. Lane, Rev. G. F. Langford, R. W. Lodge, and E. M. Montgomery form the board of directors.

REWARD OFFERED FOR MURDEROUS BANDITS

[EXCLUSIVE DISPATCH.]

VENTURA, Feb. 1.—Within half an hour after Clinton Putnam died, the sum of $1000 had been raised in Ventura for the arrest and conviction of the boy's slayer. Putnam was shot down by two bandits when he refused to open the till at the gasoline station where he was employed. Bullets passed through his lungs and he lingered for two days.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Putnam, who lost their second son Lawrence but a few weeks ago.

YOUTH STRUCK BY AUTO NEAR DEATH

Struck by an automobile at the intersection of Forty-first and Hoover streets, last night, Milton Jepson, 725 West Forty-first street, was taken to the Receiving Hospital suffering from a basal skull fracture, which Police Surgeon Dodge declared might cause his death. C. B. Johnson, 1247 West Seventy-seventh street, driver of the machine which is said to have struck Jepson, in a report made to the University Police Station, declared that the youth jumped from a moving street car directly in his path.

Herron Chosen Campaign Chief for University

Mark Herron, Deputy United States Attorney, was yesterday named to the temporary chairmanship of a group of University of Southern California alumni, organized for the purpose of uniting alumni sentiment for the $10,000,000 endowment and development campaign of the institution. Mr. Herron will immediately begin the active organization of the alumni on the campaign.

Mr. Herron announced that the rating of the National Association of Universities places U.S.C. on an even basis scholastically with Yale and Harvard in the East, and definitely establishes the high character of the liberal arts college.

"The growth of the university during the past few years has been so great that many of the alumni are not familiar with the strides which have been taken," declared Mr. Herron. "It is our purpose to acquaint the alumni with the remarkable standing of their alma mater. After this is done we shall form an organization to help put the campaign over the top."

POWER NEEDS OF WEST TOLD

Contractors' Convention is Given Facts

Huge Development Necessary to Offset Gains

Seasonal Contract Awarding Declared Mistake

Louis C. Hill of Los Angeles, yesterday addressed the delegates to the national convention of the Associated General Contractors of America, on the subject of "Hydraulic and Hydroelectric Works in the West."

The subject has been constantly brought before the attention of Californians, and has commanded, and is commanding, a great deal of interest, for it is of vital importance to the industries of the West.

Mr. Hill said, in pointing out the increased demand for hydro-electric power in the West, and the development which will probably be necessary in the future.

"In 1902 the per capita use in California alone was about 100 kilowatt hours per year, and the average for the United States was in the neighborhood of thirty kilowatt hours per year. In 1910 this had risen for the United States to about eighty-five kilowatt hours per capita each year, and for California to 500 kilowatt hours per year. In 1922 the United States demand had gone up to nearly 500 kilowatt hours per year.

HEAVY REQUIREMENTS

"In order to meet the demands of California alone it is necessary to develop about 100,000 kilowatt hours more each year. This means an average yearly expenditure of not less than $20,000,000. Of this amount machinery will absorb not more than 15 per cent.

"Practically all of this power is being developed by streams draining the west slope of the Sierra Nevada Mountains. The time is approaching, however, when the available power from these sources will be exhausted, and other sources must be tapped to supply the needs of this one State.

"Power as a by-product of irrigation was first developed on a large scale on the Salt River project in Arizona, when an 11,000-kilowatt plant was built at Roosevelt and three smaller plants at drops in the canal system in the valley below. In this State until recently no attempt has been made to utilize this by-product. At the Don Pedro storage dam on the Tuolumne River, built to store water for the use of the Modesto and Turlock irrigation districts, a power plant is now being built to utilize part of the available power. The dam was constructed by the forces of the districts."

TELLS OF PROJECTS

Mr. Hill went on to tell of several projects destined to develop power as a by-product of irrigation, and concluded his speech by saying:

"The storage capacity of the Boulder Canyon reservoir which it is proposed to build in Arizona, will be more than ten times as great as that of the Elephant Butte reservoir, which at present is the largest in the United States. The Boulder Canyon dam will be operated first for flood protection for the lands below it, second, for the purpose of irrigation, and third, for power.

"It will be possible to generate 600,000 horsepower of base power by the construction of the proposed dam. The transmission distance from Los Angeles is not far from 300 miles. The total yearly kilowatt hours which could be generated may reach nearly 5,000,000,000. The cost of the dam, power plants and transmission lines is estimated at $100,000,000. With the growing needs of Arizona, Nevada and California this great output would soon be absorbed."

"As you can see, even in this small section of the country, there is much interesting work in prospect."

Another talk which commanded interest was that of A. F. Johnston, who spoke on "Continuous Lettings."

URGES NEW SYSTEM

Mr. Johnston asserted in his speech that it was highly desirable to do away with the present system of letting out contracts for construction work during the first three months of the year alone. He pointed out that the introduction of a system of contract awarded at all seasons of the year would promote efficiency, economy to both the builder and the owner, and aid materially in solving the country's labor problems.

Sam Hotchkiss of St. Louis spoke on the consolidation of crafts in the building trades.

He held that consolidation of trades was desirable; that the work of brick mason, bricklayer, plasterer could be done by one man, thereby eliminating the problem which has confronted builders as a result of the nation-wide shortage of tradesmen) and affirmed that by such a consolidation greater efficiency and general satisfaction could be attained. He arraigned the wage-plus bonus system, declaring that it is responsible for a great deal of the unrest of labor, and concluded his address with an appeal to the Associated General Contractors to launch a campaign for the purpose of teaching the boys and mothers of the United States that the wearing of overalls need cast no stigma on a man.

OFFICERS ELECTED

Officers were elected during the afternoon session of the convention for two of the divisions of the association.

L. L. Rogers of Rogers Brothers, Los Angeles, was elected to be chairman of the highway division; N. F. Helmers of St. Paul was elected vice-chairman.

John R. Wiggins will serve next year as chairman of the building division, and W. F. Creighton of Nashville will act as vice-chairman.

The boy ran away from home June 1, 1921, for a reason his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Oliver T. Moore, could never understand. There had been no family trouble and the boy was considered a fine lad with excellent habits and character. Search for a trace of him has continued without intermission.

His parents are heartbroken and have appealed to readers of The Times for aid. They have had descriptions of him broadcasted by radio also, and would appreciate any information regarding the boy's whereabouts.

MANY LOCAL MAGICIANS IN MEETING

"Black Art" Exponents Celebrate Birthday of Oldest Living Professional

Members of the Los Angeles Society of Magicians and a host of friends and admirers packed the hall of the Masonic Temple at the intersection of Third street and Western avenue, last night to celebrate the eightieth birthday anniversary of Horatio G. Cooke, the oldest living magician in the world.

Those taking part in the impromptu program were A. H. Shirk, Max Ascher, Matt Martin, David M. Roth "World's Greatest Memory Expert," F. G. Thayer, Larry Grey, "The Dizzy Wizard," and Miss Marguerett Anson, vocal soloist, assisted by Mrs. Dana Walden at the piano.

The program was closed by Mr. Cooke performing the "Chinese Linking Rings," the oldest trick in the world by the oldest magician.

Harry Cooke, as he is professionally known, was born in Norwich, Ct., Feb. 1, 1843. He enlisted in the Civil War at the age of 17 and was appointed an independent scout by President Lincoln.

He was widely known in the Army for his ability to escape from rope ties and while at Alexandria, Va., just before the Shenandoah campaign, he was summoned to the office of the Secretary of War in Washington.

In the presence of President Lincoln and Gens. Sherman and Hancock, he demonstrated his ability as an "escape artist" and as a token of appreciation, President Lincoln presented Mr. Cooke with a $2 bill that he still possesses.

His skill in escaping from rope ties later saved his life and that of his comrades when he was captured by a band of Mosby's guerillas and sentenced to be shot.

After an eventful life in the Army, Mr. Cooke went on the stage as a magician and for forty-one years devoted his time to the expose of fraudulent spirit mediums and until the time of his retirement in 1907, was one of the foremost in this line of work.

At the close of the performance, refreshments were served and Prof. Cooke was presented with a gold life membership card by his fellow-magicians.

RIVERSIDE RELIEVES JAIL CELL SHORTAGE

In view of the reported house shortage in Southern California, the information conveyed to U. S. District Judge Bledsoe yesterday by Dep. U. S. Dist.-Atty. Herron that there are a number of vacancies in the Riverside County Jail, ought to relieve the pressure somewhat.

The Los Angeles County Jail has been crowded for some time, and violators of the liquor laws have been sent to the jails of Imperial, Orange, San Bernardino and Riverside counties. So great has been the rush for accommodations in these places that it was contemplated to send some of the offenders to more distant points. But the report that there are thirteen cells in Riverside awaiting occupants, ought to help some, the court believes.
